R.S.V.P. With Marie

By Michele L. McRae
Substituting for Marie P. Cooke who is ill)

"I married the great grandparents, the grandparents, the parents, baptized the mother and now today I baptize their infant. This is indeed a happy day for . . . four generations in one family."

The Rev. Reginald Daniels, pastor of Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church was speaking to a congregation of members and visitors who crowded the church for the baptism of five-month-old, Kyle David Funn, son of Marjean and Charles Funn.

Looking on were the maternal grandparents, Marvin and Jean Davis and the paternal grandparents, Mrs. Elizabeth Funn of Calvert County, Md. The great grandparents referred to are Mrs. Lillian Parrott Murphy and the late Dr. Carl Murphy. Mrs. Murphy, who is hospitalized, had a special visit from the great grandchild.

Godparents for the infant are Bruce and Frandes Edwards, who came from Pittsburgh.

Other out-of-towners here for the ceremony and the reception which followed at Bonnie Ridge Clubhouse were:

Mr. and Mrs. Wills Patterson and Mrs. Bessie Moore of Calvert County; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Coleman, Cambridge, Md. and Mr. Funn's brothers and sister-in-law, Malcolm and Annette Funn, Upper Malboro, Md., and Langston Funn, Bladensburg, Md., and Mrs. Funn's brother, Marvin Davis Jr., of D.C., where he is a student at George Washington University.

Another baptism this Sunday will attract a number of out-of-towners at 2 p.m. at St. Peter Claver. The infant is 4-month-old Claudia Elizabeth Hutchins, daughter of Miriam Brown Hutchins and Argin McKay Hutchins and Argin McKay Hutchins Jr., former Baltimorean, now residing in Ithaca, N.Y. where she finished law school and he is completing work on his doctorate at Cornell University.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Argin McKay Hutchins Sr. (Bernice), Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown (Dorothy) are maternal grandparents. Great grandmothers witnessing the ceremony will be Mrs. Claude H. Brown (Effie) and Mrs. Essie M. Edwards of Jersey City, and Mrs. Avis Chism of Columbia. Godparents are Roslyn Boles and Matthew Adams.

A reception will follow at the college center at Morgan State University.

Columbia Capers

By Pinnie L. Ross

Nearly three thousand persons registered for the twenty-four workshops reflecting women's issues of today led by outstanding women.

Guest speaker was Judith Viorst poet and author of her new book How Did I Get to be Forty.

One of the workshops was "The Challenge of Living in Columbia"! The "Next America" and, how the Black women can have impact on the community of which she is a part with special emphasis on how to keep the Black child's identity and reconciliation with different values.

Ethel Hill, former chairperson of the Wild Lake Village Board was the articulate moderator of the panel, set the tenor of workshop in her comments which included the following remarks:

"To many black Columbian families it appears that living in a community free of most of the problems of older established cities finds us facing yet another set of equally disconcerting problems. How do we reconcile our value systems and life styles with that of the majority? What is the most effective political use of ourselves as "pioneers" in the new America?"

"How do we measure and assure the relevancy and responsiveness of the educational and social systems as they evolve? Faced with the challenge of issues such as these, how then do we or should we as black women preceive of ourselves as dealing with them."

Other panelists were; Rosalyn T. Penn, assistant professor of history, Morgan State University with a specialty in Afro-American History, specifically Afro-American women. She initiated the course 'The Afro - American spoke from the historian

Each panelist spoke from different experience, Mrs. Penn spoke from the Historian prospective.

Mrs. Madeline Wheeler Murphy, a dynamic Cherry Hill community leader, a valedictorian from Temple University School of Commerce also served as panelist. She was director of Community Services for Cherry Hill Community Presbyterian Church 1959-1969 where she developed programs in literacy, Day Care, political education, youth activities, job finding and community organizing for welfare recipients. She is a regular guest hostess on the "Larry Angelo Show" as guest reporter, on "Black Point." She spoke on the political prospective.

William Ross Sr. (hubby), substitution for this columnist, who had just undergone gum surgery, spoke on Human Rights. He is vice-president and division manager for Columbia Division of Ryland Homes, since 1974, prior to that was executive vice-president of the National Urban League Development Foundation, Washington D.C. He is a former high school guidance counselor in Baltimore City schools and Community College of Baltimore.

Gwendolyn Mallory, spoke from the community prospective, she is former administrative assistant with the federal government, D.C. and at present she is employed by the Bureau of Citizen Services, Howard County government. Another was Donald Hill, speaking from the psychological prospective. He is director of Employee Relations, Social Security Administration, Morgan State, Temple University Psychology Study: master psychology, Fel's Institute, University of Pennsylvania, California Berkely, University of William and Mary. Mr. Hill has affiliation with numerous organizations in the city of Philadelphia.

It was a lively discussion by workshop participation which included female housewives, teachers, professionals, politicians and community leaders.

