FUTURE ENGINEER — Carolyn Scott (R) of Western High School receives a Certificate of Completion of the Goddard Introduction to Engineering Careers (GITEC) program. GITEC is a joint effort of the University of Maryland, Howard University and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to provide a two-week engineering career orientation to selected high school students. The students lived at Howard and were given instruction at Howard, Maryland and Goddard Space Flight Center. Presenting the certificate is Dr. Harriett Jenkins, NASA's director of Equal Opportunity Programs.

'It's a family affair'

Blackridge Clan holds reunion

"We're the Greatest" was the theme of the Lambert and Butler generations at a recent family reunion held at La Fountaine Rouge.

The Lambert and Butts families make up the Blackridge, Va. clan.

The Lord's Prayer opened the celebration, recited in unison by the 160 clan members and friends present.

The Welcome Address was given by Waverly Person which was followed by an interpretive dance, "The Greatest", performed by Ms. Cheri Scruggs.

The family made a contribution to Good Hope Baptist Church building fund. Calvin B. Scruggs Sr., East Baltimore mortician, made the presentation to Mrs. Neith Wynn who represented the church.

Ms Carolyn Brown gave a narration on "How Far Do You Want to Go Back?"

The five generations of the Blackridge Clan were diagrammed in the center of the reunion program. The chart showed the roots of the family stemming from Ellen Walker and Samuel Mosley who were slaves. The genealogy chart showed the five generations.

Three generations were represented at the reunion. Baltimoreans Susie Perry and Flossie Hicks attended. Mrs. Perry and Mrs. Hicks are the grandchildren of Ellen Walker and Samuel Mosley.

Members of the third generation who attended the reunion included Elbert Harrison, Sallie Scruggs, Irene Gibson, Cindy Lashley, Betty Lambert, Christine Harris, and Algie Lambert, all of Baltimore.

Out of town family members included Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Branch (Vernice) of Levittown, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Gundy (Alma) of Germantown, Pa.; Mrs. Ruth Jackson of New Jersey; Mrs. Neith Wynn and husband of Blackridge, Va.

Other out of town guests and family members included Mrs. Louise Walker and her daughter of Norfolk, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Boyd from New Jersey; Mr. and Mrs. Poindexter from New Jersey; Mr. and Mrs. Waverly Person of Denver, Colo.; Mrs. Alfredia Daugherty and family of Bristol, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Jermone Hawkins and Mr. and Mrs. John Ogburn, all of Washington, D.C.

The program segment of the affair was closed with grace recited by the entire clan, after which the guests enjoyed a buffet dinner and disco dancing.

Reading institute connects with St. Ambrose Church

The International Learning Skills Institute in conjunction with the St. Ambrose Catholic Church at 4502 Park Heights Ave., announced that classes for ILSI's rapid reading program will begin this month.

Demonstrations for the program will be held Aug. 7, 8, and 9 at 7:00 p.m. at the church with classes starting Aug. 14.

The cost of the course, including materials is $49, with tuition due two days before class.

In co - sponsoring this reading program, St. Ambrose joins such agencies and institutions as Morgan State University, the Social Security Administration, Oregon State University and Michigan Consolidated Gas.

Students over 65 and under 15 as well as college students have more than doubled their reading speed in the program, that is held over a three week period, two hours per week.

Unlike most reading companies, ILSI says that it does not stress speedreading, but rather "normal" reading — by definition, normal reading meaning 600 to 1,000 words per minute.

The Learning Skills Institute uses the natural method of reading, where the hand is used as a pacing mechanism to help guide the student through material.

Fire Take it seriously

People believe that they will never be fire victims. It could never happen to them. If you are not prepared for the first time, you may never get another chance. Most deaths are caused by smoke inhalation, and most fires occur between the hours of Midnight and 6:00 a.m. Many other persons have been injured, suffering terrible injuries which will affect them for the rest of their lives.

1. Plan fire exits with your family.
2. Never leave children unattended in the house. Conduct a fire safety check in your home.
4. Don't smoke in bed or around flammable materials. Whenever you smoke at home, have large metal ashtrays.
5. Check all electrical wiring and appliances. Look for frayed cords, too many extensions: Check cords under carpets or drapes.
6. If you extinguish a fire yourself, call the Fire Department to make sure it is out, especially sofa, pillow or mattress fires.
7. When cooking with grease, keep a large pan cover handy to smother flaming fats. Never use water — It splatters hot grease.
8. Check all cooking equipment. Remove grease; keep curtains, towels, potholders, etc., from stove top.
9. Do not ever attempt to light a cigarette from a stove burner or oven.
10. TV sets give off heat — allow ample space at rear of set.

Dr. Matthew Walker, leader at Meharry

NASHVILLE — A funeral was held July 19 for Dr. Matthew Walker, surgeon, teacher and a leader in community medicine. The funeral was held at the Clark Memorial United Methodist Church.

A special memorial service was also held at Meharry Medical College in the Kresge Learning Resources Center.

Dr. Walker was born in Waterproof, La. in 1906. He graduated from New Orleans University in 1929 and Meharry Medical College in 1934.

Upon completion of his residency training at Meharry's Hubbard Hospital and Freedman's Hospital at Howard University, he joined the staff of Meharry Medical College in the surgery department. From 1943 until 1973, he chaired that department and was elevated to the position of provost for external affairs in 1973.

Dr. Walker was named a diplomate of the National Board of Medical Examiners in 1935 and diplomate of the American Board of Surgery in 1946. He was one of the first black men to be admitted as a Fellow to the American College of Surgeons.

The concern and professionalism Dr. Walker exhibited as a teacher led to special recognition by his students in the formation of the Matthew Walker Surgical Society in 1958.

When Dr. Walker could not come and give all his time to the struggling hospital in Mound Bayou, he sent his residents. Each of his surgeons rotated through the hospital as part of their training. In addition, he developed a plan for comprehensive health care delivery that provided the foundation for the successful medical center operating today in that rural area.

the fundraising institution to create a percentage agency.

In his June statement Bascom said: "It is unacceptable and demeaning to the black community all expenditures every year while the Associated Charities and Associated Jewish Charities receive an agreed upon portion of resources."

Bascom pointed out that Associated Catholic Charities received over $1 million, Red Cross $1 million, while $600,000 went to the Associated Jewish Charities.

Bacom's proposed Inner-City Associated Charities would have been similar to the above mentioned organizations.

Although United Way did not grant his proposal, the report said it would offer all of its agencies three-year percentage agreements.

Under the plan, United Way would "provide for a base allocation for the next three years which will give them the same percentage of the total available for distribution that they receive this year."

The agency also said it would "give first priority to meeting the needs of the most deprived people" when new funds are received.

The report was quite extensive in the goals it laid out for the agency and even boasted about the "fair representation of blacks" that the agency is striving for.

Below are some statistics that the report cities:

— 42 percent of the 460,314 pesons served by United Way agencies care members of minority groups;

—35.8 percent of United Way dollars are used on behalf of the minority population;

— A substantial majority of United Way agencies (42 out of 61 agencies reporting individual client statistics) list minority clients in excess of 24 percent of their caseload.

51 percent of all staff members are minority. 35 percent of professional staff members are minority.

But the report says nothing about Bascom's contention that many United Fund agencies are continuing an historical pattern of discrimination against blacks.

Nor does it address the question of why agencies such as the Coalition of Penisula Organization (serving only two percent minorities) and the Keswick Agency (serving only one percent minorities) are being funded at increasing levels despite their discriminatory practices.
