—R. S. V. P.—

By Michele L. McRae
Reflections Staff Writer

On a recent Wednesday evening the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Boston were honored at a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bennett and Mrs. Mabel Randall, before departing for a well deserved vacation.

The Rev. Boston is the pastor of Grace AME Church, Catonsville, Md.

About for the evening were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cephas, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Coe, Mr. and Mrs. George Hopewell, Mrs. Fannie Hayes, Mrs. Amy Warden, Miss Mae E. Coe, Mrs. Cleaver Foag, Miss Patricia Boston, Miss Denise Washington and Duke Boston and Wyatt Jarvis.

When old friends recently got together for lunch to talk about why and how they went to Jenkins Memorial Hospital to work . . . the mood was happy and the food was good.

The luncheon was to acknowledge long term employees and to express appreciation for their years of service to the patients at Jenkins. Forty-nine employees who had completed five years of service but had not reached ten received honorable mention.

Employees who had completed ten or more years of service received gifts presented by Sister Agnes Teresa, administrator.

Sister Regis presented a corsage to Mrs. Rose Medley, III who had completed 30 years of service; she could only say she was a mere child when she went to Jenkins to work. Sister Regis also, presented a corsage to Mrs. Nettie Hall who had completed 40 years of service. Would you believe Mrs. Hall went to Jenkins to relieve for a two week period and forty years later she is still smiling as she goes about her daily duties.

Mrs. Lucille Gaines, who has completed 20 years of employment went to Jenkins by mistake. At that time the old St. Agenes Hospital was located right next door, and the buildings did look alike; Mrs. Gaines recalls that she was hired before she learned she was not at St. Agnes. We could call that a mistake which paid off.

Mrs. Christine Gray who has completed 15 years of service when to Jenkins as a Diet Aide. Through hard work and continued education she received her LPN in 1968, and presently is working as the charge nurse on one of the nursing units. There has been romance for another employee with 20 years of employment. John Moore met his wife at Jenkins where she was working at the time. The long term employees can still tell you stories about this courtship. The group of employees honored at the luncheon represented 540 years of combined service to the patients and residents at Jenkins.

Honored for 10 years service were:

Florence Barber, Willie Mae Brown, Margaret Burton, Gladys Chambers, Katie Emanuel, Eldora Finch, Louis Gillette, Clara Gilliard, Inetta Jenkins, Mary Jennings.

Gloria Jerry, Emma Jones, Marjorie Jordan, Eva Kitrell, Juanita Lyles, Sylvia McKoy, Bertha Stith, Carolyn Weathers, Annie Mae Williams, Dorothy Williams, Evelyn Williams.

Cited for 15 years were:

Christine Gray, Annie Suggs, Lula Mae Liason, Sister Regis, Sister Vincentine.

Others honored were:

Lucille Gaines, John Moore, both 20 years; Rose Medley, III, 30 years and Nettie Hall, 40 years.

WOODLAWN HIGHLIGHTS

Vacation spot was Host Farm for SSA employees

By Marjorie Green
AFRO Correspondent

The more we travel, the more convinced we are that the world that we live in is a very small place. It was at Host Farm this past week that we spied Mrs. Mildred Nelson, Dickinson building employee sitting in the lobby of the beautiful dutch country motel. We were vacationing with a group of friends and she was there as a delegate to the Middle Atlantic States regional conference for evening schools.

Traveling in our group were Mr. and Mrs. Vince Blackwell (Rachael, SSA). Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Wallace (Grace, SSA) and former employee, Mrs. Eva Cook, who is now a teacher in the Baltimore school system.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard Dorsey, Washington D.C. drove in to join his class of '41 at the vacation cite. We will never forget and we hope that if you were there that you will never forget the beautiful touching "Gentlemen Jim" response given by Millard at our 25th wedding anniversary celebration last September.

In the mailbox this week was a greetine card from Mrs. Bettye Lindsay. She has been vacationing in Venezuela. Her roommate is another SSA'er. Mrs. Marguerite Thornton.

In recognition of Internation Women's year and the 55th anniversary of women's right to vote, the SSA Federal Women's Program committee featured Sandra O'Connor, Baltimore County States Attorney as their Aug. 19 noon speaker. Mrs. O'Connor, an Indiana Law school graduate presented some very interesting facts concerning criminal law and women.

Member of VOSSA (Volunteers of Social Security Administration), recently met to finalize plans for three summer cookouts to be held Saturday, Aug. 29. The cookouts are arranged for patients at Springfield, Spring Grove and Crownsville State Hospitals.

According to Mrs. Kitty Smith, Volunteer Program Coordinator, more participating volunteers are needed to make these events successful. Volunteers are also being recruited to work at the Baltimore City Fair Friday, Sept. 19 through Sunday, Sept. 21.

Mrs. Della Chisholm, mother of Mrs. Audrey Simmons, recently celebrated her 75th birthday. Age is just a bunch of numbers and in a recent column we mixed the numbers up a little. We apologize.

