Baptist convention elects Carter treasurer

By Elizabeth M. Oliver

Dr. Harold A. Carter, pastor of Baltimore's New Shiloh Baptist Church, was elected treasurer of the Progressive National Baptist Convention, Inc. at its 17th annual session.

The decision by the 5,500 delegates from churches across the nation also saw Dr. Carter's seminary classmate, Dr. William A. Jones of Brooklyn, N.Y. elected president of the organization which has over 3½ million members.

Both of the newly elected officers served previously as president of the Eastern Region which includes the New England states and other states down through Virginia.

Dr. Carter also serves on several of the PNBC boards and as convention author has accomplished many publications and books. The organization has its own publishing company.

The PNBC session was held in Los Angeles, Calif. Aug. 6-13 at the Shrine Civic Auditorium and on the campus of the University of Southern California.

The group has just purchased the Nannie Helen Burroughs School in Washington, D.C. which will serve as the national headquarters. The property is valued at more than $3 million.

Offices are provided there for Dr. Carter, as well as, President William, Dr. Ralph W. Canty, Detroit, first vice president; Dr. W.W. Taylor, Chicago, second vice president and Dr. Sloan S. Hodges, Washington, the general secretary.

As the 5,500 registered pastors met, they and their relatives and friends witnessed two highlights, the appearance of Ambassador Andrew Young as a guest speaker and the awarding of honors to Miss Rosa Parks.

Ambassador Young delivered to standing applause the Martin Luther King Night address. Miss Parks, one of the famed persons of the King bus boycott days, received the Martin Luther King Award and was cited as the Mother of Social Revelation in the late 50's and early '60's.

In addition to Dr. Carter, representing the Baltimore area were Dr. A. C. D. Vaughn, Grace Memorial Baptist; Dr. R. Moses Williams, Zion Baptist; Rev. William Johnson, Union Baptist, Turner Station; Rev. William Calhoun, Trinity Baptist; Rev. Leonard Hicks, Greater New Hope Baptist; Rev. William Kelly, Harlem Park Baptist; Rev. Harlie Wilson, Israel Baptist; Dr. W. W. Payne, City Temple Baptist and Dr. Darneal Johnson, Wayland Baptist.

Dr. R. Moses Williams, Dr. Carter, Dr. Payne and Dr. Vaughn have been with the Progressive convention since its founding 17 years ago.

The convention gave support to 10 Baptist seminaries last year, among them were Morehouse, Selma, Virginia Seminary and Virginia Union.

Dr. Carter, one of the leading Baptist ministers in the nation and his wife, Dr. Weptonomah Carter, have two children. Weptonomah, 17, who enrolls in Eastern College, St. Davis's, Pa. this fall and Harold Jr., 16, a student at Poly in Baltimore.

—Groom kills wife

Leon Tillage, 40-year-old cousin of Mr. Little, told police he rents the second floor apartment in the Little's home at 2724 Cylburn Ave., and when he left home at 9:30 p.m. Aug. 16, the couple was watching television in their bedroom.

Upon returning home at 1 a.m. Aug. 17, Tillage is quoted as telling the police nothing seemed unusual in the house and he went upstairs to bed.

The following morning (Aug. 17) around 7 a.m. Tillage said he called downstairs to his cousin and did not get an answer. Police state he then went downstairs and found his cousin and his wife dead in bed.

"It's a complete mystery to everyone. We really don't know what happened," said Miss Anita Smith, daughter of Mrs. Little.

Miss Smith, who lives in Washington, told the AFRO, "I had only met him (Mr. Little) once. My mother had been working for Mr. Little for a year at his mechanic's job."

Despite his age, Mr. Little worked every day at the C and F Auto Repair Shop in the 2800 block Grantley Rd.

His wife served as his receptionist and bookkeeper and had only been living in Baltimore six years.

She was the minister of music at St. Martin's Church of Christ, 2118 Madison Ave., where the Rev. P. H. Franklin is pastor.

The Rev. Franklin described Mrs. Little as "a very reliable and dependable minister of music." She was the director of all the choirs at the church," said Rev. Franklin.

Relatives of Mr. Little were reluctant to talk with the AFRO. However, police quote Mr. Little's relatives as saying he had talked about committing suicide.

Funeral services had not been completed at AFRO presstime and relatives of Mrs. Little said services for Mrs. Little will be held at St. Martin's Church of Christ and burial will be in Philadelphia.

In addition of Mrs. Little's daughter, she is survived by two sons, Andre G. Carrand Ricardo D. Carr; five grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Ethel D. Bannister.

