Judge Bell's remarks piggybacked on Murphy's: "We need a public official's agenda. We spend summit ourselves, but we are reluctant to go to the public airways and make our fears known. Our major problem is that we are falling short of what we should be doing."

Speaking to the sorority's national theme, "An Agenda for Change," Thelma Cox, herself a Delta, said," We must examine ourselves, examine our own roadblocks i.e. procrastination, jealousy, envy, ego - tripping, classifying, rejecting and excluding people. Attitudes make a difference. Commitment is what we do with the skills and talents we have meshed together in our organization."

Rev. Bryant: "Support systems are the ultimate vehicles of our own liberation. The federal government, Jimmy Carter will not set black people free.

"We need to improve on our value system; we've gone astray. We no longer speak of service. We have individual values. We have money for the nuclear self. We need to reintroduce the system of the collective self, collective sharing and responsibility."

Dr. Carroll encouraged the audience to read "Black and Beautiful Also Are the Souls of My Black Sisters" by Delta Jean Noble for further insight into black support systems. She added "One aspect of resource is listening especially to persons not recognized by the underclass."

In response to Attorney Freeman's question," Is Baltimore any better because Delta is there?"

Dr. Billingsley cited several Deltas who make viable contributions to his job as Morgan president. They are: legislator Verda Welcome, school officials Rebecca Carroll and Thelma Cox and Morgan administrator Dr. Beryl Williams.

Several weeks ago we attended an awards luncheon sponsored by the Maryland Affirmative Action Officers and Equal Opportunity Personnel. It was during this affair that we had the opportunity to talk with SSA retiree George M. Brooks about his total involvement in Baltimore city and county activities.

A few months earlier we met while vacationing in Mexico City and Acapulco, Mexico with the Avalon's Club.

In early April, 1978, Mr. Brooks retired from the Social Security Administration. At the time of his retirement, he was serving as deputy director in the division of property management. Prior to SSA employment he was working at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds.

A 1941 graduate of Douglass High School, he actively supports the fundraising activities of the alumni association. He is a past president and also an active supporter of the Baltimore Chapter of the Morgan University alumni association.

Mr. Brooks was appointed to serve a nine year term on the state universities and colleges board of trustees by former Gov. Marvin Mandel. In addition, he was selected to act as chairman of the selection committee for the president of Bowie College and is currently working with the Boy Scouts of America, Baltimore Area Council.

In 1977, he retired as a colonel in the Maryland National Guard with a total of 33 years of service. His record of service and military rank has placed him in position to be recognized as the senior black military officer in the state of Maryland.

A devoted family man, George Brooks is married to the former Amelia Soden. They are the parents of three children, two daughters and one son who is currently attending Morgan University. The family resides in New Forest Baltimore.

The Bureau of Disability Insurance co - workers of Mrs. Mildred Smith sponsored a retirement dinner at Meashaw's in her honor last Friday evening.

Effective Jan. 1, under a new amendment to the Social Security Act, a woman who is at least 60 years of age and who has been divorced from a covered wage earner after a ten year marriage is eligible for benefits when her ex - husband starts collecting retirement or disability benefits. Previously, a marriage needed to have lasted at least 20 years before a divorce wife could receive benefits.

The holidays may be over but the spirit of "Party - Hearty" still goes on.

For the lively guests present there was a delicious sould food smorgasboard, champagne and anything else you wanted to drink.

After everyone feasted, the hosts rolled back the rug and everybody did his thing with disco dancing.

The expert dancer present who turned everyone on to the latest steps was Myra Lara, a club member who resided for some time in Chicago, but now lives here.

Other club members and their guests attending this bubbly affair were: Anne and Joe Addison, Brand and George Branson, Jennie Campbell, Barbara and Bill Hilliard, Evelon and William Jordan, Dot Pugh, Bob Croston, Janice and Dennis Tribble, Ruth Turner, William C. Smith and Phyllis Ward.

Aso getting in on post - Christmas fun activities is that cozy jazz, club, "The Place", located on Franklin Street. Anne Rush, owners invited friends and contemporary jazz lovers in on Sunday, Jan. 21 for cocktails, hot and cold hors d'oeuvres, caviar, chicken and other goodies. All had a ball as music was provided by a jazzy three - piece combo.

The Kappa Phi Lambda Chapter, Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity held its fourth annual Martin Luther King Memorial Breakfast last Sunday morning, 8:30 a.m. at the Kittamoundi Room of the Rouse Company Building.

Guest speakers were Dr. Bernadine N. Denning, director of the Office of Revenue Sharing, U.S. Department of Treasury and Dr. Homer Favor, dean of Morgan State University's urban affairs department.

The affairs is held annually to commemorate the birthday of our slain leader, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Dr. Bernadine Denning spoke from the theme, "Back to Basics and the family.'

"It would be a great tribute to Martin Luther King Jr. if people would consider their roots, continue his struggle and go back to the basic of extended families."

