R.S.V.P. With Marie

By Marie P. COOKE
Reflections Editor

Surely it must have been a joyous occasion for James and the late Marion Dyett when their baby son, Leroy, arrived on July 19 a few decades ago. It was a time for celebration and they did. But the celebration hasn't ended, at least not in the past few years.

The honoree's wife, Ann, has seen to that. She plans a birthday party for him each year — each new one far surpasses the ones in the past. She says the annual affair allows him to see most of his friends, an opportunity he doesn't get during the year. So on Saturday night, beginning at 8 until 4 a.m. Sunday, Leroy Dyett got to see 541 of his friends in the privacy of his own home.

Not only did he get to see folks he's befriended during his lifetime, but also he saw his one-and-a-half-acre Groveland Ave. property turned into a magnificant site—deep, dark, mysterious Africa. The theme, chosen by his mate, carried with it breath-taking motifs created by the highly talented George Taylor.

Guests entered theparty via the house where they were greeted by Mrs. Dyett, draped in nearly a dozen yards of yellow, blue, pink and white Creaa, designed into a one-piece strapless African dress by Hannah of Baltimore. A toga, consisting of five yards of fabric was attached. A matching headpiece by Nell Shridan gave her a "queenly" look. The honoree's dashiki, also by Hannah, was in blue and green and had a headpiece of the same.

Guests entered the party via the house where doors where they found themselves on a carpeted area which surrounded the swimming pool. Almost without motion, a manmade island sat on top of the water. On it were tropical flowers, many of which were imported from various parts of the world, and trees. Unbelievable was a glass cage which held real, live birds — doves, love birds, pishees.

Poolside decorations, all of authentic African art, included statues, shields and drums. Hanging baskets of flowers were at every pollow which circled the pool. At the left was a six-foot fresh fruit tree holding all kinds of tropical and domestic citrus. But the African decor didn't end at the pool.

The theme was carried out in the ajoining Japanese garden where live peacocks and doves, Bird of Paradise (flower of Africa) and varied tropical plants were combined into eye-catching creations.

Most of the guests were found on grounds where the bamboo and burlap-draped dance floor was located. Tables laden with food held a vast assortment of homemade delicacies. A 60-lb. roast of aged beef cut in an African motif was surrounded by another 90 lbs. of the same, cooked to the taste of guests . . . rare to well-done. Whole hams, along with some 90 lbs. of spareribs and a menu of at least a dozen other dishes were all prepared by the hostess.

Many of the 541 guests came to Leroy Dyett's birthday party dressed in African attire. Here, the Rev. and Mrs. Stewart Turner (Eve) posein original designs.

If the details described above weren't enough to make one think he was really in Africa, then the Kaholid Dancers of Harlem Block Arts and Claude Hubbard Band with soloist Liz Fararrizo did. Dancers showed their talents during an hour-long program. Guests then danced to the vibes of the band and singer. Near sunrise, remaining guests took dips in the pool.

The entire setting was original including the African tribal birthday cakes which sent out flames. It, too was created by Mrs. Dyett and Mr. Taylor.

Guests came from far and near for the celebration. Many were housed at nearby hotels while others stayed at the Dyett home. Traveling the longest distance were African students, Sergia Kalo-Kobadobo and Gatta-Karama, Peter Boye Amporfol and their interpreter. They are currently on tour of this country.

Aloha Pool Party out Randallstown way, an evening of delight.

That's exactly the way it was at the Rayton Rd. home of Trudy Edwards on Saturday. She and her friend, Michon Williams, invited friends and relatives to "a gala evening at poolside."

Over 250 guests came from all directions and sat or stood on the spacious lawn to chat and admire the Hawaiian decor the hostesses had arranged.

There were lighted white doves and artificial flowers on the pine trees that ran the length of the back yard. The fence alongside the yard was decorated with multi-colored paper flowers.

On the front lawn was a tree decorated with paper flowers. There were lighted lanterns of various colors stretching from the side of the house to the trees.

