Orchard-Biddle team plays first game tonight

By Greg Logan

During the summer, thousands of youngsters crowd urban areas, many times frustrated over the lack of something constructive to do.

In Baltimore this summer is particularly frustrating, since no large scale job program was incorporated under the Ford administration.

Many urban youngsters have turned to crime as both a money making source and an outlet of their frustrations.

Without such programs as Baltimore's PAC (Project Area Committee), which channels the youngsters' energy into constructive sports programs (basketball for this summer) there may have been many more young black people arrested this summer.

THE PAC program is year-round and is sponsored by businessmen around the Druid Hill area, who paid for the team's basketball uniforms and entry into the Project Survival Urban Services 1975 Summer Basketball League. John Murdock is program director.

The team is composed of 10 boys from the Orchard-Biddle area, which is bound North by Biddle St., South, Fayette St., West, Myrtle Ave. and East, Eutaw St.

The area consists of historical sites such as Seton Hill, Arena Playhouse, Mother Seton's House, the AFRO-AMERICAN newspapers building, and the Orchard Street Church.

It is also close to the Lexington Street Market.

The boys making up the team, which call themselves the Orchard-Biddle PAC, are:

Ernest Walker, Reginald McCoy, Jimmy Dyson, team captain; Kenny Lewis, Lee Davis, Gus Corbin, Spencer Brown, Keith Early, Gerald Carter, and Tyrone Boykins.

The PAC program is directed by William Perkins. The team secretary is Linda McKnight. Gary Henson serves as the team's chairman.

The group practices at the George Murphy Homes Recreation Center.

The Orchard-Biddle PAC is also in the process of forming a softball team, and is seeking transportation to and from the games.

Their first game will be played tonight, Friday, against the Cotton Club at 9 p.m. and Saturday against McDonald's Broadway at 4 p.m. at Madison Square, Eden and Biddle Sts.

COLT NITE WINNERS — No matter how the Baltimore Colt rookies and some veteran players come out on the football field against the Washington Redskins, Saturday night in Memorial Stadium, youngsters like these from the Police Boys' Club and Scout troops will be the real winners. They benefit from proceeds of the game sponsored by Buddies, Inc. It's going to be a full-fledge game for the first time this year in addition to the picture-taking and autograph opportunities that will be presened prior to the game. Some of the big-name stars will be in the stands to accommodate the fans, according to Ed Vinalcombe, president of Buddies, Inc.

Colt-Nite to be big event with Redskins as guests

Saturday is (July 26) Colt-Nite game between the Baltimore Colts and Washington Redskins will be an important test for the Colts rookies in their quest to stay in the National Football League.

"It's important that our rookies make a good showing Saturday night," says head coach Ted Marchibroda. "They've already had a scrimmage and now this game, under full game conditions, will give them an excellent chance to show us what they can do."

The game, sponsored by Buddies, Inc., and played for the benefit of the Baltimore City Police Boys' Clubs and Scout Troops, will be played by rookies and some veterans of the clubs and include kickoffs, punts, punt returns, tryouts, etc.

The evening's events will begin at Memorial Stadium with a 6:30 p.m. autograph session for the fans.

Marchibroda plans to start second-year quarterback Bill Troup of South Carolina and rookies Roosevelt Leaks and Marshall Johnson of Houston in the backfield.

Leaks, the Texas fullback who finished third in the Heisman Trophy voting as a junior in 1973, has shown no signs of the celebrated knee injury he suffered in the spring of his senior year.

Maryland quarterback Al Neville is expected to see action with former teammates Phil Wagenheim, Frank Russell and Bob Smith. Wagenheim will do all of the punting.

"We've been installing about five running and passing plays each day and the same number of defenses," says Marchibroda in assessing the Colts training camp work at Goucher College.

"We'll be able to present a balanced attack Saturday night, which you obviously need to win. And we are entering the game with winning in mind. That's what this team needs and that will be our chief goal throughout the pre-season.

Tickets, priced at $2, will be available at the gate Saturday or in advance at the Colts Memorial Stadium ticket office and from all Baltimore City police officers.

All seats are unreserved.

Emlen Tunnell, ex-Giants star

EMLEN TUNNELL

PLEASANTVILLE, N.Y. (UPI) -- Emlen Tunnell, star of the famed N.Y. Giant "Umbrella Defense" of the 1950s, died of an apparent heart attack at the team's training camp Tuesday night.

Tunnell, 50, was stricken in his dormitory room at 11:45 p.m. and apparently succumbed immediately.

During his brilliant National Football League career as a safety man, he set four league records which still stand. He played 11 seasons with the Giants (1948-58) and three more with the Green Bay Packers (1959-61.)

His records are 79 career interceptions, most punt returns (206) and most yardage on both interception and punt returns.

Tunnell, who played football at the University of Iowa and while in service with the Navy, was not scouted by the Giants. He merely walked into the club's offices and asked for a tryout. He went on to play in the All Pro Bowl seven straight years.

A member of the Pro Football Hall of Fame, he was named to the 30th anniversary All-NFL All-time team.

* * *

When his playing days were over at Green Bay, he joined the Giants as a scout in 1962. He was an assistant coach from 1965 until last year, when he was named assistant director of personnel.

At the time of his death, he was attending a meeting of all Giant scouts at the camp.

In the '50s, he was a key figure in the Giants' then new defensive pattern, called the "Ubrella." With him in the pattern were Otto Schnellenbacher, Harmon Rowe and Tom Landry.

He is survived by his widow, Patti.
