High school pupils participate in three day mock UN confab

Fourteen city high school pupils participated in the 4th Annual Mid-Atlantic Region YMCA Model United Nation Assembly held recently at the Sheraton-Park Hotel in Washington, D.C.

According to the City's Northwest YMCA officials, the purpose of the three-day conference was to enable its participants to understand how the United Nations operates through involvement in mock sessions and councils discussing real issues of international concerns.

At the end of the three days, Miss Sarah Banks, an 11th grader from Edmondson High school, was the first person selected to serve on the 20 member YMCA's Foreign Policy council.

Picked from 850 delegates, Miss Banks is currently enrolled in the Harbor City Learning Center Transitional Program and works after school at the Mary E. Rodman Recreation Center as a youth counselor.

She attended the conference as the Ambassador to the General Assembly representing the country of Liberia.

As a member of the Foreign Policy Council, Miss Banks will help plan next year's program and present this year's resolutions to the President, Congress and the U.N. in New York.

Pupils who took part in the conference prepared for it three months in advance.

YMCA officials said the 14 youths gathered at the Northwest YMCA, local Libraries and their respective schools to study issues relevant to the countries assigned to them by the organization.

After their research had been completed, the youths forwarded position papers to the regional office for publication in the Assembly's program guide.

Once at the conference they participated in discussion centering on issues in the various countries, voted on several resolutions and heard talks from various State Department and country representatives.

Those from Baltimore who attended the conference included Dwayne Patterson from City College; Robin Hall from Walbrook High and Lorette Brooks from Carver High representing the country of Liberia and C. LeMont Johnson, Linda Thomas, Sandra Alexander and Brenda Gamble from Douglass High School representing the country of Tanzania.

Also participating were Mark T. Grey, Diane Battle, Jewel Lewis, Kenneth Washington and Emanuel Tucker from Northwestern High School representing Uganda.

GREEN — In loving memory of our dear father, WALTER GREEN, who passed away December 29, 1975:
Seventy-four and seventy-five,
I don't know how I ever survived.

And left you here, one more year to stay:
But I am still trying to carry on,
Although both of you have gone.
I miss you both so very much,
And don't have either of you to touch;
Because I was there when you died,
Sitting right by your side.
I have tried so much that I am lost for tears,
I ask for God's help because I know he will hear;
And I am hoping one day we three,
Will meet and we will sing, shout, and worship at Jesus' feet.
