FIRST WOMAN IN HISTORY TO RUN FOR MAYOR

Mrs. Chandler wants mayor's seat to effect city changes

"I am running for mayor in order to make it better for the people of Baltimore. It's time to challenge the type of thing thats going on in this city.

"People do not want a replay of the present administration and they deserve a choice when they go to the polls to vote for their mayor.

"I believe in the two-party system of government, and do not believe in conceding an election before it is held.

"During the last four years under the administration of the incumbent mayor of Baltimore, William Donald Schaefer, the city has gone downhill in almost every important area, housing, employment, education, health care, law enforcement and public safety."

The words are those of 41-year-old Claudette Chandler, who is running for mayor of Baltimore city in the Republican Primary thi scoming Tuesday, Sept. 9. She is the first woman candidate for mayor in the city's history.

Active in school and community affairs, long hours are not unusual for Mrs. Chandler. But since she began her earnest campaign her day has often extended beyond 16 hours.

She usually has her family on the move and is out on the street at her headquarters or collaring prospective voters before 9 a.m.

"It depends on where we are when we stop. Sometimes when we are at some function, it's one or two in the morning," she said.

How does she do this and rear a family of three and run a household?

Mrs. Chandler told the AFRO, "My family supports the effort because they realize it is not a personal crusade."

She sees her campaign as an attempt "to bring honest into politics and just to get away from this back-room type of politics and crime and corruption. I want to bring integrity and humanity in the political life and government of our city. That is my aim."

Her campaign is indeed a family endeavor. Mrs. Chandler explained.

"The girls are right here. My little boy can stuff envelopes. He wears his sign saying, 'Have you met my mother?' 'Vote for her.'

"He knows how to give out leaflets and shake hands and meet people. It's a family matter."

The daughters to whom she refers are Kym, 15, a 10th grader at Western High; Cleveta, 13, who is in the eighth grade at Greenspring Junior High; and Cleveland, Jr., who is just 4.

Mrs. Chandler is the wife of Dr. Cleveland V. Chandler. He is professor of business administration at Towson State College.

Chandler headquarters are at 2127 Maryland Ave. The phone number is 685-3655. She is seeking volunteer help.

A native of Richmond, Va., Mrs. Chandler is the daughter of the late Rev. Charles L. Motley. Her mother, Mrs. Evelyn Motley, who still resides in Richmond, is a retired school librarian. She has a sister, Mrs. Evelyn Thomas, also in Richmond.

Mrs. Chandler is a graduate of Armstrong High in Richmond, received a B. S. in elementary education in 1954 from Hampton Institute and did graduate study in elementary education at the University of Chicago where she met her husband.

What would she do if elected mayor of Baltimore: Mrs. Chandler says, "If I am elected, I am in favor of an elected school board with board representation and participation by parents, teachers, students, citizens and taxpayers.

"In health care, the life expectancy of blacks in the city of Baltimore is almost ten years shorter than the life expectancy for whites. Why should blacks die a decade, on the average, sooner than whites?

"I would initiate an active public health program to remedy the underlying conditions that contribute to shorter life expectancy and higher rates of disease among blacks and poor whites.

"In public safety and law enforcement, under the present city administration, we have seen violent crimes against persons and properties increase many times."

Mrs. Chandler contends: "Despite heavy expenditures of tax dollars on public safety and police protection, subsidized by millions of federal tax dollars, many citizens are afraid to walk the streets in their neighborhoods even during the daylight hours, and during the nights, most law abiding citizens withdraw behind the barricaded doors of their homes.

"We need a better trained police force and a strong community relations component of the police department, and a Civilian Review Board.

"I would employ these methods to safeguard against corruption in the Police Department, to reduce crime, and to increase the safety and security of citizens in our homes, in our neighborhoods, in the streets, and downtown.

"In general, my candidacy is dedicated to an open, clean, and efficient administration, in which there is full and equal opportunity for all citizens, also an administration from which citizens can expect to receive my utmost concern and attention to public needs and problems."

Mrs. Chandler has been a public school teacher in Baltimore and active in the human and civil rights fight since 1960.

She is noted as an articulate speaker in PTA organizations where she has assumed leadership roles.

She has also assisted her husband in teaching, research, and administration projects at colleges and universities in the state.

The family attends Enon Baptist Church where Dr. Chandler has served as trustee and where she taught Vacation Bible School.

Murphy features in law seminar

William H. Murphy Jr., a Baltimore City attorney, is one of the participants of a six-day seminar being organized by the University of Maryland School of Law Alumni Association from Sept. 11 to Oct. 9.

Each seminar beings at 11 a.m. in the Moot Court Room of the University of Maryland School of Law. The affair is meant to clarify the work of a lawyer and to educate and inspire those who want to be lawyers. The general public is invited.

Panel members for the Thursday, Sept. 11 session include Walter Hairston of Eastern Shore; Judge Redden of Baltimore; and Roy Cromwell of Anne Arundel County.

Ms. Sandra O'connor, Baltimore County State's Attorney is a featured panelist on Thursday Sept. 18 session. Other panelists are Charles Ablard general counsel of the U.S. Army and Steve Orens of Montgomery County.

Thursday, Sept. 25 speakers are Elloyd Lodridge of the Baltimore Legal Aid Bureau; Jim Ellis of the Federal Consumer Protection Agency and Steven Harris, a public defender.

Speakers for Oct. 2 are William Murphy, a private attorney; Sen. John Cordermen of Western Maryland; and D. Clifford Crook 3rd. of Washington.

