Jordan urges support for Housing Amendment

By Curtis Austin

"Labeling it the "single most important civil rights issue of 1979," Vernon E. Jordan Jr., president, National Urban League, made an appeal to Congress and the American people, Tuesday, to support the Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1979.

Flanked by Dorothy Height, president of the National Council of Negro Women and Carl Holman, president, National Urban Coalition, Jordan told a crowded room of reporters at the Hyatt Regency that the current federal Fair Housing Law was not enough.

"It has become apparent," stated Jordan, "that without enforcement powers, the housing law has no teeth".

Passage of the 1968 legislation did not result in the disappearance of housing discrimination, it simply drove it underground," he added.

"The housing law that Jordan and his supporters seek to amend was enacted by Congress 11 years ago under Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968.

It made it unlawful in the sale, rental or financing of housing to discriminate against a prospective buyer or renter on the basis of that person's race, color, religion, national origin or sex.

The authority to administer the law was given to the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

However, the current law does not provide HUD with enforcement powers.

The department can investigate and establish the existence of a violation but is limited to settling up conferences between housing victims and those who violate the housing law in hopes of conciliation.

If passed, the Fair Housing Amendments Act of 1979 would enable HUD to, among other things: (1) seek a temporary injunction from a Federal District Court once a complaint is filed, (2) after a full administrative hearing, issue a "cease and desist order, (3) impose a civil penalty up to a maximum of $10,000.

Q. A classmate of mine tells me that he has had Hodgkin's Disease for several years. He doesn't look sick. Does he really have some kind of cancer?

A. Hodgkin's Disease is a type of cancer that arises in the lymph nodes and is characterized by the formation of abnormal lymphocytes (white blood cells which normally help fight infection). These abnormal lymphocytes multiply and spread throughout the body, changing the composition of the blood, damaging organs, and decreasing the body's ability to defend itself against infection.

Hodgkin's Disease occurs more frequently in males than in females, more often in whites than nonwhites. Fifty percent of those it strikes will be in the 20 - 40 year age group. What causes this disease is unknown. It is not considered to be contagious. Symptoms would be the painless swelling of lymph glands in the neck, armpit or groin. The symptoms may include persistent fatigue (tiredness), fever, weight loss, night sweats and itching. Less frequent symptoms would be nausea and vomiting. To diagnosis Hodgkin's, a biopsy of the swollen lymph nodes must be performed to determine the presence of structural changes of the node itself, as well as the presence of abnormal lymphocytes.

Blood tests, x - rays, and possibly bone scans, are done to determine whether the disease is localized (limited to one node) or spread to other regions.

Radiotherapy usually is the treatment of choice for early Hodgkin's.

Chemotherapy can be used effectively for advanced stages. With proper treatment Hodgkin's Disease can be contained over long periods or even cured.
