Happy New Year! We're just so happy feel like shouting to be among those who've seen the dawning of another year.

New Year . . . this is a time for remembering, for reassessing, for planning for whatever day' that are promised us . . . and, course, a time for happy gathering of family and friends.

Perhaps one of the most significant holiday events was the annual charity ball sponsored by Baltimore Chapter of Continental Societies Inc. It was at Marvin's West Friday evening, and attracted a large crowd.

Continentals support a number of charities in our town, including this newspaper's Mrs. Santa and our Clean Block Drive. Other beneficiaries include: Camp Farnhem Out, Children's Shoe Fund, annual college scholarships, YMCA Camp King's Landing Scholarship Fund, Camp Glyndon for Diabetic Children, Direct Search for Talent, Kidney Foundation Research, Provident Hospital-Sickle Cell Anemia Research and Morgan State University.

Members of this group really live up to their creeds "dedicated to serve the needs of underprivileged and disadvantaged youth."

They are: Frances Branch, Lillie Branch, Consuanoa Baker, Zelma Brown, Sevilla Carroll, Helen Chamberlain, Othena Dyson, Katherine Gross, Audrey Harden, Evena Holmes, Susan Jones, Daisy King, Louise Mapp, Priscilla Marshall, Marlene W. Mohamed, Maule Mumby, Ann Parker, Emily Peck, Helen Quarles, Doris Smith, Dolores Sykes, Phyllis Thompson, Mary Tucker, Margaret Turner, Elmira Washington and Delores Young.

A score of out-of-town Continentals were about for the black tie affair, including:

The Charles (Marneuse) Jackson's, Lawrence (Shirley) Warricks, and Mrs. Doris Haynes' (they're Washington Continentals), and the William (Marie) Scones, formerly of New Jersey and now of Florida.

Also the Richard Warnacks, Jesse Womacks, and Curtis Langdons of Philadelphia; Mary Barksdale and Judy Parham of Springfield, Mass.; the Ronald Bankses and John Williamses of Paulsboro, N.J., and the John St. Clairs of Alexandria, Va.

Susie J. Reid and her sister, Anna G. Bennett continued the family tradition. On New Year's Day, their Liberty Heights Avenue home was aglow many members from Sharp Street Methodist Church where they've been lifetime members. were about to sample the special dishes for which they are popular.

My parents tell me the sisters and their late brother, Charles G. Bennett, grew up in the 1500 block of Druid Hill Avenue and they began the New Year even over 50 years ago. I also learned a bit of history. Their grandfather, Isaac Samuel Green was a lifetime member of Sharp Street, and he and his son, their father, were move repairmen. Baltimore is truly rich in history.

Another nice gesture was the New Year luncheon Charles Payne gave at his Rolling Road home for wives of his club members. There to enjoy the festive decor and the tasty dishes were: Evelena Henderson, Mil Taylor, Ina Wright, Maude Gardner, Becky Giggs, Salome Fuller, Eugenia Brim, Mae Chamberlain, Liz Williams and Mildred Williams were absent because of illness.

A real wall-to-wall group graced the New Year at the spacious Mount Washington home of the Anne and Ulysses Dickerson. It was the annual sponsored by the Les Ones Club of which Edith Henry is president. Out-of-towners there were: Mary Frances Dorsey of Morristown, N.J., and Francis King of D.C.

We enjoyed a real down-home, country New Year dinner with the Clifford Gaddys at their Dorchester Road home. They're officers and members of my fiancee's — Rev. Ronald E. Braxton Allen A.M.E. Church, 1130 W. Lexington Street. We appreciated the invite . . . we'd been entertaining the entire Christmas week, family from distant places, loved ones and friends, new and old. We were especially glad to have with us Ronald's mother and sister, Virgie M. Braxton and Roslyn Braxton, both of Norfolk, Va.

And now we're gearing ready for the big day . . . Friday, February 9, 7 p.m. at the Prince Hall Masonic Temple. Hope to see you there!

