On Friday, May 26, the Social Security Veterans Memorial Day Committee chaired by Donald L. Ruckart, BDP, sponsored a memorial service dedicated to the memory of Social Security employees and relatives who died in the service of this country. [illegible] for the [illegible] - morning service was Michael Bonadio, past state commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars. Other program participants were the Rev. Floyd H. Grubb, pastor, Canton United Methodist Church; Rabbi Gustave Buchdahl, Temple Emanuel, the Social Security Chorus and Band.

At the placing of the wreath ceremony, the Rev. Martin Hoar, Our Lady of perpetual Help Church said the requiem. The program was held in the Altmeyer auditorium.

Former Congressman, Wilbur Mills will be featured at SSA's First Annual Sobriety Day Program at noon on Friday, June 9. He will share information about his experiences during his personal recovery from alcholism.

The one - time congressman from Arkansas who chaired the House Ways and Means Committee will be introduced by Don Wortman, Acting Commissioner.

A large audience is expected to take advantage of thie guest appearance, because of Mr. Mills' reputation as a speaker.

"Double or Almost" was the motto displayed at last week's luncheon-given by the Social Security Administrations Supervisory Association in the Altmeyer Multi Purpose room.

Speaker for the occasion was Robert A. Lily, assistant Bureau Director, BDP Operations. In his statements to the approximately 130 supervisors, Mr. Lilly referred to them as "public servants" coming together to administer a program in the interest of the tax payer."

He cautioned them against giving the impression of being another union organization and encouraged the supervisors to concentrate on building an image and reputation as a professional organization. He went on to comment about current workloads, new methods of Annual Reporting, recruitments, promotions, desk audits and surveys regarding classification.

During the luncheon meeting several awards were presented to members for "outstanding efforts in rendering time and service to the SSA Supervisory Association."

Among those receivingiawards were: Lorraine Arenz, Shirley Ashman, Frederick Bailey, Rosalie Crown, Mattie King, Mable Krausz, Antonio Mariano, Doris Martyn, Faye Marvin, Beatrice Strosnider and Bobbie Swann.

Mrs. Eleanor Hood, president of the Association received a plaque for "Loyalty and Dedication in the effectuation of the SSA Supervisory Association." In her remarks she emphasized stated that the group's main thrust would be to enlarge its membership.

It was announced that David Webb would be the speaker at the next meeting.

Hostesses included Karen Benson, Kathryn Fox, Charlie Hairston, Wilda Holt and Queen Jones.

$500 TO PROVIDENT — Florence Williams, president of the local chapter of Pinochle Bugs, and Julia Stovel, vice president and publicity chairperson, present a $500 check to Thomas W. Chapman, chief executive officer of Provident Hospital. The gift comes from the national chapter of the organization which contributes annually to the cause of the chapter's choice. Mrs. Stovel indicated the local group's continued interest in supporting the growth and development of Provident Hospital.

The Diet Corner

By Helen K. Fleischer

What comes in a package . . . .

Has brightly colored pictures on it, costs about 70 cents, and is loaded with vitamins? Your summer's vegetables — you purchase them now in the form of seeds.

I possess the original brown thumb, but I still manage to nurse along some toma to plants. This year, they're going to have company. After all, those flower beds are beautiful, but who can eat zinnias? Or marigolds? But Zucchini, that's another story.

Suburban society may not have room for large garden plots, but almost everyone can sandwich in a plant or two somewhere on all that taxable land that makes up the old family homestead. Select the vegetalbes you like best and investigate their planting, care, and feeding. I have a friend who makes repeated plantings of carrots throughout the spring and early summer so that there are always feathery plumes of carrot green waving amid her blossoms. And deliciously sweet, fresh baby carrots included in her main dishes and salads. This gal habitually borders her flowers with leaf lettuce. There's nothing fresher than her tossed greens.

The forecast is that the price of canned and frozen fruits and vegetables from the 1978 crop will rise because all other prices that go into production have zoomed. More and more women are going to be practicing the fine art of canning and preserving. More and more families are going to be growing the produce that goes into the pot.

Not only will it be fun and money - saving, from my point of view, it's a big boost in nutrition. The faster the vegetable is rushed to the table, the richer its resources of vitamins and minerals. I don't care whether you are a believer in organic or non - organic fertilization — either way you'll have more nutrition in your vegetables if you grow them for your own consumption.

And- speaking of vegetables, how about a vegetable recipe for this evening's meal. Try something new, like Chinese cooking in the Szexhuan, spicy style. Are you ready?

Cabbage in Hot Sauce

1 medium head Chinese cabbage
1½ cups water
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup hot sauce

Cut cabbage in ½ inch slices. Combine water and salt in saucepan; bring to a soil. Add cabbage; cover. Cook for 5 minutes (cabbage should be tender but still crisp.) Drain. Add hot sauces and toss slightly to blend. Cook over very low heat and additional 2 minutes. Serve hot or cold. Makes 4 servings.

Hot Sauce

2 cups soy sauce
1 teaspoon crused red peppers (or to taste)

Combine soy sauce and peppers in saucepan. Bring to a boil and simmer 2 minutes. Cool. Hot Sauce will keep for several weeks. Makes 2 cups. Note: Hot Sauce also goes well with shredded celery, cucumbers or Spinach.

