There were a number of meetings with a purpose over the weekend. Among them was the Lawyers' Wives' Founder' Day Luncheon, Sunday afternoon at LaFontaine Bleu. The invitation read: "cocktails, dancing and a forum."

The forum had the theme "Speaking Out Against Child Abuse." Moderator was Martha Allen (Mrs. Milton). There were program participants who discussed what is being done about the problem and what should be done — particularly the persons knowing of child abuse to speak out and let proper authorities know — in view of the new law which exempts the informant from becoming involved. They were: Dr. James Fennimore Cooper, the psych.; Joan Harris, educational specialist and psychiatrist, Baltimore Public Schools; Judge U. Theodore Hayes, Baltimore Juvenile Court master, and Major John Stromberg, director youth section, Baltimore City Police Department; Helena Hairston, president, who presided at the forum program, and other program participants were: Mercedes Wilson, a charter member of the group, organized in 1951 by Mrs. William Gosnell (Verna); Dwight A. Pette, president, Monumental City Bar Association, who brought greetings.

Clarence Parrish (Mrs. George), a former president and also a charter member, saluted the founders of the group who were present. They were: Margaret Koger, Lorraine Hayes, Ruth Rosedom, who co-chaired the event, and Jacqueline Watts.

Other officers of the group are: Lois Owens, vice president; Louise Johnson and Jean Morehead, secretaries; Agnes Dorsey, treasurer, and Audrey Howard, parliamentarian.

Other co-chairmen were: Celestine Nelson, Adell Foreman, Anna Williams.

Audrey Lattimore Howard, an attorney and wife of former Asst. State's Atty. Charles Howard, the attorney, became parents of a baby boy, born Friday, who has been named Charles Lattimore Howard. Baby is their first.

King's Landing Benefit

Another meeting with purpose was the King's Landing Women's Service Club's annual cocktail benefit at Club Venus, also on Sunday. There were a number of door prizes and entertainment by the African dance group directed by Olufunmilayo - Jomo. Dancers were Morondiya Jomo, Mertine Jermany, Jaquenette Ferguson, Cynthia Colston, Michael James, Kuji Challa, A. Zirlcote. Also, there was music for dancing by Lional Jiggetles' the Infinite Experience, vocalist was Calvin Brooks.

The 50 - 50 prize went to Urban League staffer Jethaeda Curtis.

Winners of the huge baskets of cheer were Charlotte Morris, Joanie James, Walter Riddick and Joyce Contten.

President of the group is Gwen Clark. Monies raised to help to support their charities including the Martin Luther King Memorial annual breakfast for the Baltimore YMCA.

Philomathians Closing Dinner

Still another gathering was the annual closing dinner of the Philomathians at Hidden Valley Country Club in Baltimore County.

Nearly 300 invitees turned out in their evening attire to hear Dr. Carolynn Reid - Wallace, dean and acting president, Bowie State College speak to the club's theme for the year "Women Facing Crisis."

In her opening remarks, Dr. Wallace said, "Not only are we as women in crisis but our men and children are in crisis, too. Blacks have been in crisis situations since the beginning. That's true!"

She issued a popular cigarette commercial, "You've come a long way, baby," to illustrate the progress of blacks. "Blacks are told the same thing, we've made significant progress. And we begin to believe freedom, justice, equality and fairness have arrived. And, there are many commissions headed by our own people that are to guard against discrimination."

The speaker pointed to the educational system that "has failed miserably to effectively educate black boys and girls in our society."

Speaking specifically to black women, she said, "We (black women) produce those men and women; we are the parents and guardians of boys and girls who've been denied at those institutions.

"We as women find ourselves in awkward situations. Are we to accept the high level positions, knowing that our husbands and sons cannot compete in similar situations? They are in a state of isolation. Or do we run the risk of being unfulfilled?

"We need to demand from America full committment for black men, women, boys and girls of this country! America has not committed herself to full equality of black people. Organizations like the Philomathians must force this nation to commit herself!

