Mrs. Cornelia Smith ends 20-year career in education

MRS. CORNELIA L. SMITH in 1968

Mrs. Cornelia Lake Smith, a specialist with the city schools' Region 2 Community and Student Affairs Team (CSAT) retired Wednesday from the school system following a 20 year career in education.

A native Baltimorean and graduate of Morgan and Howard Universities, Mrs. Smith joined the education department as a social worker in 1957 after an earlier career with the Baltimore people department.

"I was the third black woman hired by the department up to that time," she recalls.

* * *

According to Mrs. Smith the role of the social worker particularly in the area of education, is much more complicated today.

"Once we worked one to one and with the child and family. Now we work with community agencies, the child, the family and we must be ready to relate to whatever the problem may be."

She also said helping and guiding young people is a three-way responsibility between the home, school and the community.

* * *

As Mrs. Smith sees it, her roots in education began in her early childhood.

"We had high goals and values established by our family," she explained "I was raised in a United Methodist minister's family and all through my childhood a quality education was stressed."

* * *

"We need to establish almost at infancy family bonds and the desire for the need to learn," she continued drawing from her own experiences. She also pointed out if this is done there will be fewer youths who do not want to attend school and fewer children who are behavior problems.

A product of the Baltimore public schools graduating from Douglass Senior High School, Mrs. Smith went to Lemmel Junior High School in 1950 to direct a pilot social work project.

From Lemmel she moved into the division of special services in 1964 where she put together a model project to train graduate students from the University of Maryland, Catholic and Howard Universities.

During the four years she was there she helped train 23 social workers.

* * *

From there Mrs. Smith moved back into the schools as a senior social worker working at the recently closed Jane Addams Vocational High School. There she headed the STAY program.

After her tour of duty at Jane Addams, she became a specialist in the division of special services then the CSAT specialist in Region 2 when the school system was reorganized.

Bishop Coleman goes to China

Bishop and Mrs. Clinton R. Coleman left Baltimore Nov. 29 along with 10 other ministers and their wives to visit the Republic of China by invitation of the Pacific Cultural Foundation in Taipei.

Bishop Coleman is the former minister of Pennsylvania Avenue AME Zion Church and is now presiding Bishop over the eighth Episcopal District of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church.

Bishop and Mrs. Coleman will return to Baltimore Dec. 8 and the trip has been planned as a Christian, cultural, good will tour of the Republic by the Pacific Cultural Foundation.

Arrangements for the tour were made by Minister S. K. Tu[illegible] Embassy of the Republic of China in Washington.

City's life quality ranked one of the worst in nation

By Douglas O'Boyle

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Baltimore and its surrounding suburbs have one of the greatest differences in life quality among large U.S. cities and the gap will continue to widen unless government changes are made, according to a new study.

The study by the Brookings Institution measured factors such as unemployment, per capita income, housing and education levels in 55 large American cities and their surrounding areas.

Compiling the data and accounting for regional differences, the study found that Baltimore had the fourth highest "hardship index figure" among areas studied. The index is a measuring device used to show imbalance between cities and suburbs.

* * *

Baltimore was given a hardship rating of 226. Newark, N. J. ranked first with 422.

The study by the Washington based "think tank" ranked Baltimore eighth worst in a comparison of cities. On the other hand, a comparison of Baltimore suburbs against suburbs for the other 54 cities ranked Baltimore's neighbors 12th best.

The juxtaposition of a relatively poor city surrounded by relatively affluent suburbs shows that the "burden spreading" and "resources sharing" in the Baltimore area is very unequal, the study said.

To correct the imbalance, the study recommended major changes in the structure of metropolitan area governments, such as annexation by central cities of surrounding communities.

The study said that when the city-to-suburb ratio is high, like Baltimore's, "fight to the suburbs can be expected to accelerate and urban crisis conditions will deepen."

