A graduate of Western High School, Baltimore, and Vassar College, Ms. Wilson joined the Girl Scout national staff in New York City in April, 1975.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Anne C. Wilson of Forest Park Ave., and the late W. Llewellyn Wilson II.

"No matter where we live or who we are, each one of us is caught up in the self-same task — that of finding how to live harmoniously on this earth." she said.

The girls and young adults, ranging in ages from 16 to 21, come from states across the nation and from such faraway countries as Brazil, Denmark, Germany, Ghana, Japan Mexico, Pakistan, Sri Lanka (Ceylon), Tanzania Trinidad-Tobago, Greece, Peru and the Philippines.

In conference sessions, they will listen to experts discuss the emerging role of women in public and family life, education, health and nutrition, the labor force, politics and community improvement; and in small interest groups an talk sessions, will share ideas and skills in music, dance, cooking fashions, careers and sports — exploring each other's worlds.

The young women also will produce an "International Women's Year Conference Journal," a mimemographed volume documenting the day-to-day lives of real girls in a variety of cities, towns and villages in the U.S.A. and the world.

After the conference, the Girl Guides will go to the homes of their U.S. teammates for about two weeks to sample American hospitality and work together with them on a local community observation project. Later, when they return to their own countries, they expect to incorporate what they have learned into their own community life.

FABULOUS Dionne Warwicke means business

Beauteous Dionne wants a pretty penny—$5.5 million

By Bryan D. Holt

Famed singer Miss Dionne Warwicke has filed a $5.5 million suit against the songwriting team of Burt Bacharach and Hal David, alleging breach of contract.

The suit was filed Monday in the Superior Court of Los Angeles and stated that the famous team had failed to keep a 1971 agreement to produce one album a year for four years witn the singer.

The agreement was reportedly made after Miss Warwicke ended her long-time, successful association with Scepter Records.

Her association with the company and the team of Bacharach and David yielded such popular standards as "What the World Needs Now Is Love," "Alfie," "I Say A Little Prayer" and several others.

The trio's last commercially successful album was "I'll Never Fall In Love Again" which won Miss Warwicke a Grammy Award in 1970.

She with Warner Brothers in 1971 and, since that time, has released three albums which have only received lukewarm reception.

Her producers have included Thom Bell, who has had much success with artists such as the Spinners and Johnny Mathis, and the team of Holland and Dozier who were responsible for scores of early Motown hits by the Supremes, Four Tops, Martha and the Vandellas and others.

The suit states that songs on Miss Warwicke's first album had been written by Bacharach and David, but that despite several extensions, they had not written the songs used for her second and third albums.

* * *

Though the singer is still regarded in music circles as "The First Lady of Song," Miss Warwicke's career has suffered drastically within the past four years.

Though she is still in demand for appearances in Las Vegas, Lake Tahoe and other entertainment centers, her record career has been restricted to one million-selling record since her association with Scepter ended.

The song, "Then Came You," was recorded last year with the Spinners and became a fast-seller.

Her latest single on the Warner Bros. label is "Take It From Me," which is getting much airplay in discotheques, a new market for the singer who was formerly known as an easy-listening vocalist.

The suit asks $5 million in punitive damages and $500,000 in compensatory damages, claiming that

What's this about G and E over-charging?

Photos and story By Cynthia Grandison

The Baltimore Gas and Electric Co. is suspected of overcollecting $4.76 million from customers for the first six months of this year.

This supposedly stemmed from B. G. / E.'s method of computing the fuel rate adjustment part of some bills.

The AFRO drew comments from several persons on this matter.

"It's a big rip-off —," said Sarah Williams, 28, "I'm glad somebody's trying to look out for it."

She also wondered how they are going to find the exact persons who may have been overcharged.

* * *

Terry Felix, 28 said, "They're the only gas and electric company in the city. They charge what they want. . . ."

He and his friend Ronald Smith, 22, agreed that having meters read when most people are not at home is a bad practice.

"They always give you an estimate and it's never right," he concluded.

* * *

"You don't see them (gasmen) writing it (meter readings) down, so you don't know if that's the right amount or not," said Lynette Rice, 19.

* * *

She suggests this company inform customers of their methods of computing rates through pamphlets sent with bills.

Twenty-eight-year-old Joe Ann had this dismal comment:

"They have the power and the money. We just

YOUTH JOBS PROBE

'Only the tip of the iceberg'

By Bryan D Holt

Del. Richard W. Emory told the AFRO Thursday that the Labor Dept.'s recent report which pointed to wrongdoings in the Mayor's Office, "only touched the tip of the iceberg" concerning the violation of federal regulations in hiring for the summer youth job program.

It was a formal complaint by the delegate made to the department's Manpower Office in Philadelphia last month which touched off the probe that found the mayor's office had invited the Hampden Democratic Club to recruit job applicants.

Mr. Emory, who directed his complaint to City Councilmen Nathan Irby, Clarence (Du) Burns, Mayor Shaefer and the City Council, was disappointed that only the mayor's office was found in violation.

* * *

He stated, "The department is really doing nothing about the situation except slapping the mayor's wrists, which is really too bad."

"Though he's responsible for setting the wheels in motion, Mayor Shaefer really had nothing to benefit. He's only involved because of his position."

Jack Hord, director of Manpower Office of information in Philadelphia said that the complaint lists three specific charges:

1. A political club was used to distribute summer youth corps jobs.

2. Impartial organizations were neither distributors nor recipients of jobs in substantial numbers.

3. Many of the community organizations who did distribute or receive jobs were indeed political.

Mr. Hord stated that no specific party was listed in the complaint.

