Allen Quille lauded by B'nai B'rith as a living bridge between races

By Elizabeth M. Oliver
City Editor

A Bolla Royce was parked out front, inside diamond-studded guests assembled to dine at tables sparkling with silver plates, crystal and fresh flowers.

Present were big business executives, Supreme Bench jurists, "practically the whole courthouse," Mayor Schaefer and great and small citizens, an interracial group never-before seen and including Jews, Gentiles, Catholics, Protestants, folks from all walks.

This was the Blue Crest North setting for the B'nai B'rith Abraham Schrecter Lodge Outstanding Citizen Award $50-a-plate Dinner Wednesday night honoring Allen Quille.

Quille, known as "The Parking Lot King," is probably the most beloved community personality who, as it was said, has formed a bridge between the races, the black and Jewish sectors.

Coming from an humble beginning, the resourceful businessman has risen to wealth and prominence but, as he was lauded, remains friendly, kind and generous.

After receiving the B'nai B'rith highest honor and awards from the mayor, Baltimore County's Ted Venetoulis, and other crowning salutes, Quille revealed "why, me?"

* * *

Responding to questions from people, on why are you so involved with the Jews, Quille said his desire to return favors comes from "when I had nothing and they helped me."

* * *

To sustained applause and ripples of laughter, he recalled when the Jewish store on the corner in the black neighborhood in which he resided, enabled his family and others to get food "when there was no money to pay for it."

Admitting there was a charge of a few pennies more, he said getting the food to eat was what mattered and "who cared when there would be no paying of the bill anyway."

Quille pointed especially to the fact that the Jewish merchant seemed to understand, was still friendly and kind.

He also cited a Jewish property owner who tore up a $150,000 lease he, Quille, "couldn't live with," and later gave him a break so he could more easily buy the property.

* * *

Herman Edelsberg, prominent attorney and civil rights leader and one time head of the Equal Opportunities Commission, guest speaker for the occasion, discussed programs to eliminate discrimination and to promote peace.

Citing Quille as an humanitarian and Baltimore's leading civic personality, Edelsberg said the Quille Story is an Horatio Alger Story, inspiring others to move ahead.

"When others feel they carry the burden of discrimination on their backs, they should look at the Quilles and the Jackie Robinsons who have overcome" he said.

* * *

Toastmaster Judge Sol Liss said such interracial gatherings should occur more often.

Lauding Quille as the greatest example of a citizen who has found a way to harmony among all people, the jurist said more of his kind could solve the big white-black problem.

He said, "The trouble is, we haven't been able to talk to each other. We need more Allen Quilles for a better Baltimore."

Judge Liss, in his usual humorous way, set the stage for the gala evening which saw ladies in long summer formal wear and gentlemen in ruffled shirts and jackets of red, blue and other rainbow colors.

Scores of crystal chandeliers sparkled amid dozens of live bouquets of red and yellow on the huge head table. Jewish rituals, prayers and chants preceded the singing of the National Anthem.

The banquet room hummed with lively conversation during the cocktail hour and throughout the dinner.

The audience roared when Judge Liss said Quille has promised, "If slavery ever comes back, he'll buy me." Junior League jokes and a story about a hunting dog named Old Blue plus reference to Mayor Schaefer and Judge Liss "doing the hula," kept the evening literally rocking.

Both Mayor Schaefer and Venetulous proclaimed May 18 as Allen Quille Day in Baltimore and the County and gave plaques saying so. The B'nai B'rith plaque has Quille's photo engraved upon it.

On the program were M. David Walters, Cantor David Levine, Rabbi Nahum Ben Natan, David Rubin, Ray Klein, Ben Miller, Arlie Hausman, Sidney Greenfield, Melvin M. Dessor, the general dinner chairman.

