Learning can be fun

PHILADELPHIA — When the Pennsylvania Migrant Education Project opened its doors last week at Cheyney State College, 70 boys and girls from Philadelphia and West Chester were welcomed to "Learning Can Be Fun."

The participating youngsters, age six to 11 years, arrive on the Cheyney campus at 8:30 a.m. and do not depart until 3 p.m.

Their days are devoted to math and reading studies, as well as career awareness seminars.

All of the children are given the opportunity to complete math and reading studies at their own pace. Reading is of particular enjoyment, for skills are enhanced through the actual writing and acting out of their own dramatic skits.

The youngsters breakfast and lunch in the campus dining hall. Swimming and other recreational activities are also a daily part of their schedule as well as craft classes in pottery and weaving.

Throughout the five week program, field trips to the Valley Forge Park, thel Valley Forge Theatre, and other nearby spots of interest are scheduled.

For 11 years the Cheyney program has been in operation under the federal guidelines of the Title I ESEA Amended Migratory Education Act.

Although several school districts in Pennsylvania offer this program, Cheyney State College and Millersville State College are the only state colleges who host the Migrant Education Project.

The Cheyney program is ffered through the Division of Continuing Education and directed by Dr. Anthony Pinnie.

Who's Drooling

CIMMON ELIZABETH BYRD shown here at age 3 months is now 17 months old and is quite a dancer, actually the "belle of the ball" at recent birthday parties. She is the daughter of Dr. Eugene D. Byrd, Jr., dentist and Laura P. Byrd, teacher at Walbrook High School. She has a brother, Christopher, age 6.

God loved you an awful lot I know.
Why do I think so?
Because He tinted your body that beautiful hue
So angels might guard you from Heaven on

God helped Miss Wheelchair

By Pam Widgeon
AFRO Staff Writer

Mrs. Betty A. Lilly, 28-year-old graduate of Morgan State University says, "God has helped me through and I can do anything any other housewife can do."

That does not seem to be a remarkable accomplishment but Mrs. Lilly has been a paraplegic for 11 years.

Just 10 days ago, she was crowned Miss Wheelchair of Maryland and will represent Maryland in the national competition next month in Columbus, Ohio.

The Miss Wheelchair pageant is not a beauty contest. Judging standards were based 40 per cent on accomplishment of the individual since disability, 30 per cent on poise and personality and 30 per cent on appearance.

Born in Durham, N.C. Mrs. Lilly became ill when she was 17. After spending three months in a hospital and receiving extensive medical surgery and rehabilitation doctors determined Mrs. Lilly had hematamyelia (blood clot and hemorrhage in the spinal cord).

After the death of her mother, eight months after she became ill, Mrs. Lilly said she was very depressed for several months.

"I felt like I did not want to live but when I started my rehabilitation program I was eager to go," said Mrs. Lilly.

Mrs. Lilly is now able to transfer in and out of a car alone, cooks and does all her housework.

She is employed by the Governor's Committee to Promote Employment of the Handicapped as the assistant to the executive secretary.

Her duties are to help coordinate and administer programs such as the county committees to promote employment of the handicapped.

Mrs. Lilly is a magna cum laude graduate of the Community College of Baltimore and Morgan State University, where she received her bachelor of science degree in Mental Health. She is a member of Alpha Kappa Mu National Society and received the Community Mental Health Community Service Award.

Mrs. Lilly is the wife of Maurice Lilly who is a special education teacher at Linwood Children Center. She is now attending Johns Hopkins University for her master of science degree in education administration.

Since 1973, she has been a member of the World Community of Islam in the West.

Her advice to the handicapped is, "Don't concentrate on what you have lost but emphasize and capitalize on what you have left and use it to its fullest potential."

Speaking of her family and friends, Mrs. Lilly says, "Numerous people have helped me get where I am today.

"Some gave me a spiritual uplift while others gave me physical help. I guess I am just fortunate to have a fantastic husband to give me assistance," Mrs. Lilly said.

Ordination services held for Rev. Samuel T. Redd Sr.

Ordination services were held recently for Rev. Samuel T. Redd Sr. at Grace Memorial Baptist Church, Eden and Chase St., where Rev. Dr. Alfred C. D. Vaughn is pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Redd, who is also the proprietor of Samuel T. Redd Funeral Home at 714 E. North Ave., will serve as co-pastor of Green's Temple, 4302 Garrison Blvd. Rev. J. Webster Green is pastor of the church.

When asked how much time he would devote to the church as co-pastor, the Rev. Mr. Redd said, "My son is at the point of graduating from embalming school and I plan to have him take over the business" this will give the Rev. Mr. Redd more time to work in his church.

REV. SAMUEL T. REDD SR.

Green's Temple now has a membership of 50 people but the Rev. Mr. Redd plans to increase it by Christmas and stated "I hope to have it overflowing with members."

The new minister comes from a family of ministers. His father Rev. Samuel B. Redd is pastor of Mt. Ararat Baptist Church on Gwynns Falls Parkway. His grandfather, the late Rev. Simon Williamson served as pastor of Faith Baptist Church and his uncle, Rev. Norman Redd was formerly pastor of Israel Baptist church.

"I have had a lot of time to think and I love the ministry to the point that I am willing to put everything I have in the church," said the Rev. Mr. Redd.

Ordination sermon was by Rev. Dr. Vaughn with several other ministers participating. The Rev. Mr. Redd is married to Mrs. Guinevere Redd and has six children, Samuel Redd, Jr., Monica, Marsha, Donna, Charles, Jeffrey and David Redd.

Amtrak alters train schedules

Amtrak has changed the schedules of two passenger trains which run through Baltimore.

Beginning Sept. 8, the Southern Crescent, which runs from New York to New Orleans, will be consolidated ith the Patriot, the Washington to Boston line.

The Champion, which travels between New York and St. Petersburg, Fla., will cease operations from Sept. 8 until Dec. 14

Amtrak officials said the reduction of services will save about $5.55 million.
