CONSUMER CORNER
"Ketchup is red, our label is blue. Sugar is sweet, and in spite of dentists and nutritionists, still used to say 'I Love You.' That message IS a double delight if you have a square-cake pan and a round one. Any basic cake batter can become a Valentine Heart Cake. Just bake the round layer 5 minutes more than the square, cool both, then cut the round in half and put its cut sides against connecting sides of the square for a perfect heart. Frost well over cut sections of skip sugary frosting and top with a nutritious layer of sliced peaches.

Or try Lifecakes, old fashioned gingerbread cookies-cut into hearts. They make great greetings, more nutritious and less costly than cards, especially if made from scratch with whole wheat flour. Mixes work well too, and a toothpick does a good job of tracing cardboard hearts onto cookie dough."

Monda Doyle, Director of Consumer Affairs