As you food shop this week, halt at the seed stand. Invest in a package or two. Be original — plant your front lawn full of good things to eat, if you wish. Who says only grass need grow before the house? Fill your window boxes with kohlrabi. Adorn your back fence with pole beans.

Not only are you planting nutrition for summer and fall, you'll be getting a lot of good exercise into the bargain. And vegetables for more than one meal at 70 cents per package are real bargains.

Local club notes

On Saturday, May 20, the Baltimore Chapter of National Tots and Teens, Inc. sponsored an all day career education seminar at Heritage Church utilizing key resource people from the community.

Miss Hilda Ford, Baltimore City Civil Service Commission Director, was the keynoter and focused on emerging careers. A highlight of the morning session was a panel discussion focused on current career implications. Resource persons who served as panelists were the following: Mrs. Violetta Lee, Social Services, Waxter Center; Mrs. Loretta Richardson, Coordinator of Health Services, State of Maryland; Patrick Scott, art instructor, Morgan State University; Charles Bowden, Architect; Gerald McGuire, Engineer, James T. Thompson, Chemist, all of NTA.

Edward Tildon, a member of the Baltimore Chapter of Tots and Teens, moderated the panel.

During the afternoon session, Mrs. Rita Hubbard, Associate for Post-secondary Opportunities conducted a workshop for parents and teen-agers on scholarship information and guidelines, for applying for scholarship.

Direct Search for Talent (DST) displayed materials relative to career - educational opportunities.

Donna Smith, Tag and Mrs. Doris Smith, parent, co-chaired the activity.

Charity Project

This year, the teen-agers in the Baltimore Chapter pledged $1,000 to the United Negro College Fund. Their initial payment of over four hundred sixty was presented to James "Biff" Carter, national first vice-president of Youth Activities, at the Tots and Teens Regional Conference, held in Silver Springs last October. The balance of the pledge was raised during a holiday disco last December and will be presented at the national triennial convention of National Tots and Teens, Inc., scheduled for the week of August 7 in St. Louis, Missouri.

Also, Camille King, Kevin Johnson, Carman Maxwell, Allison Perring, Robin Perry, Tony Saunders, Franklin Smith, Donna Smith.

And, Rosalind Smith, Linda Taylor, Jocelyn Taylor, Terrance Wallace, Brian Williams, Niecie Wheeler, Vell Wheeler.

Graduate Party Planned

On June 23, parents will honor the ten graduating members of the Tags at an awards dance. Members who will be off in college in the fall include: Paula Blackwell, T. Hall, Camille King, Carmen Maxwell, Carma Maxwell, Rosalind Smith, Linda Taylor, Brian Williams, Lauren Young, Kevin Kelly.

Parent Group

The membership of the Baltimore Chapter group is fifty families. Parents Officers are Jean B. Owens, president; Willie Butler, first vice-president, (Program); Mrs. Rosa Wallace, second vice-president (Membership), Mrs. Elner Prater, Age Group Coordinator; Ms. Doris Levi, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Twilah Grant, recording secretary, John Saunders, treasurer; Joseph Boston, financial secretary; and James Ivory, business manager.

A new fraternity

A new Greek letter fraternity has been founded by seven young men, all of whom are undergraduate students at Morgan State University.

On April 13, freshmen Brian K. Estrada II, Walter L. Fields, Roger W. Everson, Sidney Pittman, Mark Blanchard, Michael Griffin and junior, Garrett L. Gee founded Omega Phi Omega Fraternity, Alpha Bear Chapter. It is the fourth fraternity founded on the Morgan State campus.

There are an additional 23 original brothers bringing the total membership to thirty. Those original brothers are: Richard Antrom IV, Winfred O. Brown, Keith M. Butler, Steven E. Catlett, Marshall Clemons, Gary Dozier, Gregory W. Goines, Charles T. Goods, Kelvin Jones, Welsey A. Lewis, Andre L. Marshall, Rudolph A. Merrick, Calvin Miller, Anthony Moore, Joshua C. Morris, Vincent M. Smythe, Phillip A. Taylor, Lehonor Thompson, Alfred Wickliffe, Eugene Williams, Jarvous W. Willis and Jeff W. Wright.

One of the main objectives of Omega Phi Omega is to end the physical abuse that has accompanied the pledging of fraternities and sororities in the past. The group will put out a call to all of the other fraternities, social fellowships and sororities on the campus of Morgan State and throughout the United States to follow their non - violence philosophy.

On Thursday May 11, the Student Senate at Morgan State unanimously accepted Omega Phi Omega Fraternity as an on campus organization.

Richard E. Robinson, director of the McKeldin Center at Morgan State University, is the organization's first faculty advisor.

Omega Phi Omega was chartered and incorporated by Robert S. Day Jr., attorney at law. A national organization was established and local chapters were created, the first being at Morgan State. The fraternity plans to expand onto the various college campuses, specifically black college campuses across the United States. Their goal is to have ten thousand brothers nationwide in ten years. Immediate plans include expansion onto the campuses of Rutgers State University, Glassboro State College, Howard University, Cheyney State College, Delaware State and Virginia State College.

Omega Phi Omega Fraternity represents academic excellence and seek the finest educational training possible for men and women. They plan to accomplish this goal through scholarship programs, seminars and lecture series for the interested public.
