Health Dept. picnic precautions

The Baltimore Health Department warns all persons who may take advantage of the summer weather by having picnics and other outings to observe these eight precautions against salmonella and staph poisoning:

1. Always wash hands before handling food.
2. See that all perishable foods are refrigerated below 45 degrees.
3. When food is to be cooked, heat so as to destroy disease causing germs inside.
4. Prepare food at the scene of the picnic.
5. If salads are to be taken, choose only those with vinegar. Do not take turkey, chicken or meat salads or custards.
6. Do not put fruit juices in metallic containers, rather in glass or ceramic ware.
7. Keep cold foods cold and hot foods hot.
8. Heat home canned foods 10 to 15 minutes.

Only two branches out of the 1,700 in the nation exceeded the $6,000 freedom fund contribution of the Baltimore Branch.

They are the Beverly Hills Hollywood Branch which gave $13,493 and the Florida State Conference gift of $10,000.

Patterson case still No. 1 story

Photos and story By Cynthia Grandison

Reverberations from the School Board decision to fire this city's first black superintendent, Dr. Roland Patterson, will be longlasting.

Now two weeks old, the memory of the event is still fresh in many minds.

"I think it's a continuation of 'the system' the way it has been. Dr. Patterson and educators like Mrs. Sizemore of D.C. are people black youths can use as a guide" said Marvin Harrington, 32.

"I have mixed emotions. I think it could have been done in a more democratic way," said Paula Tull, 26, teacher of junior high students.

A student's view was given by Cynthia Tull, 17 of Western High School:

"I don't know the reason for his being thrown out. I don't see a difference in the running of the school system now than when the superintendent (Dr. Patterson) was in."

• • •

"More than race, it was a matter of a man being independent and not catering to the Board," replied Yvonne Wilay, 28, who took time out from tennis to talk with the AFRO.

She added, "He did not play the 'role.'

Eighteen-year-old Lamont Carter commented, "I think it shows what you really call racism. They fixed him because he wanted to desegregate schools."

COOL AND CONCENTRATING — AFRO photog Cynthia Grandison caught these gentlemen playing checkers under the shade of a tree on Edmondson Ave. J. T. Henry (R) was jumping his opponent Richard McCray's men right and left across the board.

Senior citizens are first to benefit through the state Circuit Breaker law

The portion of the Maryland Circuit Breaker law which went into effect July 1 concerns senior citizens.

The bill has two other phases:

Effective July 1, 1976 is the portion which will cover all property owners. Effective July 1, 1977 is the section which will cover all persons who rent property.

Youth, 15 gets 50 yr. sentence

"The accused may in years be a child, but the offense he committed is not the act of a child."

Criminal Court Judge David Ross made the above statement this week before sentencing a 15-year-old boy to 50 years for beating and attempting to rob an 81-year-old woman.

Court records state Donald Knight of the 800 block E. Preston St. was given the maximum term for beating and attempting to rob Mrs. Margaret Dawson, 700 block E. Preston St. last Sept. 11.

• • •

Mrs Dawson died Dec. 18 of a brain injury.

Court records reveal that Knight and another youth beat Miss Dawson with their fists and pieces of wood after breaking into her home. Knight demanded money and Miss Dawson gave him 80 cents.

Assistant State's Attorney Stephen Tully told the court when Knight demanded more money, Thomas McGee, 15, stated, "I am going to make her talk." McGee is now awaiting trial.

Aug. is Open House month for desegregated schools

August will begin a month long session of Open House and Orientation meetings in the city's junior and senior high schools which will open their doors under a desegregation mandate in September.

Although the desegregation plans for the 23 junior and 17 senior highs have not been finalized, school staffs are going ahead with preparations for more than 11,000 students who will be shifted to new schools.

Through joint efforts of school personnel along with parents and community groups, various programs have been set to enable students and their parents to meet faculty and get acquainted with the new facility.

• • •

Plans are still being coordinated in Regions I, II and V.

A two-part program scheduled for WMAR-TV will be sponsored by Region III in cooperation with the Community Mental Health Association.

Maryland Coalition hits Patuxent $200,000 study

PAUSING for a drink after his evening jog around Druid Park Lake is Engineering Draftsman Marvin Harrington, 32, who also gave his opinion on Dr. Patterson's firing.

The Maryland Coalition Against Patuxent (MCAP) has learned that Maryland officials are considering a proposal to grant $200,000 in federal (LEAA) funds for an "independent" study of Maryland's Patuxent Institution.

The study would be supervised by the Maryland Department of Public Safety which is the parent cabinet agency for Patuxent.

MCAP is strongly opposed to such a study for numerous reasons. First, the proposed study cannnot be independant.

This is so not only because of the conflict of interest represented by the fact that Patuxent's parent agency will supervise the study, but by the additional and more extreme conflict in the fact that one of the first contenders for direct supervision of the study is recently retired Patuxent board member Dean Robert Roy.

Further, MCAP says it thinks that the proposed study is a unique combination of insult to the intelligence and injury to the pocket book of the citizens of Maryland.

It seems grossly absurd to grant, in a time of major economic crisis, $200,000.00 or any amount of money to study, independantly or not, what is perhaps the most studied and overstudied institution in Maryland, the group says.

Inquiries, studies, investigations and reports on Patuxent have been issued in a steady and increasing stream ever since Patuxent opened.

Investigative pieces by local state and national professional and popular publications and media, tens of thousands of transcript pages and scores of opinions of local state and federal courts, reports to and of individual legislators, legislative committees and both houses of the legislature and a host of other resource materials are available as evidence-evidence which has led progressively to calls for change of limitations against and finally abolition of Patuxent by individuals, courts, media, citizens groups and, this year the Maryland House of Delegates.

Finally, MCAP charges that this proposal constitutes one more in a long series of dilatory tactics by state officials who are trying to prevent a final accounting by the legislature of the monetary and moral efficacy of this institution which has wasted so many tax dollars damaging so many human lives.

The Maryland Coalition Against Patuxent at 1000 W. 36th St. Baltimore, has phones open, 301- 539-5340, ext. 234 or 301-270-3014, for information.
