How many times have you received a prayer in the mail, one which was especially written to you by a friend and said to yourself, this came at the right time?

This week this writer received such a prayer, written by a friend and it most definitely came at the right time. Remember back in mid-December when a group of this town's most renowned black women gathered at Bethel AME Church and presented a program entitled, "The Spiritual Struggle of Black Women Expressed in Drama, Music and Poetry". The following week we (AFRO) ran a full-page feature of the celebration whereby we attempted to tell our readers about the historical event. If you recall, the program was sponsored by the Missionary Department at Bethel and was a benefit for a spiritual center for women.

Well, on Monday, this desk received this message from Cecelia Williams Bryant, wife of Bethel's pastor, the Rev. Dr. John R. Bryant, who is supervising the project:

Praise God from whom all blessings flow!

The depth of sincerity with which you shared your love, your talent, your commitment, will ever remain a source of inspiration for us.

Our dead, our living and our yet unborn must ever keep our souls stirred toward the "high calling" which is in Christ.

We only ask that in your Praying you remember the Spiritual Center for Women, the sisters who share this life struggle with you, and the Spiritual Victory that is sustained through CELEBRATION.

Yours in spiritual harmony,
Cecelia Williams Bryant

If by chance you're interested in finding out more about the spiritual center or would like to make a donation of your time or money, contact Sister Bryant at 523-4273.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger (Monwilla) Edmonds of Baltimore recently marked their 50th wedding anniversary and renewed their vows at Zion Baptist Church. Later the couple received some 200 guests at their 50th St. home. The Rev. R. Moses Williams, who officiated during the ceremony, noted that the Edmonds' are a living example that "marriage, though times are sometimes hard, can work."

Mrs. Edmonds wore a gold dress with matching cape designed by her sister, Mrs. Matilda Clarborne of Petersburg, Va. Mr. Edmonds wore a dark pen-striped suit. The matron-of-honor was Mrs. Mizella Foster who was the original matron of honor when the couple was married at the Springfield Baptist Church in Littleton, N.C. Louis Edmonds was best man.

Residents of Baltimore since 1926, the Edmonds lived on E. Eager St. for many years where they operated the Pioneer Diningroom. They are charter members of the Zion Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmonds are the parents of Mrs. Velma Rainey, Mrs. Margaret Holt, Mrs. Bernice Rankin, Roger Jr., all of Baltimore and Sgt. Louis Edmonds of Colo. There are 14 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Among those present for the golden celebration were Mrs. Virgie Lawson, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Ocam Gray Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson all of Baltimore.

Also, Donald Alston, East Orange, N.J., Mrs. Doris Reed; Brooklyn, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. William Berry, St. Albans, N.Y.; Roderick A. Johnson, Petersburg, Va., and Mrs. Clyde Johnson, Winterville, N.C.

Also, Mrs. Virginia Alston, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. George Mattocks, Mr. and Mrs. Stevie Bowman, Mrs. Martha B. Johnson, Nathaniel Eaton and Mrs. Sedonia Lee, all of Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Tyler (Bessie) of Eldorado Ave. celebrated their 38th anniversary on Dec. 31, as is the custom all through the years with family and friends who helped them to celebrate.

Those who attended were: Mrs. Myrtle Parron, of New York City; Mrs. Elizabeth Sandes, Va.; Lamont Bowden, Va.; Mill Lillian Brown, Mrs. Gertrude Brown, Sylvesta Wiggins, Mrs. Ursula Wiggins, Maryland Brooks, Miss Jeanette Hargrove, Mrs. Lauretta Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. Noble Freeland, Mrs. Ellen Bowden, Mrs. Mildred Hicks, Mrs. Margaret Harrod, Allen Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Frenchon Williams, Miss Vanessa Washington, William H. Waddy Jr., Calvin Brown, Miss Mary Kristy, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Brown, Mrs. Elizabeth Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Brown, and Mrs. Dorothy Hicks.

At the regular meeting of the Master Beauticians Assoc. Mrs. Flossie Brown of East Baltimore was elected president. The group, marking its 40th year, is the oldest active beauticians organization in Md. Mrs. Flossie Brown became the 12th president.

Others elected were Mrs. Olivia Carroll, vice president; William Foster, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Ora Mae Johnson, third vice president; Mrs. Mary Nickolson, recording secretary; Mrs. Marie Cherry, financial secretary; Mrs. Hattie Powell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Rosetta Filghman, treasurer; Mrs. Francine Vincent, sgt.-at-arms; Mrs. Ann B. Robinson, chaplain; Mrs. Evelyn Paige, chairman, Trustee Board; Mrs. Florence Knox, reporter.

MLK bust to be in Capitol

Cong. Paul S. Sarbanes announced that the House of Representatives this week passed legislation to fund a life-sized statue of civil rights leader, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and to place it inside the Capitol.

Representative Sarbanes, who co-sponsored the legislation, said that Dr. King would be the first black American ever to be commemorated in the Capitol.

Columbia Capers

. . . by Pinnie L. Ross

"In one sense, King's life must have been a cruel and exhausting experience. He was the prophet of his time; and like all prophets, he was not accepted.

"It was his destiny to lay open the core of America and expose the segregation, the discrimination, the racism that sickened the body politic and corroded the religious life of America.

"For this, many hated him, many vilified him, many sought to destroy him."

These remarks were spoken by civil rights leader, the Hon. Parren J. Mitchell, member of Congress, (D-7th), at the first annual Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial breakfast.

