IN EVERY FORM, bread is called the "staff of life." FRESH BREAD and hot soup—what more could you ask for—on a cold, wintry day.

Split Pea Batter Bread with Curry Soup

Bread, fresh from the hearth, has brought satisfaction and tranquility throughout the ages. Add a steaming bowl of soup and you have a homely but heavenly combination.

This Split Pea Batter Bread, however, puts soup into the bread — rather than the other way around. The result? — An uncommonly gratifying dish for whomever you serve it to.

The bread's easy to mix. There's no kneading required because condensed pea soup is added. Incidentally, Split Pea Batter Bread is also a protein-rich food. B-vitamins — niacin, thiamine and riboflavin — and the mineral, iron — come from the enriched flour. This bread is not just a supplement to a good meal. It's a valuable nutritional addition to itself.

The menu mate, hot Curry Soup, uses only one pound of lamb or veal cubes to make four generous servings. As the soup base, use chicken stock with carrots, a turnip, onions and an apple — all blending into an economically aromatic delight.

Split Pea Batter Bread
(2 small loaves)

2½ to 3 cups enriched flour(-)
1 package dry yeast
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ cup water
¼ cup milk
3 tablespoons butter
2 eggs
1 can (11¼ oz.) condensed split pea soup
½ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
½ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup chopped green onion

Curry Soup

Stir together ½ cup flour, yeast, sugar, salt, mustard and baking soda. Heat water, milk and butter over low heat until warm (120 to 130 degrees), stirring to blend. Add liquid ingredients to flour mixture and beat until smooth, about 2 minutes on electric mixer. Blend in eggs, undiluted soup, hot pepper sauce and ¼ cup flour; beat another 2 minutes. Stir in green pepper and onion. Add more flour to make a soft dough.

Cover and let rise until doubled, about 1 hour, place into two greased 1-quart casserole dishes or two, 7 and three-eights x 3 and five-eights-inch pans. Let rise in warm place (80 to 85 degrees) until doubled in bulk, about 35 minutes.

Bake in preheated 375 degree oven 30 to 35 minutes. Cover if necessary last 10 minutes to prevent excessive browning. Cool 10 minutes in casserole before removing. Cool completely on wire racks before slicing.

Serve with Curry Soup.

Curry Soup
(1½ quarts)

1 pound lamb or veal chunks
Oil
⅓ cup butter
1 cup thinly sliced onion
½ cup sliced carrot
½ cup sliced white turnip
1 teaspoon curry powder
6 cups chicken stock or bouillon
1 apple, peeled and sliced
1 bay leaf
⅛ teaspoon thyme
1 cup cooked rice
1 teaspoon lemon juice

In large pot sear meat in hot oil. Add butter and saute onion, carrot, turnip and curry powder until vegetables are tender. Add chicken stock, apple, bay leaf and thyme. Bring to boil. Cover and reduce heat.

Simmer 2 hours or until meat is tender. Add more stock if necessary. Strain soup. Return meat to soup. Add rice and lemon juice. Serve hot.

(-(Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.

Raids ruined dope, numbers rackets

MAJOR LOTTERY STATION, LEFT PANEL, according to police reports, was at 1609 N. Payson St. where $3,700 cash was found and two persons, Ms. Mildred Johnson, 40, and Thomas Beverly, 26, were arrested and charged. RIGHT PANEL shows Vance Gatewood's place where $3,560 cash was found and police say the 57-year-old man was arrested and charged.

45 arrested, illegal lottery wiped out

By Pam Widgeon

A gigantic raid this week blacked out the entire Baltimore numbers racket for the first time in nearly a half century. The day after the raid, no numbers were played. The figure that day, calculated from the race track, was 066.

Also left in ruins this week, was the narcotics rackets. Federal government raiders smashed the $75,000-a-day illegal heroin operation with the arrest of some of the top dope lords.