A glance around the crowded room brought to light a jolly group of businessmen, Leonard F. Moyer, owner of the Moyer Detective Agency and its president, Lawrence O. Brunt Sr.; James Lyles, president, Baltimore Association of Minority Contractors; Major Calvin Lewis, Commander of the Western Police District; Paul Fredericks, Pat Hayes Buick employee and Pat Hayes himself; Judges Edgar Silver, John Carroll Byrne, City Councilwoman Victorine and husband Little Willie Adams, Dr. Uthman Ray, City Council President Walter Orlinsky, Rub Kaplan, City Solicitor Ben Brown, Judge Harry Cole, County States Attorney Sandra O'Connor; City State's Attorney Bill Swisher; Dr. James Fisher, president of Towson State College who is a candidate for governor.

Larry Murphy, clerk of Criminal Court, was introduced as the proud father of two sons who had just passed the bar exams. Police Commissioner Donald Pomerleau was there along with Col. James A Wakins, Deputy and Chief of Patrol. Bishop Robinson; Major Clarence Roy, Mrs. George Russell Jr.; Morris Grossman, the grocer; Pat Duffy, Registrar of Wills Gilbert V. Rubin, City Zoning Board. Col. Box Harris, assistant to Governor Mandel and Lawyer Harry Kaufman, George Collins, TV 2; Mrs. Cortez Puryear;

Mother Mary of Good Counsel; Sister Mary Paul Lee, both of the Oblate Sisters of Providence; Father Jerome Moody, St. James and Johns Catholic Church, Alsquith and Eager; Sister M. Reginald Saint Frances Charles Hall, 501 E. Chase St., Father Matthew J. O. Rorke, Josephites, 1130 N. Calvert St.; Sister Brenda Motta of Saint Francis, NAACP president Mrs. Enolia McMillian and Mrs. Ida Purnell.

Ralph Abernathy joins MLK murder investigation

Dr. Ralph David Abernathy, who held the dying Martin Luther King in his arms at the assassination scene in Memphis, has joined the congressional team investigating the tragedy.

Dr. Abernathy made the disclosure May 15 when he appeared in Baltimore as the main speaker for the Fiftieth Anniversary celebration at Grace Memorial Baptist Church. The yearlong fete also marks the twentieth year of the pastor, Dr. Alfred C. D. Vaughn.

Dr. Abernathy refused to expand on what the Congressional investigation has turned up recently regarding the King death and that of President John F. Kennedy.

However, he did say he believes the group will eventually "get down to the truth."

LOSING GROUND

Dr. Abernathy, closely associated with King in his bus boycotts and civil rights efforts, told morning and afternoon audiences totaling 1,000 persons Sunday that at one time he decided to give up the freedom fight which lately has seemed to lose ground and interest nationally.

He said black citizens "are still far from free" and "there is much to be done."

On this point he lashed out at President Carter, his fellow Georgian, saying, "He's dragging his feet.

"He must stay on the case and refuse to take crumbs from his table. He promised to give the poor and black citizens who elected him, a large part to play. He hasn't done it."

ALL THE WAY

Citing vast joblessness, as yet unrelieved and also the "too many people still without medical care, Abernathy vowed to continue fighting bias and discrimination.

He said he decided under the circumstances therefore to "go all the way" and added, "I will die with the staff in my hand."

Dr. Vaughn introduced Abernathy as the pastor of Atlanta's West Hunter Street Baptist Church and as one of the greatest civil rights leaders of all times.

Dr. Vaughn also presented plaques to nine citizens to mark the day as "Vaughn Day."

HONOREES

He and Mrs. Vaughn and Rev. and Mrs. Samuel T. Redd also feted Dr. Abernathy and the honorees at a banquet at the Reed home on Loch Raven Blvd.

The recipients of the plaques were AFRO City Editor Elizabeth Murphy Oliver; AFRO church reporter Pam Widgeon; Col. James A. Watkins, Delegates Troy Brailey and Joseph Chester; noted journalist Christine Hall, Wanda Dobson of the Evening Sun; Elizabeth Vaughn Gaither, the pastor's sister and Doris Lee Williams.

