R.S.V.P.

By Marie Phillips-Cooke
AFRO Women's Editor

Friday evening here in Baltimore was hot and muggy and there was indication that the showers would come . . . and they did, but none of this dampened the glow inside the Cross Keys home of Sarah and Antoine Elias.

Main reason for the happiness inside, (where Lionel Jiggetts entertained at the organ and there were many tasty dishes), and outside on the patio, where folks relaxed and chatted, was the handsome honoree — 87-year-old Earnest Antoine of New Orleans.

He was on his first visit to his grandson's city, and he gloried in the many compliments from men and women alike who wanted to know his secret for looking so young. He is a retired realtor.

About to welcome him to the city were, Mr. and Mrs. James Askew, theaGlendi Johns, Bruce Edemys, Paul Cannon, Dr. and Mrs. Cleveland Chandler, Pauliand Blanche Beckham, Richard and Jean Cummings;

Also, George Bennetts, Gwen Hillen, Bernice McDaniels, Ponjola Priest, Guy Harriman, Also, Messrs. and Mesdames Orveille Swafford, Royal Weaver, Marcellus Moore Ray Brown, Paul Moss, William Morton, Saundra Nix, Mark Berrison, Jerri Shinebach and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lightner.

On Sunday the Hillens, (Gwen and Granny), had the Eliases and their grandpa in for dinner. Over from Vienna, Va. were retired Army Lt. Col. and Mrs. William Willis, (Lucille), and daughter Jill.

Proof that it is indeed a small world —glad year, Agnes and J. C. Reaves met some congenial folks from Detroit on a cruise to Athens, Greece.

Last Christmas, they holidayed with them. This week, their vacation friends came to Baltimore to learn that our town indeed is anxious to put out the welcome mat.

The recipients of the Baltimore hospitality were, Vera Purdy, the Sears exec.; Jewell Franklin, the accountant; and Pittman Johnson, the realtor. Those who had a chance to meet them report they were just as pleased as could be to learn that Baltimore has a lot of warm, friendly people who go out of their way to make visitors welcome.

The Reaveses entertained last Sunday for their house guests at a dinner party, then took them off to get a glimpse of Ocean City. Later in the week, Judge and Mrs. Ben Foreman and Judge and Mrs. Archie Williams entertained in their honor at the William Copelands' poolside.

And, before they left for Michigan, Adelle Foreman, Joe Brown, Amy and Ada Weaver had a luncheon in their honor.

Folks are still travelling — going or coming home. The Aaron Eliises (Mary), are in from a family reunion in Chicago.

Roland and Anethia Williams postcard the Concord Hotel in upstate New York is a "delightful" place to relax.

Daisy King is in from a holiday in Las Vegas and in Los Angeles, where she visited with her sister, Imogene King Martin.

The Julius James (Edna), of Cherry Hill, write that they really enjoyed their cruise to the Caribbean.

Bea Holmes of Ardmore, Pa., guested with her cousin, Elizabeth and Ed Williams.

Coming up this weekend -- the biggest one of all-the last summer holiday - Labor Day weekend — No namers have planned their annual picnic for Camp Fartherest Out. Mattie Gardner's annual is on Labor Day at her B-more county home — and there are a number of family reunions.

FIRST VISIT to Baltimore in his 87 years was made last week by Earnest Antoine, center, shown here with his grandson, Antoine Elias and his wife, Sarah, at party in his honor. See RSVP for details.

Miss Diggs named to board

Phyllis A. Diggs has been named a member of the board of trustees of the Mt. Washington Pediatric Hospital. Ms. Diggs is executive director of The North Baltimore Center, a community mental health center.

She holds a master's degree in clinical psychology from Catholic University, Washington, D.C., and a master of public health degree in mental hygiene from the Johns Hopkins, University. Ms. Diggs is a memebership chairperson, Region III of the Association of Mental Health Administrators and is affiliated with numerous other professional organizations.

Mt. Washington Pediatric Hospital, located at 1708 W. Rogers Ave., is dedicated to subacute, chronic and rehabilitative patients. Brooks R. Mayor is president of the hospital.

Dr. Maclin returns from U.S.S.R.

Dr. Arlene P. Maclin, an American Council on Education Fellow and an associate dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Morgan State University, recently completed a three week visit to the Soviet Union as a guest of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

During her stay in the country, Dr. Maclin delivered lectures in Moscow at the University of Moscow and—at the National Research Institute for Higher Education, and in Leningrad she spoke at the Znanie Society and at the Research Institute of Adult Education of the USSR Academy of Pedagogical Sciences.

Dr. Maclin spoke on the system of higher education in the United States with special emphasis on training and the supply of scientist and engineers.

Ms. Mikulski to speak at dinner

Rep. Barbara Mikulski will be the guest speaker at the annual Alumni Dinner sponsored by the University of Maryland School of Social Work and Community Planning on Sept. 10, 1978 at 6:30 p.m. at the Belvedere Hotel.

