Ms. King selected for 'Who's Who'

Pamela D. King, daughter of Benjamin and Gloria King of Ellamont Road in Baltimore, is one of 38 students at Virginia State College selected for the 1978-79 edition of "Who's Who Among Students In American Universities and Colleges."

Students are chosen on the basis of academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential, said Fraulein C. Lowe, director of the college Counseling Center.

Virginia State offers 40 bachelor's degrees and 26 master's in 27 departments.

Virginia State, which is seeking university status from the 1979 Virginia General Assembly, was founded as a black institution nearly 97 years ago.

A junior at State, Ms. King is majoring in accounting. She plans to follow in her father's footsteps and become a certified public accountant. She is a 1976 graduate of Western High in Baltimore.

At Virginia State she is active in the Accounting Club and serves Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority as treasurer. Her leisure time activities include dancing, swimming and traveling.

Super Bowl bashes

There were lots of Supper Bowl gatherings around Charm City, generating extra excitement for that championship battle on Sunday, Jan. 21.

More than 30 suspenseful guests attended a dynamite Super Bowl party given by Frennie and Harrace Redd in their Levindale Road home.

This lively football set featured soul food and all kinds of drinks, excluding a three gallon bowl of zingy punch.

Decorative as well as delicious were the desserts prepared by the hostess. There were apple pies with footballshaped openings on top of the crusts. There was also a huge blue and white cake, its icing done up in the shape of goal posts, with "Super Bowl '79" etched in between. Guess you can tell which team the hostess was rooting for.

Guests divided themselves into teams "For Dallas" and "For Pittsburgh" and had a ball with pennyante bets, spirited rooting for their chosen teams and a lively rehash of the game afterwards.

Host, Harrace Redd, is the owner of Redd's Liquors (on Edmondson Avenues) Hostess, Fennie, is a teacher with the Baltimore City Public Schools.

On a smaller scale, but just as much fun was the intimate Super Bowl gathering at the home of Gertha Smoots, (of the Chessie System) on Belle Avenue.

Guests at this sports special enjoyed salmon dip, corned beef hors d'oeuvres, rum cake, pina coladas, potato chips and various other kinds of snacks and drinks.

Seen cheering their favorite teams on were: Stella and Jam Richardson, Barbara and Paul Lee and daughter, Michelle, Theresa Scott, Ann Essex and Dennis (Tony) Auillera.

After the game, the guests having been caught up in the excitement of it all, played ping pong and partied on.

New Year's goals

While some folks party some are on the more serious note of how to get the year off to a good start with goals set.

This was exemplified by Clifford Love and Josine, two former students of Thomas G. Hayes Elementary School Central Avenues).

These two young men presented a fantastic program at that school on Wednesday, Jan. 24. With the theme, "What Lies Ahead" Clifford, who is now an Electronics Technician Trainee (for Bell and Howell in Arizona) and Josine, a local magician and ventriloquist, did a skit to make pupils become more involved in career awareness.

There was a funny but meaningful scene where a "Street Dude" sees a successful black career man and gets some good advice on staying in school and preparing to "Be Somebody".

This skit, along with take - offs on Muhammed Ali's life, his song, "The Greatest" and an original poem on Ali done by Clifford and Josine brought the message through loud and clear: "You can be what you want to be if you work hard enough for it."

Josine, (his adopted Muslim name) had his talents as a magician and a ventriloquist (with puppet Dandy) especially highlighted. His act was entertaining, funny and fast paced, but still got the message across.

The program ended with "Lift Every Voice" (our black national anthem). Pupils at 102 thoroughly enjoyed the presentation and proved by their applause and laughter that they got the message.

What better way to start the year for a group of young, black inner city students.

Members of this group are Mildred Ayers, Barbara Cox, Delores Bordley, Richiel Briley, Mareelene Clerkley, Marion Counts, Verna Day, Sarah Gross, Shirely Hanks, Betty Hubbard, Mary James, Eileen Manning, Carolyn Mills, Dorothy Pettaway, Brenda Rigby, Elizabeth Taylor, Pauline Turner and Hazel Woods.

Neighborhood Party

Dr. and Mrs. Talmadge Pinkney recently hosted the holiday activity for the Powhatan Avenue Neighborhood Association.

The annual family party was a delight and pleasure for the families involved.

A delectable dinner was served with various types of beverages and door prizes were awarded with gifts for others.

Some enjoyed cards, others just sitting sipping and chatting. Much fun was had making instant pictures.

Among those participating were Mr. and Mrs. Challpin Dungee, Mr. and Mrs. Leory Taft, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Williams, Mr. and Mrs. George Harding, Mr. and Mrs. John Tabb, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Baer;

Miss Claretta Golender, Calvin Carr, Jack Noel, Mrs. Shirley Noel, Dr. Douglass Camper and Mr. Lynch.

DR. ARMALY HONORED