NUMBERS RAID

The Feb. 3 illegal lottery raids combined the forces of Baltimore city and county police officers totaling 152 men.

It started at 1:45 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 3, around the lottery "turn in time," when detectives and police officers raided private homes, a beauty shop, a bar and other places of business.

Some 45 persons were arrested.

The homes raided in Baltimore County were in the 800 block Cliffedge Rd., Pikesville and the 3500 block Cabot Rd., Woodlawn.

It was the first time since the illegal lottery operation started in Baltimore in the 1930's that people were afraid to put in their numbers. The day after the raid, not one agent would take a play.

The Tuesday raiders seized more than $11,000 in cash and "hundreds of shopping bags filled with lottery slips," adding machines and several handguns.

TRIAL DATE

The trial date for those arrested has been set for Feb. 25 in Central District Court. Although nearly 50 people were arrested on Tuesday, police state 10 more were still being sought, including the big "backer."

Charges against those arrested included possession of illegal lottery slips, setting up and maintaining a gambling establishment and conspiracy to violate state gambling laws.

The dope crackdown

JACQUES LEEDS alias Jack — CHANDLER WYNN alias Skip — JERRA MCCREA LYLES alias Gatorman

Mother of 3 nabbed in 'stash pad', Jerra Lyles has a $500,000 bail, Jack Leeds, lawyer, $5,000 bail

Jacque Leeds, an attorney, was one of the 21 persons arrested before dawn Feb. 4 in what U.S. attorney Jervis S. Finney describes as the "largest single heroin conspiracy ever indicted by the U.S. Attorney's office.

Along with, former assistant attorney general, Leeds, also known as "Jack," 14 of the 21 defendants appeared in Federal Court before U.S. Magistrate Clarence E. Goetz for a bail hearing.

Leeds, 2800 block Gatehouse Dr., Purnell Village, was released on $5,000 bail.

The indictment states, "During the summer of 1975, Leeds went to the Mondawmin Travel Center to make arrangements for himself and Theodore Roosevelt Smith and unindicted co-conspirators Joseph Burroughs and George Kent Bagby, to travel to Antiqua, British West Indies.

Also, stated in the indictment, "On or about July 29, 1975 Smith and Leeds went to 1213 N. Ellwood Ave., to meet Lyles."

GATORMAN LYLES

Jerra McCrea "Gatorman" Lyles, 41, 1200 block N. Ellwood Ave., is described as the "leader of the ring."

Assistant U.S. Attorney Andrew Radding told the court, "The government has an extremely strong case and bail should be set at $500,000 for Lyles because he might leave the city.

"He (Lyles) has his occupation listed as a truck driver, but he (Lyles) stays home all day taking orders for heroin over the phone."

Magistrate Goetz set bail for Lyles at $500,000 Lyles, is also known as "Gator, and Gerald."

30 COUNTS

Lyles is charged with 30 counts of violating federal drug laws, including a rarely used statute that carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

The indictments charge the 21 defendants and 32 unindicted co-conspirators started operating a heroin ring round Jan. 1, 1975 and continued up through Feb. 4, 1976.

Radding told the court, wiretaps were placed on Lyles's home from July 22, 1975 to August 1975.

Radding stated four purchases of "large quantities of heroin were seized during the course of the investigation.

STASH PAD

Court records state Mrs. Delores Johnson's Winchester Street apartment was used as the "stash pad."

Radding told the court, "She (Mrs. Johnson) is the mother of three children. Lyles would call her to make arrangements to pick up heroin."

Radding described Mrs. Johnson's occupation as "manufacturing drugs and her main man (Lyles) is now off the street." "Mrs. Johnson faces 60 years in

Human Relations battle in Senate

By Alan Shearer

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — The battle between black leaders and the business community over the authority of the state Human Relations Commission raged Wednesday before a Senate committee considering a bill that some black lawmakers contend could emasculate the commission.

