Fruited Hoe Cakes

1 can (17 ounce) fruit cocktail
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup honey
1¼ cups white cornmeal
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup boiling water
2 tablespoons butter

Drain fruit, reserving syrup. Save ½ cup drained fruit cocktail. Place remaining fruit cocktail in saucepan with reserved fruit syrup, cinnamon and honey. Heat to boil. Serve warm with hoecakes.

Hoecakes: Combine cornmeal and salt in mixing bowl. Pour boiling water in a slow thin stream into cronmeal mixture; beating until batter is smooth. Fold in ½ cup reserved fruit cocktail.

Melt 1 tablespoon butter in heavy skillet over high heat. For each hoe cake scoop 2 tablespoons of batter into skillet and flatten into 4-inch rounds. Reduce heat to low, cook 2 minutes on each side or until golden brown. Repeat. Keep hoecakes warm until serving time.

Makes about 8 hoecakes.

U.S.D.A. food clips

Sweet potatoes should not be stored in the refrigerator, according to U.S. Dept. of Agriculture home economists. Decay is a problem with sweet potatoes — avoid ones with worm holes, grub injury, or any other defects. Even if you cut away the discolored area the remainder of the potato may have a bad taste.

Rhubarb is not a fruit, but a vegetable — a highly specialized one. It's used like a fruit in sweetened sauces and pies. It's usually in limited supply.

NUTRITIOUS with or without the bacon are Fruited Hoe Cakes, a delectable combination of white cornmeal and fruit cocktail.

that the good lord has given us. Mrs. Hattie Smith is the director of the group and Thomas Fleming is president.

Congratulations to the following graduates: Julia-Anne White, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Eric White (Tommy). Juli graduated from Maryvale last Friday. We feel very close to Maryvale because the principal, Sister Rita, was our daughter's principal when she attended Martin Spalding High School. The mass and the graduation exercises were held outdoors on the campus. The celebrant of the mass was Father Richard who was a deacon at St. Mark (Catonsville) before he was ordained last year, so this was a very special occasion for us.

Graduating from Villa Julie was Judith Barber, daughter of William and Willa Mae Barber. There were nine black students in the class of about 100. There were about 24 graduates in the class at Maryvale and Julie was the only black student. It is such a joy to see how well our kids are doing in these schools and the respect that their white classmates have for them. We wintessed this both at Maryvale and at Villa Julie.

Graduating from Morgan were Bengamin Phillips and Aaron Ellis Jr., Congratulations to our dear friend, Elizabeth Murphy was awarded a honory doctorate degree of human letters at Morgan' graduation.

The Willing Workers will celebrate their 9th anniversary on June 19 at Grace AEE Church, the Rev. Reginald is pastor.