Colorful balloons and candle-lit tables added to the atmosphere.

Other highlights: A float of flowers in the pool and luau signs in the yard added the Hawaiian touch. Even the suckling pig which graced the table of goodies was gaily decorated with pineapples and candies.

There was a magician show for the kiddies by Herbie and music for listening and dancing by Lonnie Parker Enterprises.

Hosts were the intendeds of the hostesses, Peter Jackson of D.C., and Edward Wiggins of Baltimore.

For the evening, Trudy was stunning in an orange colored one-piece swim suit with a hugh green rose at the front. When the sun went, she changed to a long, backless, floral print.

All the hostesses were gifted with flowers made by Michon. Guests received the Hawaiian leis.

Michon wore a floral bathing suit with a yellow cover and after dinner donned a two-piece floral print ensemble, black background with orange and brown flowers.

The hostesses had thoughtfully arranged about 25 torches all over the yard which kept the mosquitoes away and made dining outside a delight.

Relatives about were Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey, Silver Springs; Mrs. Irene Dabney, New York; Mrs. Ruby Brown, Darlington, S.C.; Albert Bruton, D.C.; Carl Johnson and family, D.C.

Other out-of-towners included, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Falks, Seat Pleasant, Md.; Mrs. Mary L. Watson, D.C.; Mrs. Alice Torricate and son, New York; Mrs. Brenda Smith, D.C.; Ken Morgan, Hyattsville, Md. and Charles Grady, D.C.

'My Signs Are Killing Me' wins contest for Mrs. Day

By Majorie R. Geen
AFRO Correspondent

Latest word in from Toronto, Canada is that "Our Girl," Verna Day has won the International Toastmistress contest with her award winning speech called "My Signs Are Killing Me."

The speech was based on the word "Zodiac."

We will have more exciting things to tell you about the contest when Mrs. Day and members of the Woodlawn Toastmistress Club return.

Winning the International title couldn't have happened to a better person.

Girl Scouts conference directress hails from the Monumental City

ANN Arbor, Mich. — Are there ways to make the world a better place in which to live?

This is a question for which 24 U.S. Girl Scouts and 26 Girl Guides from 14 foreign countries will seek answers as they participate in their own International Women's Year conference.

Sponsored by Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., the conference, July 20 through 31, at Concordia Lutheran Junior College in Ann Arbor, Mich., will focus on the same theme as the United Nations' International Women's Year conference in Mexico City — "Equality, Development, Peace."

Sandye Wilson of Baltimore, conference director, said the goals of the Scout/Guide conclave are to "examine the roles of women in various aspects of society to decide what makes a workable community, and to discover ways in which Girl Scouts and Girl Guides can help in the

SOMERSET TEACHER

'Miss Cottie' leaves system after 36 years

School is out for Mrs. Ethel S. Cottman after 36 years of service in the Somerset County public school system.

Recently, she watched the last bus depart. On that day many good-byes were said and tears sometimes mingled with warm embraces as seniors bade "Miss Cottie" goodbye. Her English students remembered her with a beautiful gift.

* * *

In addition, the entire faculty gave a surprise luncheon at the Mt. Vernon Inn in her honor. It was also attended by Acting Superintendent George F. Carrington.

She was cited by the Somerset County Teachers' Association (TASCO) and received a beautiful silver tray from the Washington High School faculty.

"This was an occasion for the heart to remember," she said.

* * *

Mrs. Cottman, a native of Delaware, is the daughter of Mrs. Hattie M. Stewart and the late Kirkwood Stewart of Concord, Delaware. She received her B.A. degree from Delaware State College, and she also did undergraduate work at Virginia Union University, Richmond, Va.

She earned the Master's equivalent after studying at Temple University in Philadelphia, Pa. She also studied at Salisbury State College and the University of Rhode Island.

"In addition to her duties as a high school teacher, Mrs. Cottman taught English and English Methods at the University of Maryland, Eastern Shore for 14 years.