The study found that the greatest city-suburb imbalances — very poor cities surrounded by very rich suburbs — are in the northeastern U.S. by contrast, metropolitan areas in the south and west generally showed smaller imbalances.

* * *

"Typically, these troubled (northeastern) cities are old . . . with boundaries encompassing a relatively small proportion of their total metropolitan area and characterized by problems of aging structures and a concentration of high-cost, low-income population," said the study's authors, Richard P. Nathan and Paul R. Dommel recently before a Congressional committee.

New Bible has cartoons

ORANGEBURG, S.C. — Dr. H. D. Flowers II, associate professor of dramatic arts and director of drama at South Carolina State College in Orangeburg, was unanimously elected vice-president of the South Carolina Theatre Association for the next two years in a recent election.

Dr. Flowers' responsibility will be to set up programs to unify theatres in South Carolina on the secondary, college, university community, children's and professional levels.

His major concerns will be to reorganize the state program, which has affiliation with the Southeastern Theatre Conference and the American Theatre Association, and to organize the next state meeting for the theatres of South Carolina in November 1977, at Anderson, S.C.

There is a new Bible out with cartoons called 'Good News Bible Rev. R. Edward Dawdy, pastor of Grace Baptist Church said. "The new Bible may become as familiar as the King James version which has been the classic English Bible since 1611."

The aim of the Bible is to give today's readers maximum understanding of the content of the original texts. It was translated and published by the United Bible Societies for use throughout the world.

The gold hard back Bible only cost $2.50 and $1.90 for a paperback copy. Read more about the 'Good News Bible' and what ministers are saying about it in Tuesday's AFRO.

Mrs. Mary L. Bowley, long Methodist, dies

Memorial services were held last Tuesday for Mrs. Mary Lou Bowley, widow of the late Dr. J. Guy Bowley, in the sanctuary of Lewin United Methodist Church. She died Friday, Nov. 19 and kept her age to herself to the end.

Mrs. Bowley was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Wilson of Baltimore. She was born in the city and attended public schools here.

She married her husband Jan. 17, 1918. Their daughter is Mrs. Bernice Bowley Crisg.

At an early age, Mrs. Bowley joined the John Wesley United Methodist Church in South Baltimore where she was an active member. She sang in the choir for 50 years.

When John Wesley moved in 1958 to northwest Baltimore, Mrs. Bowley choose to remain with the John Wesley members who merged with the Lewin United Methodist Church.

She served Lewis as a trustee, a member of the Senior Choir and a member of the Administrative Board. She was a United Methodist woman who took an active part in all church programs until her health began to fail. Even then her daughter would bring her to church at various times. She continued to support the church financially until her death.

She was a member and officer of the following organizations:

Great Southern Temple No 30; I.B.P.O.E. of W. Zerrubabel Court No. 1; Heroines of Jericho; Rahab Grand Court Most Ancient and Grand Joshuasa Council; Daughter of Isis; Electra Chapter No. 1; Order of Eastern Star; Past Matrons and Patrons of Myra Grand Chapter, and Golden Circle and Charter member of the Lawet Club.

Survivors include her daughter, a chief of Social Services for the District of Columbia Junior Village, cousins and other relatives

Mrs. Bowley is buried in Baltimore Nations[illegible] Cemetery.

Panthers file suit

WASHINGTON — The Black Panther Party filed a $100 million suit this week against the FBI, CIA, Army Intelligence, the treasury and the U.S. Postal Service, charging its officials with trying to destroy the party since 1967.

"Through this lawsuit we intend to bring an end to a long, national nightmare, exposing that the most extreme and violent actions were employed by high government officials against citizens of this nation," said Ms. Elaine Brown, who chairs the Black Panthers.

"We hope the Carter administration will live up to its campaign promises to provide sunshine" in the government and disclose what has been happening since 1947, she said.

She said the high figure was sought because "this is a large class action suit that represents lots and lots of people."