Ms. Mikulski, a graduate of the 1967 class, will discuss "Social Issues and Current Legislation". Her speech will be followed by the presentation of an award for the alumnus of the year.

The dinner, which will begin at 7:30, will be preceded by a Social Hour. Tickets can be reserved through the Alumni office at 528-7922.

Catonsville Notes

By Liz Williams

Sympathy cards to the family of the late Earnest Garrett, father of John P. Garrett at 104 Frederick Rd. Mr. Garett was a member of the Golden Age Group. Cards also to the family of the late Vernon Dorsey (Elizabeth) of Sykesville, Md.

Do not forget to attend a Chicken Dinner which will be given by "The Lucky Four" on September 2 from 11 a.m. until at 4 Shipley Ave. Eva Brooks is the chairperson and Mildred Copeland and Grace Jackson are co-chairpersons.

Four generations of the Williams-Forrest family and three generations of the Payne family gathered for a family picnic at Cordorus State Park in Hanover, Pa last Saturday. The large gathering was coordinated by Shirley F. Payne (Edward) Bessie "Sue" P. Womack and Barbara Forrest. Well over 75 family members attended. They traveled by bus and cars.

Swimming, boating and all types of games were a part of the activities. Nellie Watts was the youngest-oldest there. She proved to all of us that you are just as old as you let yourself be. Marita Savage Taylor (Paul) came down from upper state New York to join in the fun. The families hope to make this an annual affair.

Congratulations to Bessie "Sue" Womack upon her retirement. Sue as we fondly know her was the department head for Exceptional Children at the Cherry Hill Junior School. The members of her department feted her at a beautiful candle-light dinner where she was showered with many beautiful gifts. Sue is the last in a family of long time educators, to retire. She will be greatly missed by the administration and her co-workers.

How many of you oldtimers remember Kings on Winters Lane off Rt. 40? It was a very popular county retreat after Prohibition was repealed. It is now serving the younger generation and is known as King's Palace. Its big feature is Disco dancing. A fashow show, featuring Baltimore's finest black models, will be held on Sept. 8. The new Fall look will be shown.

Have a good week and help someone you may meet along the way.

Last rites for Mrs. Law

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Cater Law died Aug. 29 in a nursing home in Los Angeles, Calif.

The family will receive friends Sept. 1, 7 p.m. at St. James Episcopal Church, Arlington, and Lafayette Avenues. Last rites will be held 7:30 p.m. at the church.

Mrs. Law was the widow of Charles Law, who died in 1970. She was an associate professor at Morgan State University for 36 years.

The Diet Corner

By Helen K. Fleischer
Director, The Diet Workshop

What's
Non - caloric —
Inexpensive —
Readily available —
Absolutely essential — and vitally necessary to every diet?

Good old water! Call it H2O, aqua pura, or branch — it is totally overlooked and neglected as the friend of dieters that it truly is.

Think about it. You can sleep coffee in water and fill your stomach with coffee in the morning. You can submerge a tea bag in it for a mid - day pickup. At lunch time, immerse a bouillon cube within a saucepan of water, dice in some celery, some green pepper, some zucchini, some French style green beans — and voila! custom - made soup.

Not only that, you can pour water into ice cube trays, enter them within the freezer, and in mid - afternoon clink them into a glass to cool off the remnants of the morning's coffee. Versatility, the name is water.

As though versatility were not enough, water serves many other diet functions as well. It fills many a void — one new diet book, in fact, encourages dieters to take a glass of water at the onset of hunger pangs or twenty minutes before meals. And that's not a bad idea at all.

When there is a difficult subject to discuss, I believe in confronting it head on. Many dieters complain that going on a fat - restricted eating program (which most diets are) leads to constipation. That is one diet problem that could be so easily eliminated by relying on water. Keeping the contents of the digestive system well - hydrated is half the battle. So turn on the faucet rather than open the laxative bottle.

Through history, water has shaped events. Wars erupted over water rights. Ships traveled and commerce developed because cities were built where fresh water streams and salt water seas met. Broad rivers kept people apart and resulted in political boundaries and language differences. And water can shape your personal history, too, if you're on a diet. How's your daily water level? At least six glasses? If it is, you're on target.

As for that old bugaboo, water retention, blame the retention — not the water. The way to handle retention is to cut down on salt, diet sodas (substitute water!), pickles, and hard cheeses. Do not forego the water.

To go along with your water intake at today's meals, here is a recipe suggestion.

Tuna Sage Dressing

2 slices Dietslice toast broken up in small pieces
3 ounces drained tuna
½ teaspoon sage or poultry seasoning
½ cup boiling water
½ cup chicken bouillon
1 large piece celery, chopped green pepper, pimento
1 can mushrooms (optional)
Comb

Combine first 3 ingredients in bowl. Combine next 5 ingredients in pan. Simmer till celery is tender. Add to tuna mixture. Should be moist. Add mushrooms. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour or until brown.

Water, water everywhere — be sure that you are drinking your share.