Other guests at the dinner were Judge and Mrs. Milton Allen. Mrs. Troy Brailey, Mrs. Joseph Chester; Mrs. Cortez Puryear, Mrs. A. C. D. Vaughn, Mrs. Mildred Vaughn, Dr. James L. Moore, John Gaither, Corrigan Vaughn, Mr. and Mrs. Bobbie Williams, Mrs. Martha Holmes, Mrs. Cora Boyles, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Washington, Eddie Moore, Ms. Jessie Jones, Lynette Vaughn and Cassandra Vaughn.

Among those on the Friends' Day program at the church were Rev. George Paige, Deacons Chester Washington and Langston Talley, Mrs. Arnetta Harper, Dr. Baxter L. Matthews, Mrs. Loretta Daniels, Dr. Walter F. Paige, Mrs. Elizabeth Reed, Dr. Stanley Madison, Dr. R. M. Williams; members of the Sharon Baptist and Grace church choirs, the Pearl Young Rosebuds and the Grace Mass Choir.

Deacon Talley is 50th Anniversary year chairman. Rev. W. L. Parrish II is co-pastor with the Revs. George R. Paige and Samuel T. Redd, assistants.

Grace Memorial was organized in 1927 in the Star Movie Theatre Auditorium by the late Rev Albert J. Greene.

Members later raised enough money for a down payment on the church at Chase and Eden Sts. (present site.) The late Rev. Mr. Green and members marched into their new church home on July 28, 1929.

In 1968 the Rev. Dr. Vaughn was installed as pastor of Grace. He was formerly pastor of the Promise Land Baptist Church, Moneta, Virginia.

The Rev. Dr. Vaughn, who is known to work hard and keep his church clubs and organizations in an up-to-date manner has also increased the membership at Grace.

Fleming re-elected to MSU regent board

As expected by most of the persons at Morgan State University, Dr. G. James Fleming was re-elected chairman of the university's Board of Regents.

During the regular monthly meeting held Wednesday, the board re-elected Mrs. Edna O. Campbell, member of the State Board of Higher Education, as vice chairman and Nathaniel Hoff, as secretary. The vote was by secret ballot.

Fleming, who has been a member of the board for 11 years was a sure winner in the annual election because of his outspoken support of Dr. Andrew Billingsley, president of MSU, and his plan for the future growth of the school as a university.

He was elected chairman in September, 1976 in the midst of controversy that charged Dr. Billingsley was flagrant in his duties as president.

At that time, Billingsley had been charged with misconduct by several ex-employes and Board member, Mrs. Enolia V. McMillan, then chairman, requested a full investigation by an outside state organization and a posponement of Billingsley's inauguration.

However, the matter was dropped after Fleming's appointment.

County appoints administrative aide

Ms. Narriett Tate, a 22-year-old graduate of Western High School and of the Community College of Baltimore, has been appointed to the staff of Baltimore County Executive Theodore G. Venetoulis as an administrative aide.

Hired through the federally-funded Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, Ms. Tate assists Administrative Assistant Eileen Marion in preparing Venetoulis' schedule, in arranging meetings and appointments for the county executive and answering many of the numerous invitations he receives each day.

A senior at Towson State University, Ms. Tate balances the heavy work load of her new job with studies in Health Management. Before being hired by the County Executive's office, she worked for seven years as a medical laboratory technician.

Characterizing her new duties as "challenging, if in no other way than in extending simple human courtesy to the many individuals I'm in touch with every day," Narriett says "each invitation to an event or speaking engagement that the county executive receives is handled with a sensitivity that is a top priority for the organizations that send them. Working with Eileen Marion to balance his schedule, trying to be fair to each invitation, involves a lot of responsiblity."

Since last November, Ms. Tate has also been a member of the Maryland Task Force on Volunteerism under the sponsorship of the State Commission on the Status of Women. With other task force members, she is researching the board spectrum of volunteer activities carried out throughout Maryland with the hope of promoting the value of an individual's volunteer experience in future employment.

A native Baltimorean, Ms. Tate now lives in Carney.

