Hutzler's MID-WINTER sale

40% off
original prices entire stock
of ski parkas
$24.99 to $30.99
originally $43 to $52
save $18 to $21

The ubiquitous ski jacket just keeps getting better . . . there's nothing as well loved to wear over your jeans or as an important ski essential. Wherever you wear it, it's now at the most affordable price ever, beating out the wind chill in many styles and colors. Just four from a selection of machine washable parkas with nylon shell, nylon lining.
A-Green, orchid; S,M,L,xL; orig.$45, $26.99
B-In yellow; S,M,L,xL; orig. $43, $24.99
C-In peach; S,M,L,xL; orig. $47, $27.99
D-Navy blue; S,M,L; orig. $43, $24.99
Intermediate markdowns have been taken.
Sportswear—Downtown, Towson, Westview, Eastpoint, Southdale, Salisbury

HUTZLER'S

TODAY'S HOURS: Downtown 10-5:30; Suburban stores 10-9:30. For telephone orders, call anytime 727-4321. Outside the Baltimore area call toll-free 1-800-492-6511 in Md. only. BankAmericard, Master Charge, Hutzler charge.

lifestyles, fashions, women, Reflections food, youth, society, clubs

AFRO-AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS

WEEK ENDING FEBRUARY 5, 1977

Hiram's Shriners have ball at Ball

AFRO staff photos by Norma L. Spencer

SHRINERS AND GUESTS — at the famed ball held last Friday at Martin's West included (L to R:) Mrs. Myrtle Blackwell and Nobel Denzer C. Blackwell, Illustrious Potentate; Miss Helen N. Benton, Supreme Deputy of the Queen of Sheba Court, and Noble Irving Monroe.

OFFICERS OF Medina Temple No. 1, hosts of the Shriners' Ball include (from L to R): Franklin Parker, public relations; Herman Woody Lee, chairman of the affair; George Green Hill, assistant Rabban; Frank M. Johnson, Illustrious Potentate, and Amos A. Baxter, Illustrious Rabban.

NOBLE Jesse Stevenson and Cubie Thomas Dance "cheek to cheek" at annual Shriner's Ball.

DELTAS MARK 63RD YEAR

Attorney Karen Galloway left no stone unturned

Aloha J. McCullough
Baltimore Delta president

June G. Ross
Chairperson of affair

DELTA held its Founders' Day on Sunday at Blue Crest North where Dr. Karen Galloway gave the keynote address. The young attorney is shown here with her mother, Mrs. Grace Bethea.

By Marie Phillips-Cooke
Reflections Editor

She spoke. Her message was heard by the few hundred Delta Sigma Theta women and guests who attended the 64th Founders' Day celebration on Sunday at Blue Crest North.

Dr. Karen Bethea Galloway, defense attorney in the Joanne Little case, left no stone unturned:

"I am a non-traditionalist and my job today is to make you feel most uncomfortable. We've become too comfortable about what we've done in the past, while we watch racism rise up . . .

"I don't see any justice in our system as it exists today," Dr. Galloway said to the group which included judges who sit on local benches, including the Hon. Robert B. Watts who introduced her.

"Our judiciary system has a lot to pay for. Black people have a lot to pay for — the struggles they have had to go through.

Attorney Galloway cited an example: "Black women attorneys are still looked down upon" and told of an incident involving herself in a North Carolina court room.

But prior to the courtroom story, she said, she'd had a "good feelin'" until one day when leaving Durham, N.C. a white man commented, "bye n—r."

"It doesn't matter how many degrees you have, you're still a n—r," she said. "I'm trying to find the 'turkey' who says racism doesn't exist today.

"The judicial system is rampant with racism and sexism. And those who're in a position to do the most do the least."

Sister Galloway told the story of Joanne Little beginning with when she and her brother (who later turned state's evidence, against his sister) were charged with breaking and entering in eastern North Carolina, the "most racist part of the state."

Dr. Galloway told it all and with no sugar coating.

She told how the jailhouse guard, who Joanne was accused of killing — unjustifiably — was found nude from the waist down," with sperm dripping from . . ."

She told how she, her law partners, a team of 175 supporters and $350,000 set Joanne free.