The Chinese also recorded the first cases of "sensitive teeth" in 2500 B.C. The problem continues, affecting one of every seven Americans, recent surveys show. Modern "treatment" often consists of switching toothpastes to one containing a non-toxic strontium chloride.

The Chinese claim credit for having invented the toothbrush in 1498. Commercial development of toothbrushes began in Europe in the late 1700s.

The woman who wishes to charm her lover should at all costs avoid brushing her teeth in front of him, warned the Roman poet Ovid 2,000 years ago.

A British furniture designer has created a chair resembling an oversized, open pair of false teeth. Unveiled ir London, the invention is dubbed "Choppers Chair."

WEEKS FOOD ECONOMIES

Peaches served —sliced, whole

Peach time is here so get out your favorite peach recipe or hunt some new ones and get started. The family will be delighted when they find sliced peaches on the breakfast cereal or peach cobbler for dessert in the evening. There are many other ways ot use this good nutritious fruit, so buy wisely and serve often, says Virginia McLuckie, food economist, Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland.

Appearance is a good indicator of peach ripeness. Signs to indicate a good peach are fairly firm to firm flesh; free from bruises and blemishes; plump and well filled out; well shaped with fresh looking skin; fresh ground color that is yellowish or white depending on variety; juicy, mellow and full flavored.

Peaches have yellow or white flesh and skins and blusing cheeks. The amount of red color or blush varies according to variety and is not as good an indication of ripeness as background flesh color.

Sort peaches and use the ripest ones first, leaving those that are a little green to ripen at room temperature, away from direct heat or sunlight.

Place peaches in a flat pan or tray one layer deep. Piling peaches on top of each other may bruise them. Store ripe peaches in the refrigerator. Remember the peach you bruise today may be a throw-away tomorrow.

Peaches should be peeled just before using. To prevent browning of fresh peaches, dip peeled peaches in a citrus juice or an ascorbic acid and water solution. Ascorbic acid is the anti-browning agent recommended for use in freezing and canning peaches.

They are about 45 calories in a medium sized peach. Peaches are a good source of Vitamin A and C.

Peaches may be purchased by the pound, basket, or bushel equivalent. One bushel (48 pounds) will make 32 to 48 pints canned or frozen, depending on quality and size of peaches, whether peaches are halved or sliced, how closely you pack peaches in the containers. One pound fresh peaches (4 medium sized) makes four-half cup servings sliced or two eight inch square peach upside down cakes. Two pounds of fresh peaches will make one nine inch pie.

Fresh Peaches Over the Coals

4 fresh peaches, peeled
Juice of 1 lemon
One-third cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ teaspoon ginger

Dip peaches in lemon juice. Combine brown sugar with ginger in small mixing bowl. Roll peaches in mixture, coating completely. Spear peaches with long forks and heat over coals until sugar melts. Serve with barbecued pork.

Makes 4 servings.

MS. DARSENE BAGGETT

Cook scores with chicken

By Ethel Mae Moore
AP1 Food Editor

San Antonio, Texas — Here she is . . . Darsene Baggett, first black finalist in the National Chicken Cooking Contest doing her thing with chicken.

Presiding at the range center as the official representative from the State of New York, Ms. Baggett is pictured cooking Stuffed Chicken Breasts with Cheese Sticks, the dish that won her an all-expense paid trip to San Antonio, a $100 cash prize, a state trophy and a year's supply of sponsors' products.

Looking cool throughout the day-long cook-off, Darsene said the recipe was one she got from a friend and changed the ingredients to make her entry in the contest. Although she did not win one of the top prizes, she scored high.

Ms. Baggett's a natural cook, been interested since high school Home Economics classes and now works as an extension home economist with Rutgers University at Freehold, New Jersey. She enjoys the challenge of teaching homemakers the principles of homemaking, buying, food preparation, etc. She said she was very excited with the contest, found it most interesting and vowed to enter another of her favorites next time.

The contest is sponsored by the National Broiler Council, along with the makers of Ac'cent flavor enhancer and Mazola corn oil. Top prizes awarded were $10,000, $4,000, $3,000, $2,000 and $1,000.

Food clips

The depth of the pan actually makes a big difference in your baking time according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture home economists. Use the appropriate size and number of pans when following a recipe.

Cured and smoked pork requires refrigeration unless stated otherwise on the label. Cured sausages should be wrapped and stored in the refrigerator.

Barbecuing? To maintain even heat when cooking over charcoal— space coals about an inch apart. Add new charcoal around edges and wait until it is glowing before pushing it toward the center.

Does your outdoor cooker have a hood, or a dome? If you line it with aluminum foil it will speed up the cooking process.

Fresh pork sausage is made from ground pork blended with spices and other seasons. It must be cooked before eaten! Do not nibble on raw pork sausage.
