According to the source, applications are still coming in and a meeting is scheduled for Monday with the Mayor to discuss the selection of a replacement. At present, the most recent applicant is Ms. Anne Jackson, chairperson of the Regional Advisory Council working out of Region 8.

Among the other applicants are Robert Bruce, Tyrone Francis and George Mitchell, all recent graduates of the Baltimore public schools and nominated by the Student Senate of Baltimore Jan. 12.

Druid Hill Y to close; new operation planned

By Bettye Moss

The Druid Hill Ave. branch of the Young Men's Christian Association (YMCA), is going out of business.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Metropolitan Area Y on Wednesday, an announcement was made that the underutilized structure in the 1600 block Druid Hill Ave., will close its doors March 1.

It has been in operation as a recreational and residence hall since 1917, but has been plagued by low membership and lack of support for the past 15 years.

The branch started downhill after school integration began in 1954, and residents with youngsters interested in Y activities opted for the downtown Central Y building which offered more variety in activities and better facilities.

Richard M. Kelly, general executive, announced that although the Druid plant would close the Y plans to open an office in the Park Circle area on Feb. 15. It is to be known as the northwest branch.

Also scheduled for closing is the Dundalk branch of the Y, which has faced similar problems as the Druid Hill. It shut down today (Friday).

At one time, when nearby Bethlehem Steel Co. provided financial support, this branch was alive with activity.

However, it began going downhill in 1968 when Bethlehem Co. policy ended support. Dundalk is a primarily white branch and was the last of the Y facilities to integrate.

The executive of the new northwest Park Circle branch will be Ronald L. Wright, 24, who has recently returned to the States from Monrovia, Liberia, where he worked for 4 years with the International Y. He arrives in Baltimore next week.

The financially troubled Y plans to put both the Druid Hill building and the Dundalk structure up for sale.

The new Northwest Branch office in the Park Circle area will actually be an office much like the Y operates in Carroll County and in northwest Baltimore in the 4000 block White Ave.

These are buildings which house offices and small meeting rooms. However, the branch director performs his duties in the community and involves youngsters in programs at existing facilities, such as schools, churches and recreation centers.

* * *

The Druid branch has not had a fulltime director since the retirement three years ago of John Henderson, at which time the son, at which time the Y transitioned into one Center City branch.

Ray Day, who has been its executive, will continue to operate working out of the Franklin St. branch.

NAACP remembers Robeson

The Baltimore Branch of the NAACP mourns the death of Paul Robeson — the All American football star, the Rutgers University scholar, the baritone soloist, the star of Shakespeare's "Othello" and other dramas and one of the first civil rights activists of this century.

His contribution to the philosophy and culture of America warrants the respect and admiration of all of us.