Participants in the Thursday, Oct. 9 session are Professor Jeffrey Bauman of Georgetown University; Mathias DeVito, president of the Rouse Company; Robert Pinker, vice president of Bond Distributing Company and George Quinn, special agent in charge of the FBI.

2 youths charged

Police have charged two juveniles with shooting and robbery of Mrs. Olivia H. George, 75, as she left a church in the 2000 block St. Paul St. last Sunday.

The two, one 15 and the other 14, are being held in the Maryland Training School for Boys pending a trial.

Central District police told the AFRO the 15-year-old is being questioned for about 28 robberies and burglaries committed within the last two months in the lower Charles Village area.

His 14-year-old friend was released just two days before last Sunday's holdup. The youth was in Montrose after being convicted of a burglary last March.

NOW to sue for women benefits

The Baltimore chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) is joining forces with NOW chapters throughout the country to win multi-million dollar back pay awards for victims of sex discrimination against women by employers who fail to treat pregnancy as a temporary disability for benefits and leave purposes.

NOW has targeted the following companies in the Baltimore area as employers who have refused to pay female employees during the period they are disabled by pregnancy: Lever Brother, Bethlehem Steel, Koppers Company, Continental Can, American Can, General Motors, Coca Cola Bottling Company, Western Electric, Westinghouse, Singer and General Electric.

NOW invites women employed by these companies or other large employers in the area to contact Baltimore NOW, (phone 358-3674) P. O. Box 1862, Baltimore, Maryland, 21203 to file a charge of sex discrimination in order to win illegally held back pay.

Any female employee of child bearing age is eligible to file a charge indicating that her employer maintains continous patterns of sex discrimination by failing to treat pregnancy as a temporary disability for benefits, and leave purposes.

United Fund

The kick-off luncheon for the 1975 United Fund-CICHA campaign is set at noon in the Baltimore Hilton Hotel on Sept. 17.

The affair will include entertainment and reports on early employee and corporate campaigns.

Harvey M. Meyerhoff is general campaign chairman for the Fair Share Campaign.

Rogers convicted in man's death

Judge Shirley B. Jones sentenced Thomas Rogers, 22, to 50 years in prison, for what she described as "one of the most heinous and brutal murders she has ever heard of in the courts."

Rogers, of the 1000 block Argyle Ave. pleaded guilty to participating in the stabbing of Carroll Rodgers, 55, of the 1000 block Argyle Ave. last Sept. 15.

Assistant State's Attorney Francis Sauer stated that Rogers and Clyde Boone, 25, of the 1000 block Argyle Ave. tied up Mr. Rodgers with an electric wire, smeared his face with raw eggs and shaving cream, shaved his hair and then stabbed him with a steak knife.

The defendants told the court they killed Mr. Rodgers because he would be able to identify them if they were arrested.

The two men took the victims television, ring, radio, record player and golf bag. Police report the television was found in Rodgers apartment and he was wearing Mr. Rodgers ring when he was arrested.

VIP to assist Viet refugees

A coalition of voluntary human service agencies has opened an information office to assist Central Marylanders who want to help in the resettlement of Indochinese refugees.

The coalition, known as VIP, for Vietnamese Information Program, has established a local telephone number at 467-8925 to respond to queries from citizens considering the most effective ways they can help those Vietnamese and other Indochinese refugees who will be resettling in the Central Maryland area.

A full-time coordinator has been made available to VIP by the Mayor's Office of Manpower Resources. The coordinator, Robert H. Goodman, will operate a central office for inquiries and offers of assistance from the Central Maryland community concerning refugees needs for housing, food, clothing, furniture, appliances, household supplies, jobs, job training, language training. These offers will be channeled to appropriate sponsoring agencies.

In addition, Mr. Goodman will handle inquiries and referrals from Central Marylanders interested in sponsoring Indochinese refugees.

The VIP coalition includes local voluntary agencies designated as resettlement agents by the national voluntary agencies which have taken on relocation responsibilities and are receiving Federal funds for refugee resettlement.

The national sponsoring agencies represented in Central Maryland include Associated Catholic Charities, Jewish Family and Children's Services, Lutheran Mission Society and Lutheran Social Services.

In addition to the sponsoring agencies, VIP includes a number of voluntary agencies not directly providing sponsorship, but which are supporting the resettlement efforts of sponors. The agencies in the consortium have been developing assistance plans since early in May.

Want to see the coming of fall?

The City Bureau of Recreation is again sponsoring a series of nature lore walks on Sunday afternoons. These walks are through city parks to see the advance of fall and the color changes.

Open to all, on these walks the leader, Edward Cooper will point out interesting trees, shrubs and identify seed pods as the group hikes leisurely through the designated park.

The first walk will be in Cylburn Park, the only park in the city that is specifically for conservation and education. On the spacious lawns and in the woodland are many unusual trees and shrubs. Native wildflowers are found along the woodland trails.

Anyone wishing to join the group is asked to meet with the leader at the leader at the designated place in time for the group to start walking at 2:15 pm on the Sunday indicated in the following schedule.

Sept. 7 — Cylburn Park, 4915 Greenspring Avenue. Meet at the Mansion at 2:15 pm.

Sept. 14 — Sherwood Gardens. Meet at Stratford & Underwood Rds.

Sept. 28 - Evergreen House & Notre Dame College. Meet at entrance to 4545 N. Charles St.

Oct. 5 - Leakin Park. Meet at parking lot on Windsor Mill Rd.

Oct. 19 - Hopkins Campus. Meet in front of Museum of Art.

For information call 396-5642, the Baltimore City Bureau of Recreation, at 1129 N. Calvert Street.
