What's taking place in school, on campus

A Cultural Arts Festival entitled "Star Spangled Spring" will be held May 1, by the members of the Region 8, at Walbrook Sr. High School, 2000 Edgewood St.

The festival will give students the opportunity to display some of their varied talents and the chance for the entire region to work together.

In creating the festival, the region aims to bring about an awareness of the fine arts.

For information call Ms. Aliva Cheskis-Cotel at 396-0945.

HANDICAP WORKSHOP

A series of informational programs to help parents of handicapped children is scheduled to begin Tuesday, under the direction of four community colleges at Poly Technic Institute, 1400 W. Coldspring Lane.

The program is designed to help parents of emotionally, mentally, and physically handicapped children with information about resources to which parents can turn. Topics to be presented by various program speakers will outline specific information about helping children, provide resources to which parents can turn, indicate what residential placements are available, identify educational rights and opportunities and discuss laws and court decisions.

* * *

Speakers will include specialists who are educators, lawyers, members of the medical profession, social workers and parents, as well as representatives of local organizations dealing with handicapped children.

There will be six sessions scheduled from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. each Tuesday for six weeks under the sponsorship of the Community College of Baltimore, Catonsville Community College, Dundalk Community College, and Essex Community College.

Registration details are available from Judy Volkman, coordinator of the program, at 377-8833 between 4 p.m. and 9 p.m.

GRADUATE WORKSHOP

The education department of Loyola College has scheduled a five-day, graduate level workshop, "School Personnel Administration," beginning in May at the Charles Street campus.

The workshop, which is open to matriculating, non-matriculating and "special students," will introduce educators to current trends in school personnel policies. Particular attention will be directed to labor laws and their effect on policy development; to school labor relations and negotiations and to recent legislation pertaining to race and sex discrimination.

Workshop sessions are offered from 9 a.m.-4 p.m., May 1, 8, 15, 22 and June 5. Three graduate credits are available for participants who qualify.

For more information on the personnel administration workshop or on any of 34 other workshops scheduled by Loyola this summer, interested persons should contact the College's office of special academic programs, (301) 323-1010, extension 305.

MAGIC SHOWS

A series of five magic shows, open Monday to the public free of charge, is being sponsored by the student social committee at Essex Community College.

The presentations will feature Steve Dacri, "the fastest hands in the world," in the lobby of the college community center at 10:30 a.m., 12:30 p.m., 2:30 p.m., 5:30 p.m., and 7:30 p.m. No tickets and no admission fee are required.

LANGSTON HUGHES COMEDY AT FAIRMOUNT

Some 37 students will be seen kicking up their heels to the charleston and the varsity drag in costumes of the roaring 20's as the Junior Class of Fairmount Hill Vocational High School presents the footlight players in a Langston Hughes Comedy.

The play will be presented at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, in the school auditorium at Fairmount Avenue and Ann Street.

For ticket information call Mrs. Brown at 396-9286.

Dundalk Community College offers a one-session workshop entitled "Jobs You Never Knew Existed — In Education" from 7:30-9:30 p.m., Monday in the College Center. Fee for the program is $1.00.

Participants in the workshop will learn of job opportunities for full and part-time work in education. They will also learn where the jobs are and how to get them.

For registration information on this and other community service courses, call the office of continuing education at 282-6700, ext. 270.

UMBC to feature drama and folklore

A program of drama, songs and storytelling by two guests artists will be offered by the Union of African-American Students at the University of Maryland Baltimore County Monday evening, April 12.

Mary Carter Smith, a folklorist-historian-philosopher, will appear at 7 p.m. and Barbara Mealy, a local actress, at 8 p.m. in Lecture Hall Two of the Chemistry-Physics building of UMBC.

A modern African folklorist whose career was inspired by the emergence of the black cultural expression of the 1960s, Mrs. Smith's repertoire of stories, poems and dramatic sketches has been developed through a recollection of experiences in towns in Kentucky, West Virginia, and Ohio, as well as in her native Birmingham, Ala., and Baltimore, where she now lives.

Mrs. Smith has had careers as a teacher and librarian and is a published poet. She has made guest appearances on several locally oriented television shows across the country and has traveled extensively throughout the United States, Europe, the Caribbean, and Africa.

* * *

A graduate of Coppin State College, Mrs. Smith has done graduate work at several schools, including New York University and Johns Hopkins University.