The affair was held at the American Cities Building and sponsored by the Columbia Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity. County residents came out in great numbers to help celebrate the memorial breakfast and to witness a well-planned program.

Atty. Melvin Blanheim, president of the Columbia Chapter was the master of ceremonies. The invocation was given by St. John's Baptist Church minister, the Rev. Walter Long, after which the audience participated in singing "Lift Every Voice."

Dr. Jesse Paul Clay, vice president of Academic Affairs at Howard University, set the tone for the breakfast when he gave his rendition of "The Impossible Dream."

This was followed by an original poem written by Nathaniel H. Hoff, associate in field service, Md. State Teachers' Association.

(NOTE: I was impressed with the 20-verse poem so much that I am sharing three verses with you in my "Thought for Today.").

Next came remarks from Clarence Bishop, Parren Mitchell's legislative aide. His remarks were in reference to the young people:

PARREN J. MITCHELL gave keynote address at Martin Luther King Memorial breakfast in Columbia.

"Our black youth are our greatest resource, and this nation is suffering from many crises, and that is leadership. We must realize that our young people are our best resource, we have got to redouble our effort."

He warned that if not, Martin Luther King's dream will then be unrealized.

Immediately following the young Mr. Bishop's remarks, excerpts were played from Dr. King's speech, "I Have A Dream." Not a word was uttered, just the sound of the music and voice of the slain leader in the background.

Tears rolled down the cheeks of many in the audience as the speech continued to play. There was evidence of the tears from the sound of clicking of ladies' bags as they reached for tissues.

Mrs. Jean Toomer introduced the speaker, Congressman Mitchell, who received a standing ovation before his speech. The elegant speaker had this to say:

"From the King legacy we have learned the dangers of having one black leader, and he surely will be if he is committed to black people. Then a vacuum is created, a void is made, and we as black people flounder in our leadership."

He said the second event was the celebration of the bicentennial, a 200th birthday that comes in the aftermath of Watergate's corrosive influence, a 200th birthday that was ushered in by exposing the lawlessness in government.

". . . We black Americans should bring the King legacy into the bicentennial. Is factionalism destroying the King legacy of unity and pride and spiritualism?

"We cannot afford the faction against faction, class against class, light skin against black skin, labor against the professional . . ."

A standing ovation was accorded after Ms. Fredericka Mathews gave a melodious rendition of Dr. King's favorite song, "Take My Hand, Precious Lord." famous Morgan State University Choir.

Remarks came from Von Horton, chairman of the Howard County Human Relations Commission. He mentioned that on Nov. 3, the CB38 bill was passed to upgrade the standard of equal rights. "Our intention is to see his dream come true in reality in Howard County.

Remarks continued from James King, president, Howard County NAACP. He urged residents of Howard County to purchase memberships in the NAACP.

What are you doing to help the fight?" was his question. He said the human Rights Bill was not the best one. He welcomed the residents to join the fight.

Techniques for women scheduled

WASHINGTON — Occupational Safety and Health standards are legally enforceable regulations governing conditions, practices and operations designed to assure safe and healthful work places.

Persons in managerial positions may improve their leadership skills and their ability to motivate others by participating in a workshop being co-sponsored by Essex Community College and Harford Community College.

The series of seven sessions, called "Techniques for Women in Management," will be held from noon to 3:30 p.m. on consecutive Thursdays, Feb. 5 to March 18. Each workshop will be held at the Invitation Inn, in Edgewood. The tuition fee of $51 includes the cost of luncheon and coffee at each meeting.

The workshop is designed for women managers, managers-to-be and professional women in supervisory roles as well as persons interested in gaining an understanding of factors affecting women in organizations.

Although the workshop deals largely with situation and conditions most often affecting women in business, government and voluntary organizations, men are also encouraged to participate.

Experts from private business, public utilities, government and education will speak on management techniques, motivation and communication skills, counseling, training of supervisors, and specific problems in supervision.

Faculty for this years workshop include Ms. Charlotte Brzozowski, program specialist, Community Services at Essex Community College; Ms. Delores Williams, management associate, manage-

Woodlawn Highlights

. . . by Marjorie Green

It was 7 a.m. on Thursday, Jan. 15, and Social Security employees by the dozens were being shown to their seats in the Grand Ballroom of the downtown Hilton Hotel.

The occasion was the YMCA's Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial Breakfast sponsored by the Kings Landing Women's Club and the Jeffery Fund.

It was a memorable first for the Monumental City and SSA played an important role because of its representation of employees, top management and union officials at the early morning affair.

Kings Landing Women working at SSA number seven. Included in that number are Mamie C. Jones, Roberta Keets, Retye Lindsay, Mildred Nelson, Marjorie Green and Helen Tucker who is also first vice president of AFGE Local 1923. All of these women acted as hostesses. Seated in the crowd of 1,100 who gathered to hear the Hon. Benjamin Hooks deliver his inspirational message were representatives from most of the bureau's at SSA.

That list of ticket holders included Albert Jones, Joan Cooper, Albert Williams, James Brown, Art Wiltshire, Jim Williamson, Herb Creech, Bernice White, Dave Montovo, Carolyn Johnson and Nellie Jewett.

Also Joseph Rosenberg, Barbara Huff, Ted Jensen, Olivia Weems, Betty Lunn, Wilma Marshall, and many others.