"Now is the time to rally behind the poor, oppressed — those who've been told they have no right to aspire, told they don't have a mind.

"We need to teach young people to believe in themselves."

Other program highlights were an in memoriam for club co-founder Mrs. Vivian Johnson Cook, who died last year; the occasion by Dr. Regina Goff Henry, vice president and president-elect, who also served as mistress of ceremonies;

Greetings by Mrs. Mildred Crosby, director, social sciences Women's Bureau, U.S. Department of Labor; a presentation by Mrs. Vashti McKenzie, chairperson, committee on amenities and membership, who gave a beautifully engraved plaque to Dr. Flossie Dedmond for her outstanding service to the club as its president.

And there was a segment of the program for a bit of nostalgia — Philomathians revisited by Dr. Elizabeth Murphy Moss.

At its closing, there was the singing of familiar songs, led by Genevieve Wisner, former music specialist, Baltimore Public Schools and Margaret Jackson, public school teacher. Dinner music was provided by The Haithcock Ensemble.

The Philomathians was founded in 1932 by the late Mrs. Vashti Turley Murphy and Mrs. Cook. Both were interested in the idea of recognizing the accomplishments of women. So they invited 16 women to join a group that would be dedicated to learning. Philomathians means lovers of learning.

Today, the Philomathians carry on this tradition in their monthly study programs where they exchange ideas which stimulate learning and actions about their rights and freedoms.

Speakers for the 1977-78 club year were: Mrs. Pauline Brooks Amis, owner and manager, Pauline Brooks Salon; Miss Sandra Yvonne Blount, director, Women's Detention Center, Baltimore City Jail; Mrs. Hilda Ford, director, personnel, Baltimore Civil Service Commission, and Mrs. Beverly G. Reid, teacher of business subjects, Opportunities Industrialization Center Manpower Agency.

Other officers and members of the Philomathians are: Mrs. Marion Patterson, Mrs. Beautine DeCosta Lee, Mrs. Marie Frazier.

Mrs. Marion Patterson, recording secretary; Mrs. Beautine DeCosta Lee, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Marie Fraser, treasurer and Mrs. Altheia Cornish, chaplain;

Dr. Thelma Bands, Mrs. Amy Tate Billingsley, Mrs. Carolyn Chissell, Mrs. Doris Cole, Marie Phillips - Cooke, Mrs. Jean Davis. Dr. E. Irene Diggs, Mrs. Sallie Fletcher, Mrs. Irene Lee, Mrs. Christine Moore, Mrs. Mae Wright Peck, Mrs. Ida Peters, Dr. Ruth Brett Quarles, and Dr. Beryl Williams.

Friends of the Morgan State University Choir members of the choir, itself, along with its director, Nathan Carter deserve ALL the praise this column can give.

On Sunday evening, "The Friends" presented The Choir in concert at the Lyric. The house was practically full for the Brahams' Ein deutsches Requiem sung in English. The performance featured the solo voices of Alpha Floyd, soprano and Benjamin Matthews, bass-baritone, and members of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

Following the intermission, the choir came back and sang a selection of Undine Moore compositions. Among the favorite were "Bound For Canaan's Land," and "Precious Lord." Dr. Moore a famed composer, arranger, pianist, educator and lecturer, is a senior advisor to the Afro - American Arts Institute at Indiana University.

"The Friends" is an organization recently established to assist in the development of plans for the Sunday concert and to aid in the promotion of other activities projected for the choir in the future.

Says Dr. Carter, "Proceeds from this concert will be used to assist the choir in its daily operations and to provide a scholarship fund for worthy, talented students."

Chairperson of "The Friends" is Dr. Elizabeth F. Johnson. Vice chairpersons are Ester P. Brooks, Ruth J. Pratt, Mary E. Robinson, Delores B. Sykes, Bernice S. White and Audrey E. Williams.

Members are: Amy Tate Billingsley, Doris Cole, Mary E. Fields, Harqueline Hardy, Alice Parham, Dr. James Priest, Hope Quackenbush, William Kykes, Genevieve Wisner, the Rev. A. D. C. Vaughn, Dr. Elizabeth Murphy Moss.

