The great cooks of Baltimore

Alverta Stewart's soulful barbecued pigs' feet

SOULFUL BARBECUED PIGS' FEET — Alverta Stewart of the 4200 block Oakford Avenue gave the AFRO her favorite recipe this week.

Alverta Stewart of the 4200 block of Oakford Ave., is a chef to many colors. She can do all from soup to tart.

Even though Alverta did not begin cooking until she was grown, she has become expert at it. The "oohs" and "aahs" her delicacies produce when she is entertaining or cooking for hubby, Aaron, a contractor, attest to her culinary abilities.

Alverta's interest in cooking came from an early desire for a career in home economics. Although she became, and still is, a customer orders clerk for Western Electric, she always finds time to turn out her delicious concoctions.

She likes her finished fare to look pretty while tasting scrumptious. Some of her best dishes are: marinated shrimp hors d'oeuvres, gourmet stringbeans (done up with mushrooms), crab Newburg, Italian spaghetti, shrimp Creole and homemade rolls.

As you can see, Alverta is both creative and versatile. However, she really considers herself a soul food expert.

One of her specialties in this area is barbecued pigs' feet. She decided to share this recipe with AFRO readers.

Check it out. It's truly a tastebud pleaser. And remember as you prepare it, Alverta is a great chef. Even her nickname sounds delicious. "It's "Puddin."

Puddin's Barbecued Pig's Feet

4 each cleaned pigs' feet
1 tsp. thyme
1 large onion, sliced
½ cup vinegar
1 pod of barbecue sauce
salt and pepper to taste.

Add vinegar to ½ gallon boiling water. Boil pigs' feet until tender. Remove and put in crock pot or deep pan. Add other ingredients. Smothered with barbecue sauce mixture. Cook until taste pleasing, approximately half hour.

Serves eight. Can be served from chafing dish. Good with cocktails.

The best meal you ever had?

The AFRO is looking for the Great Cooks of Baltimore.

Who cooked the best meal you ever tasted?

The chef can be male, female, plain or fancy.

Let us know. We want to spotlight folks who create lip - smacking, mouth watering food.

Send your favorite meal - maker's name, address, and phone number to: Great Cooks of Baltimore, Baltimore AFRO AMERICAN, Box 1057, Baltimore, Md. 21203.

Columbia Capers

By Minnie L. Ross

A fantastic black history program was held recently at Hammond High School, Columbia. Highlighting the program was a soul food ritual and a soul food dinner.

The Rev. John R. Bryant, pastor of Bethel AME Church in Baltimore was the very fine speaker.

The theme for the program was taken from the book of Isiah. "Consider the quarry from which your mind, the rock from which you were cut."

The annual black heritage program was presented by the Martin Luther King Community Church. The Rev. Phillip V. Rushing is the very able pastor there. Over 400 persons came out to commemorate our ancestors' claim on freedom.

Rev. Rushing wrote the special service he delivered and selected readers from the audience to participate. He asked participants, "Dish a bowl full of tiny pieces of chitterlings.

"God gave our forefathers the wisdom to know how to take part of the hog which was thrown away and convert them into survival meals. They also made us worn out and discarded hoes and pencils. With these they taught themselves how to read and write.

"The second representation in ritual is a peeled lemon, salt water and wine, symbolic of both bitterness and joy.

"The peeled lemon reminds us of the bitterness with which our forefathers were crucified and brutally stripped of their name, language, dignity, sexuality and selfhood. The salt water is reminiscent of tears. The wine is the sweetness of God's love flowing through our ancestors souls.

"A live plant plucked from the land is next. It reminds us that our ancestors were uprooted and represents holiness. The last symbol consist of a basket of agricultural products, constructing tools and an empty wallet. The products and tools remind us that our ancestors cleared the land, cultivated the plantations and constructed roads. They worked for 240 years without a pay day.

Rev. Rushing wrote his heritage sermon after attending seder, the meal commemorating the Jewish feast of the Passover some years ago.

Also highlighting the program was the Imani Messengers of Bethel AME Church.

CHAPTER HONORS — The Miles W. Connor Chapter of the Virginia Union University Alumni Association, Baltimore, recently named its 1978 Alumnus of the Year Award for uniqueness of service and leadership to the chapter and to Virginia Union University. Shown from left are Harlow Fullwood Jr., chapter president; Mrs. Jeanette Shamwell and David S. Jones, both recipients of the Alumnus of the Year Award.

Tattle Tales

OUT IN THE COLD — That effervescent glamour girl who was living with his men at once got bump out of both places this week just when the snow began to fall.

Seems she met one fellow that she was working on her Master's up north on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

She told her other lover she was going to school Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday. (Rest on Sunday!)

