Force plans expansion despite money problems

At a recent meeting of the Coalition for Youth Task Force of the Baltimore Area Council Boy Scouts of America, it was disclosed that the Council is facing grave financial difficulties.

In addition to having funds cut by the United Fund of Central Maryland by $50,000, the Council has also fallen behind in its fund-raising efforts. Scout executive Irwin Scullin approximated that the Council is $130,000 behind where it should be in fund-raising efforts.

Despite these difficulties, the Task Force plans to continue and expand in its efforts to reach Baltimore area youth. The Task Force plans to direct their attention to 37 major neighborhoods through the end of the year. Critical attention will be given to the Armistead Gardens, Brooklyn, Cherry Hill, Fairfield, Harlem Park, Pigtown, Walbrook and West Arlington areas.

The Force is seeking to become more involved with Baltimore area youth. They are dedicated to pulling juveniles out of the streets and involving them in the Scouts for the betterment of themselves and the community. As Dr. Samuel Banks, who presided over the meeting stated, "Busy hands and minds have little time to become juvenile statistics."

The Task Force also seeks to recruit more adults interested in helping the youth. They have gained the interest of Ms. Eileen Lewis, prevention specialist with Baltimore City Juvenile Services, who stated that she has knowledge of some 1400 cases of juveniles who need involvement in a program like Scouting.

up the road and get out of out of the car. The man took us through the woods like he knew where he was going."

The defendant testified they were left alone in the woods and the white man ran, leaving the money with them after he heard an explosion.

Townes is employed as a machine operator at $54 a day. "My job took care of me each day and I had no reason to rob a bank," the defendant told the jury.

However, Townes did tell the jury he was convicted of bank robbery in 1952 and served eight years out of a 20-year sentence.

The defendant, who is on parole until 1979, further testified, "I am telling the ladies and gentlemen of the jury the truth."

According to police the three defendants were arrested after a massive manhunt conducted by a combined force of federal agents, county and state police around 12:40 p.m.