Also, members of the Morgan staff: Dr. Andrew Billingsley, president; Gaylen Grant, Washington Green, Wright Lassister, Lawrence Montgomery, Norman Ringgold, Clayton Stansbury.

Albert Rice, a management analyst with the Social Security Administration is one of Baltimore's busiest youth leaders. A member of First United Church of Jesus Christ (Apostolic), Albert is engaged in almost every ... of church work. He is chairman of the program committee for the National Youth Fellowship Committee of the First United Organization.

In addition, he sings with the church youth choir and is an instructor for the Young Peoples' Training Union, advisor to the Youth Department and president of a group of young married couples who are members of the church.

Mr. Rice states that he developed his strong ties with the church at a very early age, and has always been actively involved.

First United Church of Jesus Christ (Apostolic) was established as the mother Church in 1967. His membership dates back to this inception. Recently the membership arrived. And, there are many commissions headed by our own people that are to guard against discrimination."

under the leadership of Bishop Monroe Saunders acquired the spacious Samuel Reddy property located in the county and he was asked to serve on the Cost Projection committee.

The committee has the responsibility for laying the ground work for an educational center.

Albert started his career at SSA as a file clerk 17 years ago through the Veteran's Readjustment Program. As a Stride intern, he was able to advance to his present position and in 1977, he earned a BS in Business Administration from the University of Baltimore. He has also taken graduate courses in the field of Public Administration.

Albert is married to the former Alice Green. She is employed by the Monumental Medical Association. They live in Northwest Baltimore and are the parents of a nine month old son.

Albert Rice's goal is to "achieve at the highest possible level."

Ms. Carole Jackson has asked that we convey her thanks and appreciation to all of the many thoughtful friends and co-workers for their kind expressions following the death of her grandmother.

Local Club Notes

Pinochle Bugs, Inc.

The Lord Baltimore Hotel was the recent site of The Pinochle Bugs Social and Civic Club, Inc., twenty - second annual conclave. The theme was "The Pinochle Bug's Charm City Weekend."

After registration of Bugs from many states an open card tournament was held for Bugs and Pests, (husbands for members). In the evening the members and their husbands enjoyed a delectable buffet dinner and dance and music by "Sherman Lewis and the Pyramids."

On Saturday the "Pests" were treated to an extensive tour of the Inner - Harbor, the Shot - Tower, Fort McHenry and other high spots of Baltimore. The tour ended at Odell's for a delightful smoker and show for the Pests. During this time the Pinochle Bugs had their business meeting and a closed tournament. Trophies and cash prizes were awarded. Meanwhile, local Bugs hosted a banquet for visiting Bugs.

They were entertained by opera singer, Carmen Artis of Pittsburgh and ballet dancer, Jill Henson. The grand ball was held in the Maryland Room of the hotel on Saturday evening. During the dance the Bugs presented Thomas Chapman, executive director of Provident Hospital $500. "The Rockets of Rhythm."

On Sunday morning a farewell buffet breakfast was held in the Center Ballroom of the hotel.

The members of the Baltimore Chapter hosting the conclave were Rosalie Griffin, Mary Henson, Delores Jessup, Margaret Land, Vera Shell, Julia Stovel, Sylvia Teal, Helen Thornton, Elizabeth Tilghman, Esther Wiles, Florence G. Williams and Goldie Wood. Pests of the local bugs are Ralph Williams, Edward Thornton, George Stovel, Joseph Wiles, Dr. Charles Griffin, William Fashion, Willia M. Jessup, John Tilghman, Judson Wood, Soloman Henson and Thomas Teal.

Officers of the hostess chapter are: Florence Williams, president; Julia Stovel, vice - president; Goldie Wood, recording secretary; Esther Wiles, treasurer; Mary Henson, corresponding secretary; and Margaret Land, conclave chairperson.

Links, Inc.

