Chapman said that he believes that Provident Hospital "has the potential to provide this anchor and to become the flagship of this network. It has the assets and cash flow which are within the top 10 highest in the nation among black institutions (profit and non-profit). It has the ability to assist in the support and benefit of other providers within the black community through these resources.

"What it needs is a greater amount of confidence and support and commitment any other white institutions of its size and magnitude enjoys and that must be reversed within a very short time because the future we face does not look very bountiful or rosey."

Dr. Roland Smoot is president. Dr. Edward McDaniel introduced the speaker. Dr. Ralph Howard, chairman of the group's scholarship fund announced the annual award to Eugene Vincent, a pharmacy student at the University of Maryland.

Dr. J. Fennimore Cooper offered prayer and led the group in a tribute to former chaplain, the Dr. Cyril Ashby, who died last month.

Dr. John Mitchell, immediate past president, had with him a number of relatives, including his mother, Mrs. Bernice Mitchell, and aunt, Mrs. Sallie Hite. Here from Charlottesville, Va., Kenneth and Bernick Mitchell, and from Louisa, Va., Freddie and Norma Harrison.

Mardi Gras Was A Ball!

While my spanking new husband and I were honeymooning in St. Thomas, V.I., away from the cold and snow, Pi Omega Chapter of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity was having a ball (a costume ball) at Martin's West. It was the annual Mardi Gras.

This year's committee put things together in meticulous order. They were Ernest R. Custis, Walter R. Riddick and Edward McDaniel.

Chapter officers are, Kenneth Ervin, basileus; Washington Green, vice basileus; Daniel Lyle, keeper of records and seal; James Thornton, assistant; Harrison Fuller, keeper of finance; Harold Hart, assistant; George McKinney, keeper of peace; Joseph Walker, parliamentarian; Clarence Henderson, chaplain; William Ghent, keeper of property; Russell T. Hopewell, assistant; Randolph Thompson, chapter editor.

Members are, James Grant, William Neal, Otis Robertson, Harold Hart, Russell M. Young, Robert L. Johnson Jr., Lemuel Boone, Eugene Ward.

After-Parties Too

We heard of a number of after-parties followed. Charles Payne hosted an intimate group at his home. Ponjola and James Priest had wall-to-wall guests for breakfast at their home.

Out-of-town guests included, Zebe McAllister of Richmond; the William Braswells and Albert Hebron, all of Washington; and Osborne Payne (the McDonald franchises), and his wife, Fambreesge, of nearby Columbia, Md. Also there, the priest's son, Roy, of Silver Spring, and Adam McKee, the Omega's district representative.

Maryland League Prepares for March Session

As Mrs. Rubye Gill, president of the Maryland League of Women's Clubs, issues the call fot its historic session on March 24, the listing of the nine founding clubs reveals the challenge for changing perspectives of women's organizations. The nine includes five sororities, a woman's branch of a strong men's fraternal group, a business and professional women's organization, two other business and professional groups which have responded vigrously to integration, such that the parent groups have nearly disappeared.

The five sororities in the Maryland League - Alpha Kappa Alpha, Delta Sigma Theta, Iota Phi Lambda, Sigma Gamma Rho, and Zeta Phi Beta (some of which have more than 60 years of continuous function) — have continued to have leadership roles in services to their communities and to the state.

Although generally nationally based, each has worked in varying directions on problems and support for children, youth and senior citizens; each has pushed vigorously for equal opportunity for women as well as for all people in public accommodations, education, housing and employment; each has studied problems of mental, social and physical health; each has

Party Line

By Michele L. McRae and Pattie Hodges

The Friday before the snowstorm wasa fabulous night for those who attended the Annual Sweetheart Ball of Spinoza, Inc.

The old Northwest Baltimore men's club is still going strong and you could see that the many years have brought great unity to its members and supporters.

Guests were entertained by the Tiny Tim band with "Tiny Tim" himself as lead vocalist and pretty Gaynell Colburn on bongos. What an exciting group they are!

In addition, guests enjoyed barbeque spareribs, pigs feet, Maryland fried chicken, collard greens, sauerkraut, candied yams, potato salad, cornbread and sheet cake. They also had a continous open bar with the best brands of liquor.

Randolph Nelson is president of the group. Francis Martin, vice president; Mike Griffin, secretary; Parter Stone, financial secretary; Russell Barmer, treasurer; Lonnie T. Bazemore, business manager; Ruueben Sykes, asst. business manager; James Shepard, sgt. at arms.

Members include Conrad Barmer, William Butler, Theodore Dennis, Herman Mathews, Alfred Moody, William Parson, Robert Lee Purnell, Benjamin Scott and Joseph Thompson.

Ronsom 80th birthday

William Ronsom was recently given a surprise 80th birthday celebration last week at the Memoriable Gardens famous dining room.

The surprise occasion was sponsored by his wife, Marion and his son, Wiliam Jr., and grandson Kyle Ronsom. Tributes were presented from family, relatives, in-laws and friends. Mrs. Janet Woolridge, his nieve, served as mistress of ceremonies. The invocation and benediction were presented by his brother Spicer Ronsom.

Mrs. Ann Foster, local singer, supplied the beautiful musical selections for the occasion. Mrs. Mable Waters presented William's life in a Down-Memory -Lane - presentation.

From Washington came two sister - in - law, Mrs. Sedonia Caltrone and Mrs. May Bryant. From Lancaster, Va. came his sister and brother - in - law, Mr. and Mrs. Justice Jones, along with local in-laws Ms. and Mrs. Milton Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Brown.