Cardiss Collins

(Special To AFRO)

The first national conference focusing on the development, growth and awareness of and about black women will be held June 4, Jenkins Hall, at Morgan State University.

The national chapter of the Black Women's Consciousness Raising Association, Inc. (BWCRA) formed in 1975 in Baltimore by Louise Johnson is sponsoring the event in conjunction with the Political Science Department of Morgan State University.

The theme of the conference is "The Dynamic Black Woman Getting it All Together."

"At this conference we hope to attract all people, not just women, but those who need to learn or better understand the changing role of the black woman in today's society," says Mrs. Johnson.

Key addresses from Congresswoman Cardiss Collins of Chicago, Ill., Congressman Parren J. Mitchell of Baltimore, Md. and Len Taylor of Essence magazine will highlight the day's program with key address es to participants.

A documentary film is scheduled to be photographed during the conference.

"Since there has been an increasing need for black women to assess where they are in terms of homes, family, career and their overall role in society, we have become aware of that need and are attempting to help women who find themselves in this position," adds Mrs. Johnson.

The day's activities, including workshops, will be conducted by various members of the community and of non-profit organization.

Concerned with fostering individual personal development, the members have organized some 12 workshops to provide a forum where all participants may gain a greater awareness of self and others.

The open panel workshops are: Women in Business, Health Care, Beauty Care, Poetry, Assertiveness-Aggressiveness Training, Career Planning.

You and Your Money, Title IX, Family Life, communications, Religion, Women in Politics.

Conference panelists and supporting organizations are: Marie Phillips-Cooke, AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers; Eruru Bandela, owner, Timbuktu, Center; Mary Clayburn, WWIN Radio; Oprah Winfrey, WJZ-TV 13;

Helen Stafford, Mayor's Office; Elaine Simmon, hair stylist; Sylvia Butler, hair stylist; Claudette Chandler, mayoral candidate '75;

Phyllis Shelton, WJZ-TV 13; Patricia Wheeler, WBAL-TV, 11;

Cecelia Bryant, Bethel AME Church; Louise Johnson, Coppin State College; Del. Lena K. Lee, Baltimore; Del. Hattie Harrison, Baltimore; State Senator Verda Welcome;

Speaking of Women

(A look at what black women are doing locally)

'You sure are beautiful'

By Marie P. Cooke
Women's Editor

A prominent political leader gazes into her stary Brown eyes. She smiles as he talks. She is seemingly listening to his every word. But 15 minutes later the 12-year veteran photographic and runway movel who is aspiring to be aFarrah Fawcett of color is mingling in the crowd of select townsfolk who came out in the rain on Wednesday night to see her.

Sheu's Miss Beefeater (gin), Marguerite Taylor, a Manhattan native and Rochelle, N.Y. native, who remembers her childhood playmate Richard "Dick" Roundtree, (star of "Shaft,") who lived just a few doors down the street.

The recently divorced 27-year-old "Pisces" was in town this week promoting the alcoholic beverage in key locations. In less than three days Ms. Taylor and a local distributor, Gen Giles, covered some 40 locations, including the AFRO.

Baltimore is just one of the major U.C. cited Ms. Taylor will visit before her January, 1978 contract expires. Houston Atlanta, St. Louis, and Detroit cocktail lounges and package goods stores will get to see the "girl whose picture is seen on the posies" in rea life.

They'll get to see her: 5'9, 135 lb., blemishless stature, her polished pearly white teeth and her light brown, sun-streaked tresses that gently fall in soft curls. She's picture-book pretty.

"Do you see yourself as a sex symbol," I asked midway through the interview. "The public sees me as a sex symbol. Men make flattering, masculine remarks like 'the 'ochs and ahs', 'you sure are beautiful', and 'I've never seen a girl like you before'."

Graphic work and freelance modeling comprise a typical work week for Ms. Taylor. However, every four to six weeks she's on the road as Miss Beefeater. "It's hard work, but I'm glad I'm getting across to the public. It's interesting meeting a lot of people," she says in a tone that makes you believe her.