The suit, filed in behalf of the party and families of party members alleged to have been killed because of government action, named past and former officials of the FBI, CIA, Treasury Department, Internal Revenue Service, the Army Intelligence branch and U.S. Postal Service.

The group's lawyer, Fred J. Hiestand of Berkeley, Calif., said the suit should serve the purpose of forcing government disclosure of acts the party has charged were committed.

Comedian activist Dick Gregory told the news conference he knows from personal experience the harassing activities of the federal government. "Somewhere down the line this has to stop happening," he said. (UPI)

Gilmor aids Hunter Home, Dukeland with fruit baskets

The Red Cross Youth group of Gilmor Elementary School sponsored a drive recently to make fruit baskets for the Anna Mae Hunter Home for the Blind and the Dukeland Nursing and Convalescent Home.

According to school officials, the drive held before the start of the Thanksgiving holidays was the combined effort of each class contributing a basket or a box of fruit using a Thanksgiving theme.

The 22 baskets were beautifully decorated and placed on display for the students to see before delivering them to the particular homes.

Anthony Wilson, president of the Red Cross Youth group and Dwight Smith, head of the Student Council, presented the baskets to James Duckett of the Hunter Home for the Blind and Mrs. Cathryn Lewis of Dukeland with the help of Michael Valentine, school assistant and Ms. Dorothy Reed and Ms. Dorothy Neale, Red Cross faculty sponsors.

Miss Sarabel Gitting, principal of Gilmor, believes the overwhelming team effort of each class helped make the drive, a success.

She stated the pupils learned to be good citizens by helping other persons in their community.

—Burman indicted, bail set

While heroin seizures leading to the indictment were valued at approximately $1.5 million, John A. Lund, regional director of the Drug Enforcement Administration for the Baltimore area, estimated the street value of heroin allegedly brought by this organization to the Baltimore area over a three year period to be in excess of $20 million after cutting and processing.

The indictment alleges that Burman was one of the major distributors in Baltimore obtaining his supply from Tiller and James Conway, a former policeman.

According to Radding there was enough evidence to convict Burman whom he said, had been arrested several times for possession and distribution of heroin but was always found not guilty.

Reading described Burman as a "street dealer" who multiplied his profits 15 times before it goes to the street. He said Burman who describes himself as a roofer, lives far above his means, possessing a plush home, a Mercedes Benz and a Jaguar.

* * *

As to his character, Radding said, Burman could not be trusted because he had a wide net of contacts "and has every right to escape and no right to stay."

Contradicting Radding, Burman's attorney Howard Cardin maintained Burman was a genuine businessman who could afford to live the way he does. Cardin stated Burman is a roofer, a promoter and a part owner of a recording company.

He stated his client's occupation in verified by the fact that Burman files his income tax every year. He said Burman is a sincere man who spent his leisure hours supporting charitable organizations.

Also indicted are:

EDWARD JAMES ROBINSON, 34, Los Angeles, Calif., who, it is alleged in the indictment, is the overall head of the organization and responsible for the shipment of hundreds of kilograms of brown heroin from Los Angeles to Baltimore, Philadelphia and Miami.

ALPHONSO PADILLA-SANCHEZ, 38, and Guillermo Flores-Calvello 20, Sonora, Mexico. The indictment alleges that Padilla and Flores were the Mexican sources of the heroin brought to Robinson for transhipment to Robinson's distributors.

JAMES KINNER CONWAY, 30, Baltimore, a former Baltimore city police officer.

JOSEPH LEWIS WALKER, 33, and Julia Walker, 40, Miami, Florida, husband and wife, were alleged in the indictment to be major traffickers of heroin in Miami, Fla., and its environs.

EARL SHEPPARD JR., 50, Philadelphia, Pa., and John Mayo, 33, Cherry Hill, New Jersey, are alleged in the indictment to be major traffickers in heroin in the Philadelphia, metropolitan area. It is further alleged that Sheppard and Mayo were customers of the Robinson organization and supplied personnel for said organization.
