Birthday celebration winding down

The AFRO birthday celebration is winding to a close.

Persons who have birthdays in August, but have not yet sent in their submissions are asked to do so immediately.

The address is AFRO 84, City Desk, P.O. Box 1857, Balto., Md. 21203.

Writers should include a clear photo, information on how long they've been AFRO readers, what columns or features they like or dislike, and what it is they would like to see in their community newspaper.

Here are more readers sharing in the 83rd birthday celebration.

A special tribute goes to Mrs. Charlotte E. Clayton Clark who is only 13 days younger than the AFRO. She was born Aug. 25, 1892.

Mrs. Clark writes, "I shared your birthday for the first time in 1972 and thank God that I am here to share it again in 1975.

"I have been reading the AFRO since my arrival in Baltimore in 1915 and all columns arouse my interest becuase I am a curiosity seeker (smile) and a thorough reader."

Born in Westmoreland County, Va., Mrs. Clark is the daughter of the late George and Mrs. Julia Clayton and a graduate of the Northern Neck Industrial Academy in Richmond County.

As a child, she was baptized in the Potomac River by the late Rev. Newman and was a member of the Potomac Baptist Church.

After coming to Baltimore, Mrs. Clark became a member of the Sharon Baptist Church where the late Rev. William M. Alexander was pastor.

AFRO historians will note that it was Rev. Alexander who was quite instrumental in establishing this newspaper from humble beginnings.

After marrying John T. Clark Sr. and giving birth to one daughter, Mrs. Clark began making strides for black people.

MRS. CHARLOTTE C. CLARK
13 days younger than the AFRO

She writes, "My husband and I finally decided to find our own place of residence and broke the color barrier in 1919 by moving to 1410 Whitelock St. on old Sugar Hill.

"Blacks dared not to move here because they were practically barred from living above North Ave."

Mr. Clark started his own carpentry and interior and exterior decorating business soon afterwards, retiring in 1957.

Although he does not observe a birthday this month, Mr. Clark does send his best wishes. He was born June 13, 1888.

Mrs. Clark writes, "I am quite inspired by the AFRO because it is not biased with the news and it lets the cards fall where they may.

"It also gives me the opportunity to learn more about the functions of my people which sometimes other papers don't afford.

"If more people of my ethnic group would start patronizing the AFRO, within the first week, you would have to find a new building and begin a daily edition.

"Please wake up Baltimoreans and start purchasing the AFRO every Tuesday and Friday so my wish can become a reality in my time."

She is the mother of four and is married to Seaward Morton.

She writes, "I have been reading the AFRO every Tuesday and Friday that my mother has it delivered, especially the movie and entertainment section."

Sharon is a member of the Southern Baptist Church and is a sixth grade student. The AFRO helps her in school studies.

She says "Reading your Negro History section each week is very good and helpful to me in school."