The unpaid gas bill flap at Woodland

Nothing was cooking for two days at the Woodland Apartments in Northwest Baltimore.

The gas had been turned off and the 12 families housed there were baffled.

Ms. Joyce Williams, a tenant of the apartment in the 3500 block Woodland Ave., told the AFRO Thursday, "It was not necessary for the Gas and Electric Company to turn out gas off."

Members of 12 families who live in the Woodland apartments at 3505 Woodland Ave., were without gas Aug. 16 and 17 until 4 p.m. The tenants state their gas and electric is included in the rent they pay to the management company, Tuskegee Realty and "we should not have to suffer."

Several tenants told the AFRO that Tuskegee Realty had not paid their bill with the Gas and Electric Company.

However, a spokesman for the Gas and Electric Company said," We can not discuss the matter because it is a confidential matter between the gas company and the customer (Tuskegee Realty).

The resident manager of the apartments blamed the problem on BG and E and said the bill was sent to 4220 Garrison Blvd., instead of 3324 Woodland Ave.

At AFRO presstime responsibility for the outage was still being tossed back and forth between the utility company and Tuskegee. Tenants were still in the dark.

You Know Because You Read The AFRO

He remembered in the SPOTLIGHT

Twenty-three years ago, the name Flip Wilson wasn't exactly a household word, especially in Denver, Colo.

For Wilson was hard pressed to find a job there during the middle 1950s. So, a cab-driver in town set about to help Flip get a booking.

The cabbie and his four brothers each called up a Denver nightclub and told the manager they wanted to check out a rumor that Flip Wilson would be appearing at the club.

Naturally the manager didn't know the first thing about all this, but was duly impressed with what seemed to be a tremendous following out there.

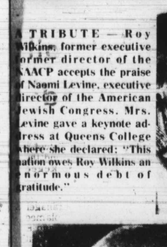
So, when Flip showed up at the club — with the cabbie posing as his manager — he got a week's booking.

Now chicanery has been used many times by showbiz folk trying to make it, but this story has a little different ending.

Flip was in Denver not too long ago, and told reporters the story, and indicated he was trying to find the cabbie.

The story was printed, and the cabbie, Bill Good, came forth. There was a happy reunion with Flip who remarked: "We're gonna come up with something special to return that old favor.

Kinda warms the heart muscles, don't it?



TRIBUTE — Roy Wilkins, former executive former director of the NAACP accepts the praise of Naomi Levine, executive director of the American Jewish Congress. Mrs. Levine gave a keynote address at Queens College where she declared: "This nation owes Roy Wilkins an enormous debt of gratitude."

REPLACEMENT — Vanessa Shaw has taken over the role of Marsinah in the musical "Timbuktu" which was formerly performed by Melba Moore. Reports are that she has an incredible voice, and the part has not suffered one whit.

GOOD GRIEF! — There was a reaction to the incisive remark about Sammy Davis Jr., last week in Spotlite. (See — you have to keep up.) Claims are we didn't present a balanced viewpoint. O.K., so be it, here's Sammy again with Carol Channing. We make no remarks, not even to tell you why they were clowning around. So there!

A SALUTE — Michael Jackson seems to be singing "There She Is," as he serenades Sheryl Piland, 16, of Waterford, Conn. She was crowned as Talented Teen International of 1978 in ceremonies in Hollywood. Sheryl is a dancer and gymnast, and won out over 30 other girls. She wants to have a career on Broadway.

'Good Times' once again

By now you know that Esther Rolle will be back in the TV series "Good Times" this fall.

Things have been changed for the season. For example, the role of J.J. will be more mature. After all, the reason Esther left the show in the first place was because of the silliness of the J.J. character.

And, Thelma, the daughter on the show, played by Bernadette Stans, will get married this season.

The TV moguls discovered that weddings are big and juicy for the ratings. But, Thelma won't be leaving the show. In fact her TV husband will join the cast. He will be played by Ben Power.

Wonder if they're going to let the younger son, Michael, grow up this season. He's been in high school long enough.

Meaningful honor to Young

Notables in the public eye are always the recipients of honors. After all, various groups have to give them to someone, and who better than a well-known public figure.

Besides, their names are drawing cards to help subscribe the banquets, or conventions, or whatever.

Obviously, some honors are more coveted than others, and this upcoming one has to be one the recipient holds dear.

And, U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young will undoubtedly feel a deep sense of accomplishment when he is awarded the Martin Luther King Jr. Award from the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

It will be presented at the SCLC convention August 15-18.

If you think we're kidding about public figures getting awards, the Rev. Jesse Jackson has over 15 honorary degrees. Don't know how many the U.N. Ambassador has.