The young attorney took her listeners through the entire process, from the jury selection to the changing of attitudes concerning racism to measuring a questionnaire that dealt with the topic of rape and the black woman.

The questionnaire was circulated after the trial had ended. One of the items was: "Do you think black women have lower morals than white women?" Most, she said, answered "yes." The poll, she added, was taken in the eastern "most racist" region of the state.

So you see "we've become too comfortable," she restated, "and the same thing is happening over and over again. Just recently, two black women in the North Carolina jails reported they had been raped by deputy sheriffs . . . nothing's being done."

Rev. Agnes Alston
Local Delta chaplain

Chapelle Armstead
Eastern Regional Director

Program Highlights

The Founders' Day program was highlighted with the presentation of service awards to six Delta women who have not only made exceptional contributions to the sorority, but also to the community.

They are: Gwendolyn Brooks, Charlene Cooper, Ruby Gill, Laura Knight, Hazel Parks and Ruth Pratt. The awards were presented by Chappelle Armstead, Eastern Regional Director of Delta.

Other highlights included: Delta Prayer, sung by the Delta Octette, under the direction of Gloria Stokes; invocation and benediction by Delta chaplain the Rev. Agnes M. Alston; welcome by June G. Ross, chairperson for the affair; greetings from Dwight Pettit, president of the Monumental Bar Association; greetings from the local president, Aloha J. McCullough, and from the National President, Thelma P. Daley, and a citation from the Mayor's office and City Council by Marguerite Campbell, Mayor Schaefer's administrative assistant.

Delta Officers

The Baltimore chapter officers are: Aloha McCullogh, president; Laura Knight, first vice-president; Sara Smalley, second vice-president; Hazel Parks, third vice-president;

Floryne McLean, recording secretary; Annette Hall, corresponding secretary; Maggie Wiggins, financial secretary;

Carol Talley, treasurer; Gladys Bragg, assistant treasurer; Dorothy Barrick, journalist; Thelma Cox, historian; Juliette Bragg, parliamentarian; Doris Nash, sergeant-at-arms, Agnes Alston, chaplain.

Inside Reflections

R.S.V.P. with Marie gets "beginnings"
Columbia Capers
Rice Is Meal-mate
Woodlawn Highlights
Club news

Coming to Reflections

So You Want To Be A Nurse
Homesteading vs. Black People
The Mahogany Message: WEAA Radio
Roots: Afro-American Recipes

Community calendar

Feb. 4
Continuing Legal Education Service of the University of Baltimore School of Law presents symposium on "Partnerships for the General Practioner," 1:30-5 p.m., auditorium of UB Library, 1420 Maryland Ave.

Feb. 4
Second Anniversary Celebration of the Deliverance Specials of the East Baltimore Deliverance Center, 1001 N. Caroline St., 7:30 p.m. nightly. Call: 276-2470

Feb. 5
The Philomathians Club holds monthly meeting, 4801 Forest Park Ave., 6 p.m.

Dinner dance and fashion show sponsored by the World Community of Islam, Mosque No. 6, Lord Baltimore Hotel, 6-11 p.m. Call - Mrs. Boyd, 837-3205.

Pre-Valentine Disco Dinner Party, by the Grand United Order of Odd Fellows, 2557 Madison Ave., 9 p.m.-1 a.m. Call: 523-9366.

Douglass High School Class of 1957 holds its 20th reunion, Ramada Inn, Security Boulevard, 7 p.m.-1 a.m. Call: 542-5130 or 633-6786.

"People Act," an exhibit of the work of local black artists, Madison Avenue YWCA, 1912 Madison Ave., 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Call 669-1881.

Adult Seminars, Madison Avenue YMCA: "How To Bring Out The Best In Yourself, Your Family, Your Friends," and "How To Improve Your Child's Reading and Speaking Vocabulary." Call 669-1881.

Association of Black Media Workers sponsors a cocktail sip and soccer play at the Maryland Historical Society, 201 W. Monument St., 6 p.m. "Sunday."

Interdenominational Ministers Wives Alliance meet at the Garrison Blvd. United Methodist Church where the Rev. Roscoe C. Williams is pastor. Hostesses are Mrs. Roscoe Williams (Helen) and Mrs. Kelly Jackson (Viola). Theme is "In Genatric Ministry," 3 p.m.