In summing up the session, Mrs. Hill closed with the following poem:

From The Sidelines
By Myrtle Bates

You say there is a little
Tom
in all us old niggers,
and we've been benched.
You're calling all the signals now-
hold plays we never dared and you look great.
Just remember when you
cross
the goal we held the line;
we made that hold

The Social Security building's new history room was officially opened Wednesday afternoon with an impressive ribbon cutting ceremony performed by James B. Cardwell, Commissioner of Social Security. The historical ceremony was witnessed by Deputy Commissioner Jarold Kiefer and associate commissioners, Robert Bynum, Frank DeGeorge and Thomas Parrott.

According to Dr. Abe Bortz, SSA historian, employees will be albe to view the room each week day 11:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. The room will be open to the public during the 10 a.m. daily tour.

The holiday season is rapidly approaching and SSA employees are preparing baskets of food and gifts for needy families living in the Baltimore area communities. In addition to preparing baskets, a group of men and women in the Bureau of Disability Insurance (DBI), are planning a musical comedy to be held in the Dickinson building on December 21.

Claims Examiner Charles Stewart, will be heading the list of entertainers. Charlie recently conducted a lunch hour rock show in the Dickinson building cafeteria to benefit the combined federal campaign and is currently doing a "Disco" show at the Sportsman's Lounge each Wednesday night. Sharing the spotlight is BDI'er Ron Colbert and his "Supreme Court" band. Charlie speaks with confidence when he states that " the show will eventually rival the Johnnie Walker show." A native of Philadelphia, Charlie arrived at the Social Security Administrative headquarters in December, 1973. Prior to his federal employment, he worked in private industry. He is married to the former Darlene Gibson. They have two children, Eric and Michella.

The Bible Break Bunch (BBB) conducted an inspirational workship service at Perkins Square Baptist Church last Sunday afternoon. The program was sponsored by the Perkins Square Men's Chorus. Ms. Diane Logan, member

The newly elected officers of the Golden Age Group for 1976-77 year are: Thomas Fleming Sr., president; Gladys Foreman, vice president; Leon Johnson secretary; Elizabeth Washington; financial secretary; Ernest Johnson treasurer; Lucy Jane Davis; chaplian; and Hattie Smith leader. The group is now meeting every Friday, noon - 4 p.m. Many activities are planned, including games, arts and crafts, movies speakers, sing-alonds, and others. Something is going on that will fit the needs and interests of all. Why not join this wonderful group if you are a senior citizen. If you are looking for fellowship, fun and action, you will find it here on Friday The group will hold its annual Christmas dinner at the center and it will be a catered affair. The date December 23.

Sympathy cards to the family of the late Gwendolyn Lee (Maurice) whose memorial services were held in Daytona Beach, Fla. Many of the old Baltimoreans will remember Gwen as a very active civic worker. She was really a community leader in addition to her job as the head social worker at Crownsville State Hospital. She and her husband, Dr. Maurice Lee, retired Morgan University professor, lived in Morgan Park for many years. Cards may be sent to Dr. Lee at 1030 North St., Daytona Beach, Fla.

Sympathy cards also to the family of Ms. Cedonia Ray whose funeral services were held at Grace AME Church. Cards also to the family of the late George Manokey (Maggie) formerly of Catonsville. Funeral services were held for him during the week.

Daisy King, placement counselor, recently returned form a eight day trip to Nice on the French Riviera. She went with the Young Women's League of Washington, D.C.

Congratulations to Joseph and Margaret Jackson, their 42nd wedding anniversary. They spent some time in New York City where they were lavishly entertained by friends. Joe is a longtime postal employee and Margaret is a nurse. They are very active parishioners at Our Lady Of Lourdes Church.

Charles and Lillian Reid of Tridelphia Road, Howard County, recently returned home after having spent some time visiting relatives and friends at Myrtle Beach, S.C., Charleston and other places of interest.

Send "Thinking Of You" cards to Mrs. Rose Davidson, mother of Yvette Murphy (Jim) at 1214 Eutaw Place. I understand that she is beginning to feel much better.

Morning Star Baptist Church's celebration and banquet, honoring Nettie Page and Eva Brooks was very well attended. It was held last Sunday at Martin's West. The Catonsville community really turned out to pay honor to these two ladies for their leadership in their church and in the community.

Mrs. Amy Warden presided while Elhana Washington Jr. and Gentry McDonald Jr. were the chairpersons. Tributes were paid to Mrs. Brooks by Debbie Brooks, Willie Mae Kackley, principal, Westchester Elementary School; Herbert Brown, Page Ann Smith and the Willing Jewel Tones.

Tributes were paid to Mrs. Page by Willie Mae Burley, Vonzella Murray, Debbie Jacobs, Angela Page and the Morning Star Chorale. Special awards were given to these fine ladies followed by presentations by family and friends. The Rev. Gentry McDonald is the pastor.

On November 28 4 p.m. Sister Nellie Williams will sponsor the Gospel Chorus of the Mount Zion United Methodist Church of Charlestown, W. Va., in a Song Festival at Mt. Olivet United Methodist Church, here in Catonsville.

Leroy (George) Bennet and his colleagues from Union Baptist Church will present a "Sing Out" at Grace AME Church, 3 p.m. Contributions will benefit the Grace Sunday School. The program will feature traditional hymns, gospel, spirituals, modern spirituals Communion Choir Youth Choir and You. Leroy is a product of Grace and he certainly will be looking for you.
