Southside community center hosts fundraiser

The Lillian Pollard Sebree-Diggs-Johnson Community Center recently hosted its first fundraising banquet at La Fontaine Bleu in Glen Burnie, Md.

The Center was organized as a cultural, social, educational and recreational resource center designed to improve the skills and talents of South Baltimore residents.

The affair honored former students of Lillian Pollard Sebree who dedicated more than 42 years to educating students. Awards from the Mayor's office were given to former students for their work in organizing this affair.

The students who were honored are Coalridge Jones, a teacher from Philadelphia; the Rev. Clarence Yerby; Dubois Ball, social worker from Jamaica, N.Y.; Daniel Jones, a retired laborer from Virginia;

Also, Lucy Giddings, a teacher from Virginia; Dr. Morris Washington, a physicist from Rahway, N.J.; William Jones, an engineer from Washington, D.C. and David Jones, a teacher in Baltimore County.

The head table consisted of honored guests and the advisory council including, the Rev. Grailen Ceasar, George Tindal, Miss Margaret Tindall, the Rev. Milton Foster, Ms. Bertina Foster, the Rev. Clarence Yerby, Dubois Ball, Ms. Jacqueline Whitman, Advisory Council members are Ms. Agnes Welch, Ms. Marguerite Campbell, Ms. Muriel Alexander, Ms. Cecil Jones, Jim Wall, Ms. Regina Smith, Ms. Dawn Fitchett, Ms. Eunice Gross and Theodore Gross.

The Rev. Ceasar, copastor of Mt. Olive Freewill Baptist Church narated the program. William T. Jones, assistant engineer of the Office of Planning, District of Columbia, was toastmaster.

Ms. Margaret Tindal explained the relationship of the Center and the community.

A portrait of the late Mrs. Sebree was unveiled by her great-granddaughter Donna Lucas and Kristen Handy, both of Baltimore.

The program concluded with an introduction of family members and guests from nearby states.

Faculty members in attendance were Mrs. Inez Bates, director of the Center, [illegible] reading instructor; Madie White, registered nurse; James Alston, piano instructor; Ernesting Horton, voice instructor; Carolyn Lendosky, drama instructor; Geralyn Philips, drama instructor; James Wall, reading instructor; Bessie Bellamy, social director; Eugie Watkins, associate director, and Mattie Murphy, director registration-secretary.

Partyline

The party, which was held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sylvia White, a local school teacher, was a complete surprise to Mrs. Williamson.

Mrs. White's Tigoga Parkway home was gaily decorated in varying shades of yellow, with crepe paper, ribbons and balloons. The decorated table groaned from the weight of the many delicious, tasteful, and beautiful dishes which were prepared and artfully arranged by Mrs. White and her friends and by Mrs. Priscilla Williamson, daughter - in - law. Champagne punch was enjoyed by all adults.

The celebration reached its peak with the presentation to Mrs. Williamson of many lovely and treasured gifts from her family and friends.

Included in the more than 60 persons who gathered to honor her were:

Michael L. Williamson, who is with the New York City police department, 10 grandchildren from New York City, Washington, D.C. and Baltimore, and six great grandchildren from Washington, D.C. and Baltimore. The youngest meber of the family attending was 4 - month - old Lenise White, great granddaughter.

Kiddie disco

On Saturday, May 26 the Druid Park West Child Study Group sponsored their fourth annual Kiddie Disco at Greenspring Junior High School.

Children from the ages of toddler to 13 danced from 3 until 5:30 p.m. to the disco sounds of Wood's Sound Company of Baltimore, owned and operated by C. M. Woodford.

Excitment mounted each time a lucky ticket holder received a door prize of his or her choice.

A fantastic time was had by children and parents as they danced and refreshed themselves on cookies and punch, surrounded by an exotic Hawaiian decor.

Members in attendance were: Gayle Westmoreland, president; Helen Beverly, vice president; Cynthia Harvin, recording secretary; Virginia Pope, treasurer; Irene Gillis, financial secretary; Mattie Riddick, Naomi Slade, Emma Arnelle, Ondra Walker and Margaret Brown, members.

Druid Park West Child Study Group wishes to thank its faithful clientele and looks forward to planning another Kiddie disco for next spring.

Sociable's anniversary

The weekends of May 19 and 26 were banner times for the Sociables.

This club, comprised of a group of local women, was celebrating 20 years of togetherness.

During the weekend of May 19, members and their guests motored to Colony 7, Quality Inn, In Annapolis Junction, near Laurel, Md.

Special highlights of the weekend were: seeing the play "Oklahoma," a treat which included a sumptuous buffet dinner on Saturday, May 19, and enjoying a club breakfast on Sunday before check - out time.

Culminating the 20 - year celebration was a party held on Sunday, May 27, at the lovely Burnbrook Lane home of Ellen and Ronald Dorkins, hosts for the affair.

Delicious party fare, done up by Mrs. Evelyn Jordan and Mrs. Dorkins, as well as a variety of cocktails and disco dancing were highly enjoyed by members and their guests. They partied from 6 p.m. until midnight.

Members and friends levening up this fun fest were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence (Cleo) Alexander, (she's president); Mr. and Mrs. Perry M. Hunter, Ms. Cardoza Collins, Ms. Ruth B. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Albert (Laura) Queens, (she's financial secretary); Mr. and Mrs. Chandler (Oberlin) Perry (she's champlain); Ms. Easter Bailey, vice president;

Adger Harvin, William C. Smith, Rudolph and Ruth Horrieds, Alfred and Lavada Howards, Clarence and Lil Frazier, Dr. and Mrs. D. H. (Jan) Tribble, Ms. Averta Smith, Ms. Roxy Bell, Simuel Vines, Ms. Jacqueline Hilson, Irvin Holley, Ms. Alemia Johnson, Barbara Knight, William Jordan Sr. (treasurer), Evelon Jordan, (secretary);