Feb. 6
Auditions for models who want to be in the Provident Fashion Show, Emanuel Chambers Auditorium, Provident Hospital, 3-9 p.m.

"The Past Is Only a Beginning," lecture by Augusta Baker, editor and author, in honor of 50 years of Children's services, at Central Pratt Library, 3:30 p.m.

Courtney Club sponsors A. E. Jones Singers and the Rev. Benjamin Faust in concert at St. John AME Church, 810 N. Carrollton Ave., 4 p.m.

Testimonial dinner honoring Dr. Pearl C. Brackett, Hills Crest North, 401 Reisterstown Rd., 4-8 p.m. Call: 396-7120.

Feb. 7
Maryland Commission for Women sponsors "Seminar of Women's Property Rights," 9:30 a.m. — 12:30 p.m., Pikesville Hilton Inn, Beltway Exit 20 and Reisterstown Rd.

"Arthritis," an information program co-sponsored by the Arthritis Foundation and Enoch Pratt, at the Pratt Library's Forest Park Branch, 7 p.m.

Feb. 9
"America: Making a Revolution" (Part 3), film at Central Pratt Library, 2 p.m.

Feb. 9
"Arthritis," an information program co-sponsored by the Arthritis Foundation and Enoch Pratt, at Pratt's Library's Education Ave. Branch, 1 p.m.

Feb. 10
Annual Frederick Douglass Memorial Lecture, Morgan State University, Jenkins Hall, Room 104, 10 a.m. Guest lecturer: Herbert G. Gutman, professor of history, City College of New York.

"The Natural History of Our World: The Time of Man," film at Pratt Library's Govans Branch, 6:30 p.m.

Feb. 11
After-Five sponsors a shopping trip to Reading, Pa. Buses leave from Mondawmin Parking Lot, 7:00 a.m. Call: 945-4552

Black Student Union of the U. of Md. School of Social Work and Community Planning presents Beltye Thomas in conjunction with Black History Week, 525 W. Redwood St., Administration Building, 7:30-9 p.m.

February Class of 1938 of Frederick Douglass High School hosts an informal dinner-dance reunion, Elks Home, 2008 Harford Ave., 7:30 p.m.

Feb. 11-12
Henry McNeil Turner Society of Bethel AME Church sponsors a Pan-African Liberation Conference. Events include: A film premiere, presentation by representatives of liberation struggles and a reception with Caribbean and African ambassadors. Call: 837-8586, 837-7570.

Feb. 12
Epsilon Omega, Alpha Delta and Epsilon Kappa Chapters of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority observe Founders' Day, noon, Blue Crest North, 401 Reisterstown Rd. Guest speaker: Dr. Gwendolyn Goldsby Grand, educator-lecturer. Call: 523-7642.

Morgan State University co-sponsors a reception entitled "A Night with the Ambassadors", University Refectory at 8 p.m. (This is part of the Pan-African Liberation Weekend sponsored by the Henry McNeil Turner Society.) Call: 893-3266, 893-3267

Quota Club of Baltimore, sponsors a Texas Bar BQ, Dundalk National Guard Armory, 2107 North Point Blvd, 5 p.m. to 1 a.m. Proceeds to Baltimore-Central Maryland League for Crippled Children and Adults. Call: 323-0500.

Professionals First Annual St. Valentine's Cabaret, Elks Home, 1528 Madison Ave. Call: 362-8984.

Merry Makers Annual Sweetheart Ball, Le Fontain Rouge, 3407 Belair Rd., 10 a.m. - 2 a.m. Call: 383-3453.

Feb. 12
The Church of St. Katherine of Alexandria presents the "Young Artists Series" with Leroy O. Dorsey, bass, a vocal instructor at Howard University and soloist with the National Symphony Orchestra, Division and Pressman Street, 4 p.m. Call: Mrs. Dungee, 462-5117 or Mr. Wright, 433-2069.

Continued on page 11

SEND COMMUNITY NOTES
You can have your notices included free on the AFRO's Community Calendar. Send the dates of meetings, civic and social events, weddings, parties . . . anything of community interest to: Community Calendar, P.O. Box 1537, Baltimore, Md. 21203

FEB