And Joe and Leone Fetter's New Year's Day gathering of family and friends was warm and full of fellowship . . . duo the Larry Gibson's open house the same day attracted a number of his relatives and young friends to the Beaux Place home he and Diane have done over beautifully.

People on the move — Arisucra Travel's James and Stella Alston and Galaxy Travel's William and Margaret Garrett are in from a holiday in Rio . . . Agnes and J. C. Reaves and son, Jeffrey, holiday in Detroit . . . John and Gwen de Cecelio and Gwen and Charles Hillen were in D.C. for the inauguration of D.C.'s new mayor, Marion Berry . . . also there Ada Woodland, of our town.

Alethia Tieon of Miami and Freeport, visited with the Otis Frees . . . and when Ivy Grinage and Vernieee Reynolds entertained the We Wives Club members and some guests at brunch on New Year's Day, member Joe Brown and hubby, Walter, had with them Linwood and Minnie Roberts of Hopewell, Va.

Temptators annual was at Blue Cross on Friday evening and the rent high, a number of them gathered at Harry and Doris Coles' for fellowship.

When we were very small, Grace Bartlett — whom we called "Splash" ran the Little Folks Camp out in Elkridge, where her dad, Dr. Thomas J. Woolridge had a home . . . she called from Albuquerque to say that her dad whom we called "Pops" had died in the age of 94 . . . she's s en route home to Baltimore for burial.

Another prevty holiday party was tha hosted by the Theodore Thompsons (Celestyne) who gathered friends at their lovely Springdale Avenue home last week to "eat, drink and be merry". The innovative hess planned games, cards, dancing and lively conversation, making for a really fun evening.

Joining them for the festive occasion were:

Messrs. and Mesdames Theodore (Charlene) Johnson, Robert (Dorothy) Syrees, I. Henry (Laura) Phillips, Elbert (Pauline) Armstrong, Clarence (Odessa) Dyson, James (Lillie) Myers, James (Rosalie) Thomas, Kenny (Olivia) Swift, Forress (Zenobia) Smith, Arthur (Mae) Syrees; Mesdames Rosa Smith, Janice Sweatt, Rose Whitaker, Florence Jackson, Karrie Jackson and Arlena Carver.

Project SAGA recruits

You don't have to handle your sorrow alone. The Widow's Group at the Oliver Multi-Purpose SAGA Senior Center, 1400 E. Federal St., is now accepting new members who live in the vicinity of the center. The group helps newly-widowed women work through their grief, and build new and meaningful lives.

This is one of many free services provided by Family and Children's Society Project SAGA (Security and Action for Golden Agers). For more information, call 462-5505. This is an Urban Services Program.

A plaque commemorating the service of Vietnam veterans was recently unveiled by President Carter at Arlington National Cemetery. It bears the inscription: "The people of the United States of America pay tribute to those members of its armed forces who served honorably in southeast Asia during the Vietnam conflict."

Of the 2.94 million people employed by the federal government at the end of July, more than 241 000 worked for the Veterans Administration.

Of the 2.3 million ex-military personnel who will receive $5.3 billion in Veterans Admnistration service - connected disability payments this year, some 500 000 are Vietnam Era veterans.

Conference discusses working women and their problems

A conference to discuss the problems of working women will be co-sponsored by the Maryland Commission for Women in January.

The Southeast Regional Dialogue will be held Saturday, January 20, at the Baltimore Hilton Hotel. The conference will be co-sponsored by the National Commission on Working Women as one of a series of regional dialogues with working women around the country.

Aimed at women working in those jobs often considered as female oriented, such as clerical, service industries, retail stores, and factories and plants, the conference will attempt to:

— Document the problems and concerns of working women in these occupations

— Define solutions to those problems

— Increase public awareness of the status of working women, and

— Stimulate follow-up for change.

Libby Koontz, chairperson of the National Commision on Working Women, and other members of the National Commission will attend the conference. In addition, a panel of leaders from business, labor, local and state government, the media and education have been invited to participate in developing a report of the problems of working women and suggested solutions to those problems.

