Vulcan Blazer execs happy that strike was averted

By Bryan D. Holt

Baltimore residents were saved from what could have been the most disastrous workers' strike in the city's history when city officials and fire fighters made a tentative agreement on a two-year contract Tuesday evening.

Members of Baltimore Fire Fighters Local 734 met at the Pulaski Highwy. Fire Academy Thursday to ratify the contract.

The heads of the Vulcan Blazers, an organization of black firemen, told the AFRO that they are blad that an agreement has been reached.

Charles Thomas, president, stated, "I'm glad that the strike was averted. It would've been much worst than the police strike a couple of years ago. We would've seen something the likes of which we've never seen before."

Robert Holt, vice president, commended the union's efforts, saying, "They did one heluva job just by staying in their and averting the strike."

Thomas, who had earlier expressed his concern about the effect a walk-out would've had on innercity residents added, "Maybe it (the contract) isn't everything we wanted, but it's a step in the right direction.

Accord was reached at about 6 p.m. Tuesday. The new contract provides for salary increases of eight per cent and a reduced work week from 48 to 47 hours.

The pay increases were substantially less than that for which the firemen had originally hoped. In February union officials were asking for eight to ten per cent in annual increases. The city, at that time, was offering 5.5 per cent each year.

Charney L. Harris, president of Baltimore Fire Fighters Local 734, told a large group of firemen assembled Tuesday night that he was not "completely happy" with the new contract which he described as not great."

Officers of Local 734, Baltimore Fire Officers Local 964, Robert S. Hillman, the city's chief negotiator, and Edward McMahon, a federal mediator, had been bargaining for five hours on Tuesday.

It is reported that seven offers and counter-offers were made during that time. Hillman also ran back and forth between the labor commissioner's office and Mayor Schaefer's office, for consultation.

Under the terms of the agreement, the firemen also will receive an increased meal allowance ant the city will assume all increased health and pension costs which the men might incur.

CRC throws out discrimination case

A special three-man tribunal of the Community Relations Commission has dismissed discrimination charges lodged against the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, Inc. (A and P supermarkete) by two black employees.

The tribunal, headed by Mrs. Elizabeth M. Shipley, a member of the commission, found that there was no discrimination involved in the dismissal of Lorenzo Bates and Cary Harris.

Bates and Harris were fired from their jobs on a five man night crew after an alleged theft of company merchandise. The night crew consisted of two other black men and one white man.

According to a CRC's staff investigation team the four black men were interrogated and disciplined. The report stated the white man was never considered a suspect even though he had an equal opportunity to commit the theft.

According to John B. Ferron, director of the commission, the decision to terminate was based on circumstantial evidence and both complainants vehemently deny any involvement in the alleged theft.

Ferron and the investigation staff both believe that there was probable cause for the charge and that A and P violated the Equal Opportunity Law, Article 4 of the Baltimore City code.

However Mrs. Shipley states that because the white man was not accused there was no justification for the charge.

Mrs. Shipley told the AFRO that briefs from the attorneys on both sides will be filed in the next 30 days and a final decision is expected two months after that. She also stated that she believes the attoorney for the complainants has exhausted all means of appeals.

Standing are Travis Vauls, Norman Ross, Fred Bailey, Fletcher Jackson, Franklin Shewell and Charles Caldwell.

The familywill receive friends today (Friday) 7 to 8 p.m. at the church. Miss Peters, of the 5200 block Farm Pond Lane in Columbia died in her home.

Relatives told the AFRO "It was a brief illness and she died of bronchial pneumonia." Miss Peters was graduated from Oakland Mills High School June 9 and had planned to attend college.

Fewer Legal Aid offices to close

Charles H. Dorsey Jr., director of the Legal Aid Bureau, announced Wednesday, that five bureau offices will be closed effect July 1 instead of the seven originally planned. Also, 21 employees instead of the 26 initially announced will be laid off.

The original plan for closing seven offices and laying off twenty six employees in the Baltimore Metropolitan area was based upon an anticipated reduction of federal funds from the Department of Human Resources in the amount of $236,00.

By letter dated May 28, the department has informed this bureau that the reduction will be $169,000 because state funds, which would ordinarily have been matched with federal funds, have not been decreased, but in fact have been increased.

Despite widespread community and media support for the restoration of funds, and despite an intense search for financial support from local subdivisions, no funds to make up this shortfall have been found. The Governor's office is continuing its efforts to locate alternate sources of funds at the state level.

As a result of the reduction in funds, the Harford, Carroll and Howard County offices, as well as offices located in Cherry Hill and Southwest Baltimore will be closed. Dorsey had announced on May 20 that two additional offices, in Anne Arundel County and in West Baltimore, would also be closed due to the loss of funds. Because of the lesser cut, however, those offices remain open.

The decision to maintain the West Baltimore office is based on the fact that the location serves a much larger number of clients than either the Southwest or Cherry Hill office. The choice of the West office is an attempt to continue to serve as many people as possible, with limited resources.

* * *

The Cherry Hill office will be closed and the building vacated. The Southwest office will be closed, but Legal Aid will continue to hold on to the building and use it temporarily for storage. If further funding sources can be found, it is the Bureau's intention to restore legal services in the Southwest office as soon thereafter as possible.

Dorsey told the AFRO that, among the county offices, there may be a chance that the Harford office may be saved.

He said that County Executive (Robert Anderson) may present legislation to provide assistance in the maintenance of the office.

Since May 21, the bureau has been closed to new clients, with the exception of emergency cases which have been accepted in the Central Baltimore office only. The Central, West, East and Anne Arundel County offices will be open to other than emergency cases as soon as possible.

Despite the closings, Dorsey indicated that the agency will continue to search for additional funds from every possible source.

CADET LLOYD M. ALSTON JR., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd M. Alston Sr., principal at Mergenthaler Vocational School completed Airborne training at Ft. Benning, Ga. on June 25. Now receiving three weeks of Cadet Leadership Training at Ft. Bragg, N.C. Cadet Alston is a 1974 graduate of the Baltimore Polytechnic Institute.

SALUTATORIAN ANTHONY HALL who was graduated from Baltimore City College June 13 plans to go to Catonsville Community College to major in mortuary science. The son of Elder and Mrs. Harvey Hall, Hall received four scholarship awards and an outstanding achievement award from the Delta, Sigma Theta Sorority.

Mother convicted of child abuse

Mrs. Cynthia B. Pitts, 27-year-old mother of four children, pleaded guilty in Criminal Court to child abuse and manslaughter charges for starving her seven-month-old son to death.

Judge Solomon Liss imposed a ten year sentence on Mrs. Pitts, of the 1400 block Argyle Ave. Mrs. Pitts told the court, "I failed to give him (her son) all the attention I was suppose to."

Assistant State's Attorney H. Gary Bass told the court Kevin was discovered when the Department of Social Services received an anonymous call in April, 1975 about a baby being neglected.

According to Bass, a social worker went to the home and found the sick child. Medical records state Kevin was a "living vegetable" when he was brought to the hospital and no brain activity was detected by a brain wave test.

Kevin died at University Hospital and Mrs. Pitts' other children were placed in a foster home.

CHICAGO — Chicago is the most segregated city in the country, according to a report in an issue of the Chicago Urban League Newsletter.

It has the highest proportion census tracts which are 90 per cent or more black and also has the worst record of home ownership among blacks and ranks first in gouging blacks who rent.
