—Bell says, 'no regrets'

armed to continue the attack.

On Wednesday, Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington NAACP office, criticized Bell so sharply the beleagured nominee remained in hand in case he was called back for questioning about new charges Mitchell raised.

Mitchell said Bell helped create a package of legislative proposals that he called "a highly sophisticated scheme to deny civil rights to blacks", while Bell was chief of staff to Georgia Gov. Ernest Vandiver in 1959.

He also claimed Bell was "evasive" about this role during his two days of committee testimony. He said Bell "professed to be for reform" but actually was more interested in turning back the clock on integration.

Bell acknowledged being one of four lawyers who helped repare bills Vandiver introduced as part of his program to resist school desegregation orders of the supreme court, but claimed he was trying to save schools, not preserve segregation.

"I do not have any regrets about my participation in the Vandiver administration," he said. "I was a moderate when moderation was sorely needed . . . I don't feel I have anything to apologize for."

Other groups opposing Bell's confirmation included the Congressional Black Caucus, the National Alliance Against Racist and Political Repression, Socialist Workers party and the National Coalition to Aid Prisoners and Their Families.

Bell, most controversial of Carter's Cabinet choices, was sharply questioned on the two matters by Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md.

The 58-year-old Bell said he was wrong in upholding the Georgia House of Representatives ejection of black Rep. Julian Bond in the early 1960s because of his activist opposition to the Vietnam War.

Bell said he followed the law of the period that legislative bodies were highest judges of qualifications of their own members but that decision was overguled by a Supreme Court Decision that the right of free speech overrides all other considerations.

"It is quite obvious we were wrong and the Supreme Court was right," said Bell of the Bond decision he wrote as a member of a three-judge federal court.

But he added in his defense:

"I think if you will examine my record, you will find I'm very strong on freedom of speech."

Mathias cited another opinion in which Bell defended a president's use of wiretaps "without court warrants in national security cases.

Bell said once again his decision followed existing laws at the time when abuses had not come to light and he now would have "no trouble" in supporting recent legislation providing for judicial review of such taps.

When Mathias mentioned Bell's recommendation that the committee approve President Richard M. Nixon's appointment of federal Judge G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court, Bell said, "That is just a part of my record and I have to stand on it."

The Senate refused to confirm Carswell's nomi-

CORRECTION

Due to a mechanical error, the number to call for information about free vocational courses at Carver High School printed in Tuesday's AFRO was incorrect.

The correct number is 396-6704.

Pro Bowl sold

SEATTLE (UPI) — For first time in its 27-year history, the National Football League's Pro Bowl is a sellout. The Seattle Seahawks announced Tuesday that all 64,752 seats had been sold for the Monday night game, assuring the largest crowd ever under the NFC-AFC format.

—Bus stop rape trial

Morrison, 16, of the 3700 block Overview Rd., March 27, 1975. She was gunned down in cold blood outside her home.

The victim's father told police, "I heard her call my name twice. When I rushed downstairs I found her leaning against my car."

Miss Morrison was a student at Douglass High Evening School and was described as a likeable and friendly person.

MRS. SHARON TAYLOR TYNES

Mrs. Sharon Taylor Tynes, 23, of the 1600 block Manordene Rd. was shot to death around 4:50 a.m. June 28 while waiting for a bus in the 4400 block Garrison Blvd.

Police report Mrs Tynes' pocketbook and shoes were found near the body. She was eight months pregnant and was looking forward to attending a baby shower for her on June 29.

A graduate of Western High School and Community College of Baltimore, Mrs. Tynes was employed at the Maryland Training School for Boys as a youth supervisor.

Police report Mrs. Tynes' girlfriend had just walked her to the bus stop only minutes before she was found dead.

ATTEMPTED MURDER

Simms is also accused of attempting to murder Ms. Joan McNeil, 24, of the 4500 block Bricht Oak Ave., Dec. 11, 1975.

She was shot in the leg and pistol whipped while waiting for a bus in the 3000 block Delfield Ave.

Police said information received from the victims showed the mode of approach was the same. The victims were stopped while standing at a bus stop during the early morning hours.

The suspect allegedly carried a gun, forced the women to walk with him to a secluded spot and then sexually assaulted them.

POLICE DECOY

After police set up a decoy at bus stops in the area and it did not work, Commissioner Pomerleau got a professional makeup man to dress the officers in the Tactical Division as women and posted them in the area as bait.

For several months the men, in women's clothing, stood at corners acting as if they were waiting for a bus. Police reveal within a three month period, 13 men who looked like Simms were stopped, questioned and later released.

George H. Collins, warden of the Penitentiary, said Simms was suspended without pay pending outcome of his trial.

—Historian

tectural historian on the staff of the Maryland Commission on Afro-American History and Culture, according to Carroll Greene Jr. the acting executive director.

Greene notes that the Afro American Commission and the Maryland Historical Trust have been charged by the governor to give technical assistance to the Orchard Street Church project following the $200,000 appropriation voted by the 1976 General Assembly.