The snag came when she got into fights with both of them in the same week.

So Miss Slick is out in the snow, bag and baggage. Hope she makes up with somebody soon — it's cold out there.

WEDDING BELLS IN APRIL? — Despite rumors, that super rich nice guy will tie the knot with that super professional lady. Around Easter?

TOW AWAY ZONE — One of our favorite club owners has enough troubles (briefly lost liquor license) without having to chase his car to the impound lot.

Watch where you park that Mercedes, honey.

HCC offers violence program

Harford Community College, Division of Continuing Education, will offer an eight - week course on "Family Violence: A Community Concern" beginning Thursday, Feb. 15 at the College Center, Conference Room No. 2 from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

DOUGLASS '54 REUNION — Phil Chester, Mary Carroll, David Cousin, Virginia Arnsine and Howard Wright are among the Douglass Class of '54 members who marked their Silver Anniversary last weekend.

PARTYTIME IS ANYTIME — Robert Warrell, Lauretta Parkinson, James Land, Jean Coursey and Edward Boston were also among the 1954 graduates of Douglass High School celebrating last weekend.

The LaFontaine Rouge was the Saturday reunion setting for formal dancing and dining.

The theme for the evening was "We Have Grown from Pretty Young People to Mature Beautiful People."

Dancing music was by the She Devils.

Honored guests were Mary West Miller, a retired teacher and Marion Smith, still a member of the Baltimore City Public School system.

The Rev. Raymond Kelly, pastor of the Harlem Park Community Church and also a member of the Douglass Class of '54 opened the doors of his church to the class on Sunday, Feb. 4.

Members of the class participating on the church program included Kenneth Coleman, Lonnie Penny, Howard Wright and Joan Coursey.

The group presented the sum of $370 to the Harlem Community Church and $400 to the Scholarship Fund of Douglass High School.

Members of the Reunion Committee were: Howard Wright, Bernice Bradshaw, Ellaweise Minser, Edward Boston, Loretta Parkinson, Hoarsel Colbert, Joan Coursey, Theodore Henson and James Land.

Guests also enjoyed hors d'oeuvres prepared by class member, Phillip Chester.

Les Dix Femme

The members of the Les Dix Femme Social Club held their annual Sweetheart Ball on Saturday, Feb. 3 at the LaFontaine Bleu.

The theme for the evening was: "Sweethearts — Colors: Red and White. Like Fine Vintage, get Better Every Year."

The gala affair was hosted by the eleven members of the group which include: Mesdames Ruth Bookhart, president Catherine Toddl vice president; Hattie Franklin, Secretary; Lottie Randall, financial secretary; Rosie Gibbs, treasurer; Roberta McKenny, Elaine Campbell, Doris King, Deborah McMillion, Ann Dunnock and Christine Stokes, a charter member of the club.

The Les Dix Femme Social Club was organized in 1949 and the ladies of the group were all dressed in the colors of red and white marking their 30th anniversary.

Among the 400 guests celebrating the group's anniversary were: Mrs. Libby Robinson, Mrs. Virginia Brooks, Mrs. Edna Gough, Mrs. Celeste Alexander, Mrs. Ann Barley, Mrs. Lee Dora Hill, John Smith, Frederick Terry and Stanley Myers.

Out-of-towners included Mr. and Mrs. C. Charles of District Heights, Md., Mr. and Mrs. Wallace of Durham, N.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Payne of Gloucester, Va., Miss Evelyn Cadell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cadell, Charles Armstrong, all of Robins, N.C.

Happy Birthday

A birthday celebration will be held on Saturday, Feb. 10 marking the fourth birthday of David Charles Townsend, son of Kenneth and Jackie Townsend.

The celebration will be held at the honoree's 3400 block Cardinal Court home.

His twelve little guests will include; Kenneth Townsend Jr., brother of the honoree; Keyore Tyler, Angela Mackel, Gregory and Richard Dye, Tanya Wainwright, Marcus Anderson, Iyanna McCullough, Michael Robinson, Rashida Rowe and Carey and Christopher Wright.

Governor's Ball

Out good friend, Hildagarders Boswell, director for the Office of Public Affairs, Maryland Commission of Human Affairs called to tell us she'll have a special guest in town this weekend.

Her guest will be the Ambassador Sierra Leone, Prince L. Moore who will escort her to the Friday night Inauguration Ball of Governor Harry Hughes to be held at the Naval Academy, Dahlgen Hall, 9 p.m. They'll be among the thousands of Marylanders expected at the historical event.

Cooke-Braxton affair

AME church leaders will be in town today, Feb. 9 for the wedding of Marie Phillips-Cooke, AFRO Women's Editor to the Rev. Ronald E. Braxton, pastor of Allen AME Church.