Black senators, delegates and members of the commission appeared one-by-one before the constitutional and public law committee to denounce a bill that was devised by the Legislative Council last summer with input from the Chamber of Commerce.

"This bill guts everything the Human Relations Commission stands for and presents a drastic step backwards in the protection of the rights of citizens," complained Sen. Clarence W. Blount, D-Baltimore. "If this is the best legislation we can get, we would rather not have any bill at all."

• • •

Members of the commission, including Chairman Jacob J. Edelman and Executive Director Elbert L.A. Guillory, said the bill places unworkable burdens on the 12-member commission by a variety of means.

The commission members took particular issue with provisions placing strict time limits on the settlement of complaints and placing the burden of whether to investigate a complaint strictly on the commission.

Under present law, they argued, the commission must look into every complaint and cannot ignore any of them.

During a 3½ hour hearing attended by about 75 persons jammed into the cramped committee hearing room, Guillory went over the provisions of the 13 page bill one-by-one explaining in detail the objections to each provision.

• • • •

"During this Bicentennial year, let's sound a death Knell for all discrimination in Maryland," said Guillory after more

TRYING IT ON FOR SIZE, Judge Milton B. Allen is 'robed' by his wife, Mrs. Martha P. Allen and son, David B. Allen.

Judge Allen sworn in today

Milton Burke Allen was sworn in today (Friday) as the 21st sitting judge on the Supreme Bench of Baltimore.

The noon hour ceremony was witnessed by a courtroom filled with Allen's friends, former law partners, legislative officials, well wishers and relatives.

The occasion marked the highpoint of a career which began 28 years ago in a one room law office. The firm has, since 1948, produced five Supreme Bench judges, one City Solicitor and Allen, who previously served as the nation's first black State's Attorney.

During the brief ceremony, Col. William A. Harris, executive assistant to the governor and who appeared as Mandel's representative read the commission.

• • •

Other speakers were Charles Josey, president of the Monumental City Bar Association, W. Emerson Brown Jr., and Supreme Bench judge. Allen's former law partner, the Honorable Robert Watts and Jeffrey B. Smith, president of the Bar Association of Baltimore.

Robert H. Bouse, clerk of the Superior Court administered the oath and Judge Allen was then robed by Judge Harold Silver, associate judge of the District Court and Allen's son, David who also is a member of the Bar.

Supreme Bench Judge Milton B. Allen then took his seat on the Bench at the left of Chief Judge Anselm Sodaro.

Following greetings by Judge Watts, Allen addressed the audience.

After thanking the governor and all those who worked in support of his

Mitchell urges prompt action on summer jobs

Cong. Parren J. Mitchell (D-7th-Md.), chairman of the Human Resources Task Force of the House Budget Committee has written President Ford, and W. J. Usery, nominee for the secretary of labor, expressing his concerns over the Summer Youth Employment Program.

In his letter Mr. Mitchell said:

"As chairman of the Task Force on Human Resources of the House Budget Committee, I sponsored an amendment to allocate Budget Authority for the Summer Youth Employment program. Last year, we suffered from a series of Congressional apprehensions, concerning the Emergency Employment Bill. As a result of delay, the Summer Youth Employment Supplemental was not approved in Congress until the middle of June.

• • •

"In an attempt to avoid a confrontation with the new budget process in which I actively participated, I am requesting a confirmation on the Summer Youth Employment program for 1976, and the FEBRUARY THAW—The ice and snow remaining on the banks of the water reflect the dark and light pattern of the Hanover Street Bridge in the early February mood photo. With days noticibly longer, winter seems to be disappearing. Sunset is not until nearly 6 p.m. Sunrise is around 7 a.m. Today, Friday, Feb. 6 is the 37th day of the Bicentennial Year. Generally mild weather is forecast with freezing nights through February. Planting begins Feb. 14. Valentine's Day, Feb. 12, Lincoln's birthday and Feb. 16, observed as Washington's birthday, are both holidays.