Manpower Administration officials met with investigators in Philadelphia Thursday to discuss the results of the Milt Allen for state prosecutor?

Former State's Attorney Milton B. Allen told the AFRO, Wednesday, that he has not heard from Gov. Marvin Mandel concerning the newly created position of statewide prosecutor.

Mr. Allen said that he did talk with the governor about the post several months ago before the legislation was even passed.

He has not, however, talked with him since that time.

Mr. Allen did not confirm whether or not the position had been "promised" him by the governor.

* * *

He told the AFRO, "I would like to think that I'm being considered for the position and I plan on applying as soon as the selection committee sets the Retired steel worker shot on Baltimore St.

Police report an 18-year-old girl who was allegedly "dressed as a man," has been arrested and charged with killing a retired steel worker on July 25.

Ms. Melodi Maria Hutson of the 1600 block Druid Hill Ave., was arrested July 28 in the 300 block E. Baltimore St. around 10 p.m. She is now confined to City Jail.

Several witnesses told police they saw what they thought were four men approach Hugh McDonald around 3 a.m. last Friday in the 500 block East Baltimore St. "On the Block."

Police state they believe the four people involved were attempting to rob Mr. McDonald, a resident of Dundalk. However, his wallet containing $12 was recovered by police at the scene.

According to police, Mr. McDonald was found lying on his back at Baltimore St. and Frederick Ave. Police records state Mr.

Cong. Mitchell wants thorough probe of 'police spy' funding

Terming illegal police spyings "a fascist-style police operation," Congressman Parren J. Mitchell has voiced his hope that the General Accounting Office do a "thorough and complete job" into the use of federal funds for such activities.

The congressman was among those leading black legislators who requested such a probe in December.

It was alleged at the time that the Baltimore City Police Department had spied on black politicians, civil rights leaders, clergymen and reporters during the late 1960's and early 1970's.

* * *

Cong. Mitchell told the AFRO, "I am quite pleased that the Senate committee has ordered the GAO to look at the matter of possible illegal use of federal funds for domestic spying by local police departments.

"Several months ago I had written to the chairman of the committee and asked that an investigation into our local police spying be conducted. Attached to my letter were supportive documents, news clippings and other data, which clearly justified my request for the investigation.

"I only hope that the General Accounting Office will do a thorough and complete job."

Citing the issues as "very, very critical," the congressman pointed out that sufficient evidence has already been shown to prove that federal funds were used illegally by the Chicago police for the purpose of domestic espionage.

* * *

He continued, "We cannot permit a fascist-style police operation to deny us our civil liberties.

"I am grateful that the Senate committee has moved properly to this next step in analyzing spying operations conducted by the various local police departments."

Baltimore is only one of several police departments to be focused upon in the probe.

Others named include Philadelphia, Chicago, Houston, and Washington.

An aide to Sen. Charles Percy, however, has stated that ten city police departments may be included before it's all over with.

It was upon Sen. Percy's recommendatin that the investigation was approved by the Senate's permanent Subcommittee on Investigation, Tuesday.

Douglass calls surplus fraudulent, urges rebate

Delegate John W. Douglass, aspirant to the city comptroller's position, last Wednesday accused the city administration of fooling the public and termed the way the city fathers handle public money as fraudulent.

He also called on city officials to rebate the entire $20 million surplus to taxpayers that the city overcharged them last year, Baltimore city, Mr. Douglass claimed, "is not a profit making organization."

City financial experts claim the city had a financial surplus of $52 million at the end of fiscal year, 174-75.

Del. Douglass who is trying to oust Comptroller Hyman Pressman in the upcoming elections criticized Pressman and other city officials of contriving the $52 million surplus.

Critical of the comptroller's alleged failure to keep the city's records in a fashion which meets generally acceptable standards, Douglass labeled "the bananza an election day gimmick" and stated that the funds could have been used to reduce the tax burden on Baltimoreans.

Douglass said the public was fooled by the city financial officials by understating revenue and pleading poverty, then claiming at the year end surplus monies which they knew would have been collected anyhow.

"This is a fraud on the public and taxpayers can blame Mr. Pressman for keeping their tax rate high when he knew there was money in the budget to give them relief," Mr. Douglass stated.

* * *

Standing on the steps of the new city hall Wednesday morning the state delegate told reporters he is not anti-Shaefer but the "surplus is a bad fiscal policy."

Referring to present economic situation, Mr. Douglass stated: "We have just gone through a period of high inflation. Unemployment is dangerously close to the 10 per cent mark

Dr. Patterson's suit Aug. 7

The stage has been set in Federal Court for Thursday, Aug. 7 for the preliminary hearing of the civil rights suit filed by Dr. Roland N. Patterson against the School Board.

The suit charges that the board violated due process of law while conducting hearings to dismiss the former superintendent.

The hearing could result in a restraining order that would bold Dr. Patterson's post open until the suit is resolved.

$51,000 bail for 2 bank suspects

Two men, both aged 20, are being held by federal marshals on $51,000 bail for the robbery of the Pikesville branch of the Maryland National Bank of several thousands of dollars Wednesday morning.

The men, Wallace L. McCarty, 2000 block Barclay St.; and Steve Springs, 400 block E. 31st St., are charged with bank robbery, use of a handgun and kidnaping a woman, identified as Mrs. Gloria London, 40, according to police.

According to County police information director, John Metzger, two men walked into the bank about 10:04 a.m. One walked to a teller and told her he wanted to open an account. The teller directed the man to see the bank manager.

* * *

Police said as the man walked in the direction of the manager he wheeled around with a pistol in his hand and announced a stickup.

Mr. Metzger quoted bank officials as saying the two men then ordered the bank workers and the four customers into the back of the
