THE CHAMP AND HANA—World heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali and his one-year-old daughter Hana Yasmeen accept a certificate from Marie Henderson (R) of the Mayor's office at a testimonial banquet held for Ali at Blue Crest North last Saturday. Emam Michael A. Rashid of Muhammad Mosque No. 6 looks on. A photo feature of Ali's stay in Baltimore will appear in Tuesday's AFRO.

This summer responsibility for the care and maintenance of a large portion of the Baltimore city public schools' 1,600 acres, 55,000 shrubs and 8,000 trees rests with 83 youngsters working for the Department of Education's Building and Grounds Division through three separate job programs.

One of the programs, the Baltimore Summer Corps, funded through the Mayor's Office of Manpower Resources, pays 46 students $2.30 per hour for a 35 hour week.

Working in 90 schools, these students perform a variety of tasks ranging from weeding blacktop to reparing fences to caring for trees, and in the process save the city "thousands of dollars," reported grounds officer, Wolodymyr Sushko.

The youngsters also work in the Division's Pennsylvana Ave. nursery caring for plants, learning the intricacies of horticulture, holding down clercial jobs and functioning in building maintenance and store room roles as well, added Mr. Sushko.

In this area, the work production is good, the students are mature and responsible, and we consider them very valuable to our operation," said Mr. Sushko.

In a second project, seven Harbor City Learning Center students work fulltime at either plant propagagion or clerical and warehouse duties.

Also working for $2.30 per hour over a 35-hour week, the youngsters, says Supervisor Raymond Short, "Have been very helpful to us and I take pride in being able to teach them. I tell them what they learn here can be of great value later in life, especially learning to do a job well and learnng to be responsible. They are here daily, they are here on time. Their attendance record is almost perfect.

The third program, a federally funded Youth Conservation project, places 15 students at the Reese School where they work in a nature center replanting greenery and extending a nature trail, and fifteen other students at the Martin Luther King School, also working on a nature trail. The federally funded program, says Mr. Sushko, is jointly planned by the Grounds Division, the Office of Guidance and Placement.

Gallstone study needs patients

Treatment for gallstones without surgery may be on the way.

The University of Maryland Hospital has been chosen as the area wide treatment center for the National Cooperative Gallstone Study.

The center is currently seeking patients who have gallstones to participate in this program.

At the present time the recommended treatment for gallstone disease has been surgery. Researchers have been looking for an approach that might eliminate the need for surgery and hospitalization.

This program will evaluate the use of a new medication known as chenic acid which dissolves gallstones. Although chenic acid is being used extensively in Europe, this clinical trial is the first step in gaining federal approval to make the drug available to the public in this country.

All tests and medications related to the study will be provided free of charge to the patient.

If you have gallstones and desire further information call the Gallstone Treatment Center at 528-5780

This is who we are and what we do at General Motors.

"We're considering new materials for use in producing more fuel-efficient cars."

Steve Babcock, Department Head, Materials Engineering

"Increased fuel economy can be obtained through several techniques, including the use of more efficient engines, better dynamic design and lighter weight. The work with new materials that we're doing in this department in planning for the future is almost totally aimed at weight reduction.

"One of the first materials that we're gaining experience with is what we call high-strength steel. Other materials we're considering are aluminum and advanced or 'composite' plastics.

"Right off the bat, a lot of people think that the new materials are weaker than conventional steel. That certainly isn't the case. With certain plastics, for example, we can get strength increases up to 6 to 7 times the strength of common body sheet steel.

"Our objective is also to produce a vehicle equal to or better than the quality we have now. For instance, it's conceivable that using plastics as an alternative to steel will improve corrosion resistance. That will be a benefit added on to the fact that we're going after weight reduction.

"Present costs of the new materials are higher. The tendency is that we end up having to pay more money to reduce the weight of the car. Of course, our goal is to produce a vehicle that the average citizen can afford.

"We don't have all the answers yet. That's why we're being deliberate and cautious in introducing the use of new materials. We go through exhaustive tests, both in the laboratory and at the proving grounds.

"Here, the name of the game is innovation and creativity. Innovation to me represents satisfying a need for the future, a way to design and build cars that are more fuel-efficient."

Traveling Around

By Louise Blowe

Visited the South Baltimore AFRO clean blocks and found only one clean block, 2100 Booth St. This block was freshly painted pink and white, the gutters and sidewalks were swept. There is bulk trash in the alley that needs to be removed. The captain is Curtis Younger; Gloria Davis is co-captain and Mrs. Lucille Davis advisor.

2000 Booth St. was dirty. The gutters and alleys were trashy. Michael Lykes is captain.

2100 Boyd St., where Tajuana Martin is captain and Stephanie McFail is co-captain, was dirty. The steps need cleaning and painting, the gutter and sidewalk need sweeping, and the back also needs cleaning.

2000 Hollins St. was also filthy. Sharon Hollis is captain and Helen Green is co-captain. Like many of the blocks in this area, this block needs a lot of work in order to be a clean block.

Workers in 1600 Mulberry St. have improved their block with paint and flowers. The block is clean and pretty. They are still concerned about the bulk trash that remains in the back. Joan Riley is captain.

Another beautiful block is the 100 N.-Fulton St. where Christine Davis is captain, Robert Taylor captain, and Montana Co-Pulley advisor. Their block is freshly painted and flowers in plots and urns line the curb. The block is also clean.

300 blk N. Gilmor St. workers are still working hard to keep their block clean and beautiful. They would like for clean blockers in the 1600 blk Mulberry St. to stop destroying their flowers. Mrs. Beatrice Speaks is captain.