Quinroe has the responsibility of coordinating the state's effort in the restoration phase of the Orchard Church complex.

He holds a bachelor degree in Architecture from the University of Minnesota and a master's degree in architectural history from the University of Virginia.

Quinroe has also worked with the Model Cities program and with an architectural firm as a researcher and architectural-historian.

His study will include a detailed history of the two buildings composing the Orchard Church complex.

Photo documentation, architectural analysis and stylistic study of the details in the process he will make use of maps, photos, old church records and history.

Paint research will be necessary to determine dates and colors that have been used in the building. This documentation will be useful to the architects in their restoration proposals.

He will also point out areas where additional study is needed and help the architects to identify additional structural problems and peculiarities.

Greene announced that the Maryland Commission on Afro American History and Culture will issue a bimonthly report regarding the progress of Quinroe's research. Baltimore city agencies directly involved in this effort are the Urban Services Agency and the Housing and Community Development Department.

—Money order

money orders and $29,000 were taken in an armed holdup at 3155 Mais St., in Harford, Connecticut in 1976.

Police reports state Dobson also attempted to buy a $600 pool table Dec. 23, 1976 with a $600 stolen money order.

After being questioned by the store manager, Dobson was arrested and charged again with false pretense.

The case is now being investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Baltimore Police Department.

Dobson, was acquitted in 1973 of the gun-styled killing of Det. James A. "Turk" Scott, but was convicted on related charges of armed robbery, kidnaping, illegal use of a gun and receiving stolen goods.

Judge Robert B. Watts imposed a sentence of 15 years. Dobson was serving time at the Maryland Correctional Institute in Hagerstown, Md.

However, in 1975 Mrs. Elsbeth Boothe and Arnold Zerwitz presented the case before the Court of Special Appeals, the court ordered a new trial for Dobson and Judge Watts released Dobson March 5, 1975 from Hagerstown on $15,000 bail.

For All We Know

By Elizabeth M. Oliver
City Editor

OF ALL INAUGURAL EVENTS, the Friday morning Jan. 21 breakfast at the White House is the most eventful. A handful of "chosen few of the select," that's all, will be dining with President and Mrs. James Carter, Amy Carter and the rest of the family on little sausages, scrambled eggs, grits and some other Southern tid bits, perhaps corn pone.

AMONG THE CLOSE FRIENDS will be A. Dwight Pettit, Baltimore lawyer who began with Jimmy Carter over two years ago and when he entertained him in his Baltimore home, only a few guests arrived. That was when everyone was saying "Jimmy who?"

BALTIMORE'S MARY CARTER SMITH will be the mistress of ceremony at the "next best" presidential party slated Jan 20.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT READS:

"The Maryland Special Presidential Inaugural Reception Committee reveals that along with elegant buffet and open bar there will be a full evening of local as well as national entertainment for their guests at the Jan. 20 '977 salute to President James E. Carter, "on Capitol Hill."

This gala evening of festivites will be held in the Cannon House Caucus Room 1st and Independence Avenue, SE Washington, D.C. will be highlighted by the appearance of the Manhattans, a nationally known recording group.

ALSO FEATURED will be the Bill Cummins Combo, a local recording group.

Other featured guest artists will be poet Alice McGill, Edna Isaacs Green, of the world famous Green sisters; Ruby Glover, local great jazz vocalist and Judy Beasley.

Also appearing will be Orville Johnson and the Baltimore Dance Theatre, and the PO MO JA Experience.

Baltimore's own Poetess, Mary Carter Smith will MC the program.

BUS TRANSPORTATION to Washington has been arranged with Midway Charter Coach Co. Bus will leave Mondawmin Shopping Center at 6:30 and return at 12:30.

Reservations at $25 per person, can be made by calling 462-1918 or mailing your check or money order to the Maryland Special Presidential Reception Committee at 2228 N. Longwood St., Baltimore, Maryland, 21216.

According to Mrs. Perry, proceeds from this event will be donated to the Joint Center for Political Studies, Washington, D.C.

UPI SAYS any Maryland resident willing to spend $10 is invited to a Pre-Inaugural Bash for President-elect Jimmy Carter Jan. 18 in Washington, D.C.

THOSE ATTENDING the state's three-hour reception won't even have to leave the train station to attend the party.

State Sen. James Clark, D-Howard, said, a special train with at least 15 cars will originate in Philadelphia and make stops in Maryland before heading to Washington's Union Station where the party will be held.

STOPS WILL BE MADE at Baltimore's Pennsylvania Station and the Capitol Beltway Station. If there are enough party-goers, stops also may be made in Elkton or Aberdeen. Fifteen musical and choral groups will participate in the Maryland reception.

PRESIDENTIAL PARTY GUESTS of the "first water" will be at the Jan 20, "till dawn Mayflower Hotel. That's called the White House Ball or Party" as the Carters prefer. FORMAL attire will "look funny" since it is said it's "optional". Georgia's first "family" will be "dressing it.