Women working in these fields are invited to apply to attend the dialogue, which is free of charge. Limited financial assistance will be provided to qualified applicants to cover costs of transportation and accommodations. Participants will be selected from among the applicants.

For further information, or to apply, call the Maryland Commission for Women at 383-6606.

Public relations seminar

The Media Coalition of the Maryland Commission for Women, chaired by Kathleen M. Carter, MCW vice-chairwoman, will sponsor a Public Relations Seminar from 11:45 to 4:30 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 13, at Howard Community College. The seminar is designed to assist organizations which lack professional public relations staff in developing publicity campaigns.

Individual workshops on photography and producing public service announcements and press releases will be led by three media professionals: Carol Silberg of Carol Silberg and Associates, Lanham; Patricia Wheeler, of WBAL-TV, Baltimore and Nellie Arrington of the Columbia Times.

This free session, planned by the Maryland Commission for Women's Media Task Force, will be held in Room 230, Nursing Building, Howard Community College, off Little Patuxent Parkway in Columbia. This seminar is open to the public, and each participant will have a chance to attend two of the three workshops.

For more information, and to pre-register, contact the Maryland Commission for Women office, 1100 N. Eutaw St., Baltimore, Md. 21201, or call 301-383-5606.

Party Line

By Michele L. McRae and Pattie Hodges

Reunion

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Robinson recently hosted a family reunion at their E. 28th Street home.

Guests included Mrs. Mary Jane Caldwise and son, Joseph of Youngstown, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cannon and son from Laurel, Md.; Mrs. Annie Jener, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lomus, Mr. and Mrs. L. Duckett, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Duckett, and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Conway and Mrs. Luella Mathis and family, all of Baltimore.

Birthday party

Members of the Kappa Chapter, Iota Phi Lambda Sorority, Inc., were recently entertained by their Lambda's at a gala disco - buffet style party. The affair was hosted by Chic A'Nele, 3302 Park Circle.

There were fifty guests in attendance, including sorors and their guests. Kenneth Ervin, president of the Lambda's served as the disc jockey. He played music for the young and old as hour. The music ran from Count Basie to Duke Ellington to Barry White's faves.

Gifts were exchanged while guests enjoyed a delicious buffet.

Christine Frazier is president of Kappa Chapter, Iota Phi Lambda.

Open House

On Wednesday, Dec. 27, Realtors S. Lee Martin held open house for friends at his new office on Liberty Heights Avenue near Howard Park.

From 5 p.m. until midnight, around 50 people came and went, enjoyed tasty party trays and cocktails, chatted and danced to home - disco music.

Pre-New Year's

Mr. and Mrs. Henry (Arbia) Baker hosted a highly enjoyable pre - New Year's Eve party on Saturday, Dec. 30 in their beautiful Bolton Hill home.

Henry, as you probably know, is the owner of Mr. Baker's Beauty Salon and the nifty jazz night club, The Close.

Centered around the hosts' glowing fireplace, 80 people gathered from 9 p.m. until to partake of chips, dips, salads, ham, black - eyed peas and other goodies, to sip cocktails, engage in lively conversation and do the freaky - dealy.

Among those partying on the scene were: Howard McAdory, Joe and Priscilla Mangum, Jake and Christina Hall, Henry Baker Jr., Stella and Jimmie Richardson, Charlene and Butch Knight, Denise, William, Mary and Felicia Weeks, Romaine and Tony Williams, Clarence Brooks and Joy and Joe Mosier.

Yuletide spirit

Amidst all the partying during the Christmas holidays, there was pause for the help and generosity that typifies the true Yuletide spirit.

The Tri - State Association (Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia) of the Improved Benevolent Protective Order of Elks of the World were busy on the Cerebral Palsy Telethon (Channel 13) on Sunday, Dec. 31.

Donation to the charity from the Elks of this tri - state area totaled more than $2400.