She is a founding member of Big Sisters International, established in 1965, and is a recipient of several citations, including Woman of the Year Award in 1975.

Barbara Mealy has performed as an actress in several productions of the Arena Players and Center Stage. Her roles have included Laura in "Tambourines to Glory," Ruth in "raisin in the Sun," Adelle in "Ceremonies in Dark Old Men," and Lou in the television series "Our Street," shown in over 40 cities across the country.

She also has been an instructor in the drama department of Morgan State University.

As a guest lecturer she is known for her ability to tell the story of the black people in America from a new perspective, focusing away from anger and in the direction of warmth and human understanding.

Both performances are free and open to the public.

Matron pleads guilty to robbery

Mrs. Gloria Theresa Smith, 21, also known as Tonya Teresa Robinson, of the 2700 block Matthews St., pleaded guilty in Criminal Court March 29 to robbing a man.

Judge Solomon Liss sentenced Mrs. Smith to eight years in prison. Assistant State's Attorney H. Gary Bass told the court, the victim, Joseph Love, 38, recognized Mrs. Smith on television when she was being arrested as a suspect in a bank robbery.

Court records state Mrs. Smith stopped Love and asked him to give her a ride in his car to Sinai Hospital to visit her sick mother.

According to court records, a man got in the car with Love and Mrs. Smith on Mondawmin Shopping Center parking lot.

When Love arrived at the hospital, the man told Love, "We want your car." Love looked into his rear-view mirror and noticed Mrs. Smith had a sawed-off shotgun aimed at his head.

Mrs. Smith told Love to get out of his car and police report his car was later found in the 3100 block Wylie Ave.

* * *

Police state the man who got in the car with Mrs. Smith was Jesse Lee Townes, 49. Townes was sentenced to 20 years for a Towson bank and was not charged in the holdup of Love.

Painting by city student for 1977 Christmas Seal

A painting by Tyrone Ellis, a third grade student at Pimlico Elementary School, has been selected by the American Lung Association to "represent" Maryland on the 1977 Christmas Seal.

Tyrone's painting, along with paintings by children from each of the other states, plus Guam, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and the District of Columbia, will appear as one of the 54 seals.

Maryland's children in kindergarten through third grade participated in the statewide art project. A panel of judges, including John Lembach, president of the Art Education Association; Harold Lott, art supervisor with the State Department of Education, and Freda Doll, a volunteer representing the Lung Association of Mid-Maryland, selected five paintings from all those submitted for national consideration.

* * *

A nationwide selection committee made the final decision at the Lung Association headquarters in New York City.

The other Maryland finalists are Charlene Evans, also of Pimlico Elementary School; Jack Bacorn, North Frederick School; Pammy Fiedor, Lincolnshire Elementary School, and Ingrid McDonald, Solley Elementary School.

This is the second Christmas Seal design project for school children. The 1975 Christmas Seals were reproductions of paintings by students in grades three through seven. Albert Kline, another Baltimore City student, designed the 1975 seal for Maryland.

Certificates will be given to the five children whose paintings were sent to the nationwide selection committee. Tyrone, and the 53 other youngsters whose design was selected to appear on the 1977 seals, will receive a special plaque from the American Lung Association.

The Alumni Association was formed in 1973. It now includes about 1400 members and is still growing. Its objectives are primarily social. The Association is non-profit and strictly non-political. Members are located in all of the states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia.

* * *

The association enables members to keep in touch with their friends and publishes a Newletter for the purpose of disseminating news and information of general interest to retirees.

For further information contact the association office (934-3801) or the Secretary Alfred B. Miller, (635-9241)

'Please touch' opens at Morgan

Community Arts Unlimited of the McKeldin Center, will present a one-woman show of the work of Barbara Parker in Room 316 of McKeldin Center, Morgan State University, from April 5 to 30.

The show, entitled 'Please Touch', consists of fabric and fiber works. Barber Parker has always been "turned off" by "DO NOT TOUCH" signs in museums and galleries. She hopes that people who experience her art are more than merely viewers. Ms. Parker's major goal as an artist is to have her audience tactually, visually and emotionally connect with her art forms.

The opening reception for the show will be held Sunday, April 4, from 7-9 p.m. Refreshments will be served. The exhibition is free and open to the public Monday thru Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

For furtiure information contact Mrs. Andrea Shreiner, McKeldin Art Center, Morgan State University or call 383-3468.