The 2000 blk Cliftwood Ave., where Mrs. Louise Pack is advisor; Steven Jeter, captain; Sam Forrester, co-captain, was clean, painted with plenty of flowers.

In the 1600 blk. Wolfe St., where Mrs. Zelma Harvey is advisor; Alicia Harvey, captain; Eva Roberts, co-captain, the block was freshly painted with a green and white color scheme. They have pretty flowers but the gutter needed sweeping and their alley was dirty.

Prettiest block seen on the tour was the 1300 block N. Chester St. where Wanda Johnson is captain; Willie Ladson is advisor; and Joseph Saunders is co-captain. It was clean, freshly painted and orange color scheme.

Clean Blockers complain

Clean Blockers attending last week's meeting indicated many neighborhood problems. These are some of the concerns listed in the progress reports from the meeting.

700 Newington Ave. is concerned about the unsanitary conditions in their back yards and alley. Trash and garbage have accumulated in the alley. Maggots are thriving in the garbage. Calls to the Sanitation Department have brought no results.

The problem becomes worse as people from other blocks leave their trash in the alley and steal trash cans from this block. This condition is conducive to rat population growth. For help call Central Complaint, Sanitation, 396-4176.

2800 blk W. Lafayette Ave. has a problem with rats coming from three vacant houses. 2843, 2845 and 2847 are vacant and full of debris. Clean Blockers would like to have the yards and the houses cleaned and boarded. Rats also come from a vacant lot where trash has collected and the weeds have grown much too high. Call Mereida Goodman at 396-1153 for assistance.

1600 blk N. Carrollton Ave. has difficulty keeping their alley clean, because city trash collectors leave most of the trash in the alley rather than on the truck. Workers are concerned about the lack of cooperation of residents. 1012, a vacant house, needs cleaning and boarding. For good trash collection service, get the number of the truck serving you and call 396-4176 to report any problems.

4000 blk Woodhaven Ave. workers have called for bulk trash pick up with no response. The trash is accumulating in the alley and causing a health problem. The sewers need to be cleaned out. For bulk trash pick up call Wesley Thomas at 396-6070. For sewage problems call George Parrish at 396-3186.

Vacant house in the 1600 blk Edmondson Ave. needs desperately to be boarded. It has been used as a play area and a place for starting fires. 1623 is a fire hazard. 1630 has dangerous steps, broken and falling down. Boards are being used to hold them up.

1800 Rayner Ave. is complaining about sanitation workers leaving more trash than they are collecting. Friday morning they piled all the trash on the playground so youngsters had to play in the block rather than on the playground. Call Sanitation, 396-3367, Joseph Sisselberger.

1600 N. Calhoun St. has rats running around everywhere. 1600, 1622 is filled with trash. Last Friday morning sanitation workers wasted trash in the street and refused to pick it up.

700 Dolphin St. still urges neighbors to cooperate by helping to clean.

2400 Brentwood Ave. would like to get into 2428 to put some curtains at the windows. The house is up for tax sale, and they would like to know who to call. Call 396-6043.

900 Bennett Place has yards full of rat holes. 906 is a vacant house and the yard is filled with trash. Call Mrs. Mereida Goodman — 396-1153. 905 has an odor in the yard from all kinds of animals in there. Call 396-4176. They are also having a problem with tiny yellow bugs on the trees in the block. They get under your skin and irritate it. These trees need to be sprayed. Call Park Forestry, 396-6108. Newcomer to the block at 928 is asked to please stop throwing boxes and trash on the lot.

1500 N. Stricker St. is still having problems with neighbors on Leslie St. throwing trash in the alleys after they clean it up. They are also having problems with rats, as a result of the trash. 1520 and 1522 have dirty yards. Children are stealing the pretty flags they have in their window boxes. Why not put your flags away until inspection week. Pictures of your block were taken last week showing your pretty window boxes.

1600 Bakbury Ct., Gilmor Homes, wants management to give them three new dumpsters to replace these with holes in the bottom of them. Maggots are everywhere when Clean Blockers try to clean around it. There are also rats in the yards of this court.

2860 W. Lafayette Ave. has rats at 2843, 2845, 2847. There are dirty yards at 2845, 2845, 2847, 2853 and there are tall weeds there.

1000 W. Lanvale St. has dirty yards at 1000 and 1003. Their alleys are also dirty. Neighbors do get together and clean.

1200 Short Ct., Old Somerset Homes, is complaining about lack of cooperation on the part of management. They have not fixed their faucets for hoses and Clean Blockers have to attach the hoses from their houses. They say they are trying to keep their court clean even though they have no equipment. They made their tables and benches. They also couldn't get paint or flowers from management.

800 Harlem Ave. has dirty alleys. 800 has a dirty yard.

1600 N. Calhoun St. has alleys filled with junk. The city won't clean it out. Neighbors must get together and clean out this alley, then call Sanitation to pick it up. Bugs are also having problems with rats. Call 396-4176 after you clean up the alleys. 1600 N. Calhoun St. is vacant and the yard needs cleaning out as well as the boarded up house that has a terrible odor coming from it. Call 396-1153 for help.

2100 Vine St. has rats in yards of 2136 and 2138. There are dirty yards at 2139 and 2135.

1100 Argyle Ave. wants the yards cleaned out of the city-owned houses in the block Hoffman St.

800 George St., George B. Murphy Homes, says the only problems they are having is lack of paint and flowers.

1400 N. Patterson Park also has no other problems except the need for paint and flowers.

1700 Holbrook St. says they have no problems. Isn't that refreshing after reading of all the neighborhoods that have problems?