THERE IS ANOTHER "upper crust" thing, the private party the Judge L. Howard Bennetts are giving at their home for Vice President Fritz Mondale. He and Judge Bennett are "home boys", from Minnesota.

Judge Bennett was the first of his race to be assistant secretary of Defense under Senator H. H. Humphrey.

"He and his wife, Clay Brown Bennett, were my classmates at Fisk University. More guests will be Dr. and Mrs. John Hope Franklin, also our Fisk classmate.

THERE ARE 11 BIG PARTIES I know of but the number is probably multiplied by 200 when you realize every hotel suite will be the center of more and more private ones. Some Baltimore lawyers say theirs will last thru Sunday, five days.

OUR 51.3 PERCENT CLUB for Jimmy Carter has its reception Wednesday at the State Department lounge, a plush affair.

GEORGIA FOLKS coming on a train by the hundreds have a bargain price package for parlor car and hotel accommodations in D.C. and include the sister and brother-in-law of Mrs. Joan Purdear, a Southern High teacher. They are the Rev. and Mrs. Charles Stokes. He is the pastor of Dr. Martin Luther King's old church in Atlanta.

MOST COLORFUL man on the D.C. Jan. 20 scene will be without a doubt Dr. Martin Luther King Sr. who folks say will soon become an ambassador.

Of course, Mrs. Coretta King will be on the front row at the swearing-in and everywhere else.

The cameras will focus on her, and she's pretty photogenic, dark enough to tell she is NOT white.

BALTIMORE MINISTERS will sit in a group at the swearing-in as guests of Congressman Parren J. Mitchell.

SENATORS AND CONGRESSMEN as well as leading groups like AFL-CIO have free tickets for "special friends", but other folks, even if you are mayor of a U.S. town or president of a college, you have to pay $25 a head to attend any of the parties or balls.

THE INVITATIONS are souvenirs, only for framing and don't mean a thing when it comes to doling the $25 fee.

It is estimated that something like $25 million will be in the kitty when all is over and the souvenir books at $15 each and the medals are all sold. The medals ranging from gold to plain silver have Jimmy Carter's face engraved on them and cost as much as $200 each.

WHAT TO WEAR. The ladies are asking? Why ask when Mrs. Carter, the U.S. President's wife and Mother Lillian are going to be frocked in old dresses, the same dress for all full occasions. Therefore and sooooooo, you can wear your own last year's gown.

CLOTHES WILL NOT be the thing this time but those with "the least" are destined to have on "the most", dripping in mink and sable. Many movie stars are "arriving" to be seen but are not due to be "special Carter guests."

JAN. 20 AFFAIR at the Cannon House Office Building is the P. J. Mitchell "visit to my office" just after the swearing-in.

The swearing-in by the way is only 15 minutes, they say, long. After Sen. J.'s reception there is another in Room 390 of the House Office Building Budget Committee Hearing Room.

COVER YOUR NOSE with a scarf when you're outdoors in D.C. in the freezing weather. Word is your nose and lungs will freeze otherwise and you will have a blessed headache like an ice cream headache that will kill you all day.

JUDGE JAMES L. BUNDY is resting well at home after an illness.

THE BEAUTIFUL WEDDING of Miss Lona Gail Bundy, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Bundy, of Baltimore and Randy, Marion Dula, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Dula, of Lenoir, N.C., took place on Dec. 11 in Oxon Hill, Md. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Bundy.

The aunt of the bride, the Rev. Virginia S. Scott, assistant pastor of Hemingway Temple, Chapel Oaks, Md., performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a pale silver dress with matching headpiece. The groom wore a matching pale silver suit.

THE BRIDE was given away by her father, Judge Bundy. The bride's sister, Miss Deborah S. Bundy, was maid of honor and wore an eggshell dress. The brother of the bride, Raymond W. Bundy, was the best man.

MOTHER OF THE groom, Mrs. Mary Rosa Dula, wore a pastel blue gown with floral arrangement. The mother of the bride, who furnished the music, wore a pastel orange gown. Mrs. Henry P. Bundy sang the solo.

Mr. and Mrs. Randy M. Dula will soon reside in Mayport, Fla. where the groom will be stationed at the Naval Base.

"Dr. King is an inspiration to all of us and in recognition of this fact many citizens feel that the Baltimore City Government should now demonstrate its commitment by declaring Jan. 15 an official City government holiday and closing all City offices.

This should be the natural development in a City with a strong commitment to human rights, especially since over half of the City's population is black and Dr. King would be the first black American to be so honored by Baltimore City.

Baltimore now, the day is commemorated by public schools, which close in his honor, and by city employees in Local 44 of AFCSME, who take the day off from work.

The Maryland State Legislature has made Martin Luther King Day an official state government holiday.

Baltimoreans, in like manner, can show love for people by writing to their City councilpersons expressing support of Bill No. 13.

Also, watch the newspapers for the date of the City Council hearing. Let's get this bill passed and show the world that Baltimore is best!