Ah, but what does the future hold?

"My goal is to be an actress; that's my secret ambition." Since the early '70's, Ms. Taylor has gotten "bit parts" where she's had to play the sterotype roles. But she's gonna keep on knocking on doors until someone answers.

How does a model keep her size 8 shape? By cutting the lawn that surrounds her New Jersey suburb home. Swimming helps, too. And when the scales begin to tilt a little too much to the right, "I'll fast for a couple of days until I return to my normal weight."

Home-baked pastries made old-fashioned way

Honeyspun Batter Bread

2 pkg. active dry yeast
½ cup warm water
1 one-third cups milk, scalded
One-third cup butter of margarine
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
¼ cup honey
2 teaspoons salt
5 cups all-purpose flour
1½ cups quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
2 eggs
¾ cup raisins
½ cup chopped nuts

Dissolve yeast in warm water. Pour scalded milk over butter, sugar, honey and salt, stirring occasionally until butter melts; cool to warm. Add 2 cup flour, oats, eggs and dissolved yeast; beat well. Stir in remaining flour, raisins and nuts. Spoon batter into 2 greased 8½ x 4½ x 2½ inch loaf pans. Cover, let rise in warm place about 1 hour and 10 minutes or until double in size. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 40 to 45 minutes. Remove from pans; cool on wire rack.

Makes 2 loaves.

Molasses 'N Ginger Drops

½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
One third cup molasses
1 egg
1½ cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon soda
3 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked

Beat together butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Blend in molasses and egg. Add combined flour, soda, cinnamon, ginger and salt; mix well. Stir in oats. Drop dough by rounded teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheet. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 8 to 10 minutes.

Makes 3 dozen cookies.

Crunchy Crumb Apple Pie

Oat Pastry:
¾ cup all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup vegetable shortening
⅓ cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
3 to 4 tablespoons cold water

Apple Filling:
6 cups peeled apple slices
1 tablespoon butter of margarine, melted
2 teaspoons lemon juice
One-third cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon cinnamon

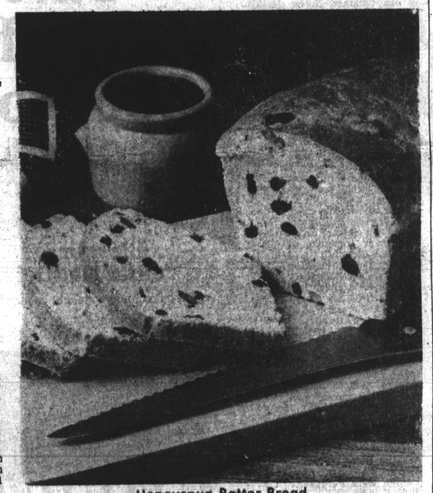
Crunch Topping:
Two-third cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
Two-thirds cup firmly packed brown sugar
One-third cup butter margarine, melted
¼ cup all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon cinnamon

For oat pastry, combine flour and salt; cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in oats. Sprinkle water by tablespoonfulls over mixture, stirring lightly until dry ingredients are moistened. Form into ball. Roll out on lightly floured surface to form 12-inch circle. Fit loosely into 9-inch pie plate. Turn edge under to form a ½-inch rim; flute.

For apple filling combine apples, butter and lemon juice; mix lightly. Add remaining filling ingredients; spoon into prepared crust.

For crunch topping combine all ingredients; mix well. Sprinkle evenly over filling. Bake in preheated moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 1 hour. Cool; serve warm.

Makes 9-inch pie.



Honeyspun Batter Bread

Sweet bread, breakfast, brunch an extravaganza

Peach Oatmeal Bread starts the day with all the wholesome goodness of whole wheat flour, rolled oats and canned cling peaches. There's an extra contribution of vitamins and minerals in the canned cling peach slices. Easily prepared, this bread keeps well in the refrigerator. It's perfect for sandwiches or a snack, and toasts deliciously.
