A. Fuller as the Outstanding Omega Man of the Year.

Dr. Harrison is a well known educator and humanitarian at Morgan State University while Mr. Fuller has contributed outstanding service to the fraternity as its Keeper of Finance for several years.

On hand to receive the Pi Omega Chapter Awards for their respective organizations were: John Oliver, Baltimore AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers; Dr. John Gist, Baltimore City Public Schools; Travis Vauls, Baltimore Urban League; Sister Beverly Stanton of the Interdenominational Ministers Alliance; Dr. James Griffin, Morgan State University and Mrs. Enolia McMillan of the NAACP.

Herbert Frisby Historical Society

Mrs. Mary C. Spellman, hostess for the second meeting of the Herbert M. Frisby Historical Society's eleventh year, treated the members to a pre-Thanksgiving feast in the lovely dining room of the Broadview Apartments. Following dinner the members moved to the adjoining reception room for a few remarks by their president, Mrs. Bernice S. White, and introduction of their guest for the evening, Mrs. Anita Williams.

Mrs. Williams delighted her audience with her accounts and achievements as the first black member of Catholic Charities, once an entirely white organization.

In closing, Mrs. Williams and the members agreed that there is a definite need for today's young people to relate the achievements of yesteryear with those of today.

The society entertained guests, John DeCecilio, Elizabeth Johnson and Alston.

Epicureans

The Baltimore Chapter of National Epicureans ushered in the 1976 prevule activities at a luncheon meeting hosted by Eppie Bernadine Harrison.

Highlighting the meeting was a demonstration of very beautiful ideas for "do it yourself" Christmas designs. The members then used materials they had brought with them to produce some "I can't believe I did it" masterpieces.

Hats off to Mrs. Inez Kent, a former home economics teacher in the Baltimore City Public School System who served as demonstrator.

The club members followed up the next weekend in their tradition of "Eat, Drink and Be Merry" when they hosted an Egg Nog Champagne Sip at the home of Eppie Gordine Blount.