She continued, "King wanted us to understand that the solid foundation that we have is very unique to the black family.

She challenged the fraternity and the audience to take Dr. King's struggle forward. "Go beyond providing scholarships for education and guide students into the kind of education that will more readily assure employment upon graduation.

She called upon the churches and parents to open up "Saturday Schools" and stop relying on public institutions to give children all of the education they need.

The young speaker pleaded to the over 200 guests attending the breakfast to keep the political fight of the slain civic rights leader alive by attending local hearings on the utilization of revenue sharing funds. "Yesterday has gone, and tomorrow we cannot control, but today we have to accomplish what we will."

Dr. Homer Pvor had this to say: "After Rosa Parks decided she wasn't going to the back of the bus in 1955, it was impossible even in this neck of the woods of Maryland for people of such desperate backgrounds to get together in unity as you are here tonight."

"I have faith that out of the mountain of despair is the stone of hope, and that we will all together achieve symphony of brotherhood. We have come a long ways toward that "symphony" but, there is more work to be done."

He reminded the audience of the Kerner Commission's report that we are moving in the direction of two worlds, one white, one black. We are still heading in those directions. "Separate worlds, one white, one black."

Thought for Today: Be watchful, stand firm in your faith, be courageous, be strong.

INEZ KAISER

Hints For Homemakers

As each new year begins, we usually make resolutions to improve our habits. It has been my practice to concentrate on improving two habits each year. This has worked very well for me.

WHAT'S MY FAVORITE LAUNDRY DETERGENT?

For years Lever Brothers' products have also worked very well for me in my household. For example, CONCENTRATED "all" is my favorite laundry detergent.

This washday product really concentrates on getting my whole wash clean and helps remove even the most difficult stains.

With its special formula containing bleach, borax and brighteners, CONCENTRATED "all" cleans all of our clothes well and never lets us down.

I also like the directions on the back of the box, which tell you how much detergent to use, as well as the correct water temperature for certain fabrics.

CONCENTRATED "all" has proven to me that it cleans greasy, oily dirt better than other leading powdered detergents, even on tough-to-clean fabrics like polyester. That's why I think it's just about the best detergent for everything you wash.

So there's certainly no reason for me to change laundry detergents in 1979.

WHY THE KAISERS VOTE FOR MRS. BUTTERWORTH'S

The new year has brought us real good news! My son Rick and his family have decided to move back to Kansas City from San Diego. So we'll have much more chance to see them.

Last month Rick visited us several times for job interviews. Although he has been gone a number of years, many of his favorite foods are the same.

Sure enough, I found myself preparing a lot of French toast, waffles and pancakes. And the first thing he asked was, "Where is the MRS. BUTTERWORTH'S syrup?" All I did was hand him a bottle.

Rick said he preferred MRS. BUTTERWORTH'S to the leading syrup because it is thicker and the taste is so good.

He and his dad both agree that they like the rich, good taste of MRS. BUTTERWORTH'S syrup on their hot breads. The older they get, those two Richards become more alike.

Neither one of them likes syrup that runs all over their plate, as so many syrups do. That is why I always serve MRS. BUTTERWORTH'S. It is the choice of all the Kaisers.

HOW CLOSE-UP HELPED ON A JOB HUNT

Rick is still true to form. He forgot to bring his key to our house and he also forgot to pack some toothpaste in his suitcase.

But it didn't really matter. He knew that I always keep a good supply of CLOSE-UP toothpaste on hand.

Since he was going on job interviews, it was important that his personal appearance be at its best. That means clean, bright teeth and fresh-smelling breath, among other things.

We all know that CLOSE-UP toothpaste contains super-whitening agents as well as a mouthwash ingredient. As a result, it not only cleans your teeth but freshens your breath, too.

A person's appearance is always a big determining factor in being chosen for a job. Luckily, Rick has a beautiful set of even teeth.

And when he brushes his teeth with CLOSE-UP, there is no need for Rick to be concerned about his breath.

We all felt confident that he would be offered a good job and, sure enough, he was. We Kaisers owe a lot to CLOSE-UP toothpaste—and in more ways than one.

BATH OIL IN A BEAUTY BAR?

When Rick left to go back to San Diego he took several boxes with him. One of the boxes contained several cakes of CARESS body bar for my daughter-in-law Carolyn.

Carolyn really likes CARESS—and for good reason. As a young mother, she has beautiful skin and she naturally takes good care of it.

CARESS contains light bath oil blended inside of each bar that helps condition your skin and leaves it as soft as can be.

Carolyn likes to pamper her body. A long time ago, I told her there's no better way than by bathing or showering with CARESS.

CARESS has an elegant oval shape carved to easily fit into your hand. It is also far milder to the skin than ordinary soap and it also has a lovely fragrance.

Carolyn and I both like the way CARESS leaves our skin feeling soft and silky and good all over. It's really something special.