Those who appeared on the televised panel to solicit funds for CP were: George Chappell, chairman of the Elks endeavor and past, Grand Exalted Ruler from the Spirit of Chesapeake Lodge No. 1107, Baltimore; Freddie Bea, past state president, from East Baltimore Lodge No. 1043; Daughter Gloria Luster, Pride of Baltimore Temple No. 429; Daughter Ella Killens, Pride of Towson Temple No. 586; Moses Warfield, past state president, Pride of Havre de Grace Temple No. 314; Jean Rogers, past state president and Daughter Ruler, Spirit of Chesapeake Temple No. 781; Le Roi "Pat Matthews, past Grand Exalted Ruler and present Exalted Ruler, Spirit of Chesapeake Lodge No. 1107.

Others in attendance at the telethon were: Brother Leroy Blair, East Baltimore Lodge No. 1043; Gladys J. Wilye, Pride of Towson Temple No. 586, and Daughters Bertie Handy and Frances Royster, East Baltimore Temple No. 717.

Although the Elks donate generously each year to this worthy cause, this is their first year to be on the TV panel for soliciting monies.

Ring in the new

There were many New Year's Eve festivities to ring out the old and ring in the new.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cann (Edith) hosted their annual gala New Year's Eve party at their Columbus Drive home in Baltimore.

Co - hosts were their daughters and sons - in - law, Edwina and James Bailey and Felicia and Otis Cain. Around 75 festive friends and family members came to join the fun and stayed until the wee hours.

Party fare was antipasto, followed by a fantastically delicious soul food dinner featuring a wide variety of foods, including traditional black - eyed peas.

There were all kinds of cocktails, music and dancing. All age groups enjoyed this celebration which was topped by a zesty breakfast of ham, eggs, homemade biscuits, juice and coffee.

To name a few celebrating with the Canns: Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bowser; Charles and Cladie Byrd, Connie Carter, Maceo Mitchell (D.C.); Andrea and Charles Hill and Andrea and Charles Hill and Andrea's sister, Laverne Redman (from New York), and Emma and Robert Baytops.

Columbia bash

Of the New Year's Eve celebrations held around the Charm City area, one of the biggest bashes took place at the plush Scarlet Petal, Columbia, Md. home of Professor and Mrs. Vernon Gray.

Their co - hosts for this affair were Professor and Mrs. Ernest Hammond.

Vernon is chairman of the political science department at Morgan State University where co - host Earnest is in the physical science department.

Vernon's wife Sandra is executive assistant to the Commission of the U.S. Office of Employment. Ernie's wife Rose is an instructor at MSU.

Around 200 guests welcomed in the New Year around a fountain of continuously flowing wine punch, feasted on a delicious array of gourmet foods, sipped cocktails and made merry with lots of dancing.

Among the many guests seen were: Dr. and Mrs. Earl Ingram, (he's director of Employment Opportunities, OFOE); Mrs. Katherine Nelson, (member of the Howard County Central Democratic Committee); Professors Milford Jeremiah and Lucius Outlaw, (of MSU); Houston Stansbury, (registrar at MSU); on the Employment of Women, Department of the Interior): attorney Alexis Jackson, (associate solicitor for the U.S. Departmen of the Interior); Dr. and Mrs. Dagaldine (he's of HEW); Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Minter, (he's depuy U.S. Commissioner of Education for Elementary and secondary information);

Dr. and Mrs. Herman Goldberg, (he's associate U.S. Commissioner for Educational Programs); Dr. and Mrs. William Young, (he's assistant superintendent of Montgomery County Schools); Dr. and Mrs. Jesse Clay, (he's assistant president of Howard University); Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Clay, (he's ch the Maryland State Parole and Probation Commission); Neal and Willma Janey, (he's an assistant state prosecutor); Lither Blackwell, Nancita Rogers, Thomas Stokes, Darlene Wade, Gregory Booker, Joan Graham, Diane Gordy, Mr. and Mrs. James Fitzpatrick, Joseph and Joy Monroe, Sen. Clarence Mitchell, Ann Strickland, Jack Patterson, Joyce Jordan, John Wood, Del. Walter Dean, Yvonne Hughes, Herbert West, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cakely, Dr. Healy McCadey, Mind Frazier, Brenda Alford, who recently performed at The Gauby, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Scott, (he's a principal in Montgomery County.