Audrey Howard recently entertained the Baltimore Chapter of Links, Inc. at the elegant Chambord Restaurant. Her husband, Charles Howard, ably assisted his wife in seeing that the evening was pleasantly spent.

Links took care of business beforehand. The president, Vera Hayes, presented a certificate of recognition and appreciation from the National President, Pauline Ellison, to Audrey Norris. Mrs. Norris was the Baltimore Chapter's first president when it was organized nearly thirty years ago. Link Norris graciously expressed her thanks and said, "I love you all."

Audrey Howard was the recipient of a check from the Links to purchase goodies were presented in a raffle. Lucky number holders won beautiful prizes.

The highlight of the social hour was a showing of chic spring hats by the milliner par excellence, Nell Sheridan. Mrs. Sheridan for many years designed and made hats for the Pauline Brooks Boutique.

Jackie McLean, a travel agent from Four Wins and Seven Seas Agency, told the gathering of the outstanding features of her agency in helping one to plan a trip. She presented lucky number holders with bottles of champagne.

Special guests of the Howards were Mesdames Catherine Law, Ruth Hunt, Gwendolyn Howard, Bert Fitzgerald, Barbara Davis, Helen Patterson, and their children Amy Gaston, Trina and Chuck Howard.

Links attending the meeting were Catherine Adams, May Adams, Pearl Brackett, Helen Burwell, Beatrice Butler, Robbie Chissell, Geraldine Desbordes, Cardrienne Griffin, Betty Harris, Mary Harris, and Vera Hayes.

Also, Lillian Jones, Jimmie LaForest, Yvette Murphy, Lydia Mussenden, Barbara Patterson, Etta Phifer, Mary Pitts, Bennie Ruth Simpkin, Alice Russell, Marion Russell, Adr Weaver, Pauline Watts and Ruth Glenn were in attendance.

Columbia Capers

By Pinnie L. Ross

A dream became a reality for thirteen pretty young debs as they recently bowed gracefully into society at the Rouse Building, Kittamaqundi Room.

The affair was Columbia's first "Debutante Cotillion" presented by the Columbia Alumnae Chapter, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc.

Soft lights, delicious food catered by Harold Reid and music by The Mood Experience for all occasions were a few of the delightful settings for the cotillion.

Charm, poise and idealism are common goals for today's debs in keeping with their future roles of poised, beautiful black women.

Mrs. Gail Clark, president of the chapter, presided. Greetings came from Mrs. Gilda Lewis, cotillion chairperson.

At last, the moment had approached . . . . the presentation of the lovely debs, the moment that the audience had patiently waited for!

Mrs. Celonia Walden, co-chairman of the cotillion, made the presentations of the 1978 debutantes. As each deb was announced, she gracefully promenaded into focus to make her formal debut carrying a bouquet of flowers consisting of red and white carnations. They were accompanied by their fathers.

The debs' radiant faces were apparent as they waltzed with their fathers to a fast step waltz. The elated fathers glided swiftly across the dance floor with their daughters. Prior to the father-daughter waltz, the mothers were escorted by the daughters' handsome escorts to their seats.

It was a very popular number with a bit of chi chi and modern dance combined, choreographed by Mrs. Eva Anderson, cotillion dance consultant and artistic director, Baltimore Dance Theater. The popular numbers brought many movements from the young debs.

Selected debutantes were pretty in non-traditional white gowns. The young women presented and their parents and schools were:

Kimberly Beth Briscoe, daughter of Barbara Briscoe and the late Raymond Briscoe, a senior at Wilde Lake High School.

Kimberleigh Burroughs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Burroughs, a senior at Oakland Mills High School.

Robyn Jananne Finney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Finney, a student at Woodlawn Senior High School.

Christie Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Holmes, a senior at Oakland Mills High School.

Madelyn Lynn Holt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holt, a senior at Oakland Mills High School.

Cynthia Jordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Jordon, a graduate of Oakland Mills High School.

Rochelle Amiel La Croix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Damion La Croix, a senior at Oakland Mills High School.