* * *

She has served as a Consultant at Bowie State Teachers College, doing special work in speech choir activities. Through the years Mrs. Cottman has served on numerous county and state committees, working in the field of English and education.

Mrs. Cottman has worked in the field of journalism since 1954. In 1962 she did additional study in journalism at the University of Rhode Island after receiving a Wall Street Journal Fellowship.

The first paper she edited was the Greenwood Recorder of the former Greenwood High School in Princess Anne. Many articles from this paper were selected for publication in the Pennsylvania Echo, a paper which featured the best of high school writing.

She taught journalism at Washington Senior High School from 1969 until the present. The Washington Recorder was a member of the Maryland Scholastic Press and the International Quill and Scroll.

Many of these journalists became active members of the International Quill and Scroll.

Some of her students have entered the field of journalism.

"Miss Cottie" as she is affectionately called, says she will miss meeting that new "sea of faces" each September . . . but she hopes to engage in some of those activities of which she has dreamed. She hopes to travel and perhaps do a little writing.

She also feels that she will have more time for community affairs.

She is a member of Metropolitan Methodist Church where she serves as chairperson for Education and Secretary of Enlistment.

Mrs. Cottman is the wife of Kermit A. Cottman, Supervisor of Instruction in Somerset County. The couple has two children: Mrs. Kerlan C. Morgan, a librarian in the Baltimore City Schools and Kirkwood S. Cottman, a research chemist for Goodyear in Akron, Ohio.

CATONSVILLE NOTES

Trip to New Market with group of friends

By Liz Williams
AFRO correspondent

Send "get well" cards to Lucille (Eilhana) Washington. She recently returned home, after having eye surgery at St. Agnes Hospital. Also, "thinking of you" cards to "Dr. William (Mina) Garner who is up and about again.

If you want to spend an enjoyable Saturday, plan a trip to New Market, Md., which is not far from Frederick. For those who like antiques, visit "Antique Row" there.

Along with a group of friends, we did that last week and went on from there to a nearby restaurant where the food was delicious and the prices were reasonable. Before and after dinner, we sat and relaxed in the beautiful gardens that surrounded the place. The drive from Catonsville to Frederick is a beautiful one, spring through fall.

People on the go: Mrs. Ida (Emerson) Boston and her sister, Mrs. Fannie (Joseph) Lynch are visiting their sister Mary Margaret (Sidney) Carters in Hawaii. Mary Margaret is working there at the Social Security office.

Grace Improvement Organization of Grace A.M.E. Church left Baltimore/Washington International Airport last Saturday for a trip to Jamaica. Their pastor, the Rev. Reginald Boston was there to see them off. Thomas Jones is the president of the group.

A Golden Anniversary banquet of the Emma Williams Temple No. 358 will be held at Holiday Inn (Belmont) Saturday, July 6 at 6 p.m. Mrs. Mattie mont) Saturday, Jul Mrs. Elizabeth Lane (co-chairperson) Mrs. Jessie Stewadt (daughter ruler, Mrs. Mary Robinson (Deputy), and Mrs. Nellie B. Smith (Grand Daughter Ruler) are heading the celebration.

Send congratulations cards to the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Boston. They are celebrating their 21st wedding anniversary today, friday. The couple along with their lovely family have certainly been an asset to this community and especially to the members of their church.

The Allen gospel Choir of Grace Church will celebrote their second anniversary on Sunday, July 27. They will hold a concert at 4 p.m. at the church.

Featured will be "Gospel through Song" participants include, Sons Of The Cross, St. Stephen Choirn the Johnson Singers, the Youth and Senior Choris of Grace Church, Ragland Memorials, Metropolitan City Choir and Mt. Lebanon Choir No. 2.

Soloist will be John Highsmith. Mrs. Ruth Martin is the president and William Herbron is the vice president. Mrs. Ruth Russell is the chairperson.

A fellowship hour will follow in the church hall following the concert. If you want to hear some good singing besure to be there. Will be looking for you.

You've given me a priceless gift.
