THE LIVING CHURCH

Southern Baptist youth dedicate services to pastor

A NEW ROBE — The young people of Southern Baptist Church, gave their pastor, the Rev. Dr. Nathaniel Higgs a new robe and cape on Youth Day. Members shown putting the robe on are Mrs. Lucy, advisor; Ms. Adell McCalla, chairperson. Rev. Higgs and Mrs. Doris Anderson.

The youth and young adults of Southern Baptist Church, dedicated their 11 a.m. services to their pastor, the Rev. Dr. Nathaniel Higgs on SundayFeb. 3 .3, when they observed their ninth annual Youth and Young Adult Day.

By 11:30 a.m. there was standing room and additional seats had to be placed in the aisle of the main sanctuary. The youth of the church gave their pastor a hand made beige robe with a brown velvet trimming and a cape to match the robe.

"Remember Now Thy Creator In The Days Of The Youth," was their theme. Prior to Youth and Young Adult Day, members of the church sponsored revival services Jan. 21-24 and observed joy night on Jan. 25 with local choirs participating. More than $9,000 was raised by the young members of the church for Youth and Young Adult Day.

Eldridge Branch was the director of the 150 voice youth choir and Jimmy Riley was musician. The Rev. Anthony E. Moore, associate minister of Southern Baptist and a student at Mervo High School was the 11 a.m. speaker. His subject was, "Did You Wash Up This Morning?"

Speaking to the youth, Rev. Moore stated, "You need the kind of soap that is not purchased on the market. It is called the holy spirit soap bar. You must consult Jesus, he will send you a brand new bar. With God's soap, you will stay clean. God's soap will wash you white as snow."

Rev. Moore, 17, has been the associate pastor of Southern Baptist since 1978 and is a member of the Sunday School and active with the church basketball team.

SPEAKER — The Rev. Anthony Moore, associate minister of Southern Baptist Church and a student at Mervo High School was the 11 a.m. speaker for Youth Day.

New Parish in Anne Arundel County

A new parish has been established in Anne Arundel County and a mission church there has been given independent status and assigned a permanent resident priest.

The new parish, to be known as Our Lady of the Chesapeake, will serve approximately 400 Catholic families in the area north of Annapolis, from Gibson Island up to Woods Road in Pasadena. Earlier it had been an independent mission of St. Jane Frances de Chantal parish in Riviera Beach, under the title of the Catholic Community of Lake Shore.

The area, formerly given over mostly to summer residents, has in recent years experienced rapid growth as a permanent residential community. In raising the Lake Shore community to the canonical status of a parish, Archbishop Borders also named Father Walter J. Paulits as its first pastor. Father Paulits has been assigned to the community since August 1978.

A native of Westmon, N. J., he was a Christian brother for almost 30 years before being ordained to the archdiocesan priesthood in 1972. He has a degree in English and American literature from the University of Pittsburgh, and has taught at various schools and colleges maintained by the Christian Brothers including LaSalle College, Philadelphia, where for a time he was dean of the evening division and summer school.

Following his ordination, he spent six years as an associate pastor at St. John Church before receiving his present assignment.

In a related action, the archbishop raised Holy Family Church, Davidsonville, to the status of an independent mission and named Father Edmond J. Stroup as resident priest. Previously the church had been a mission of Our Lady of Sorrows in Owensville, where Father Stroup has been an associate pastor. Father Stroup will now live at the Davidsonville church and has served as pastor at St. Vincent de Paul Church

Pastor entertains board members

"I did this because we often expect to be given and we fail too often in not giving. No one ever says thank you and this is what I desired to do."

The above statement was made by the Rev. Herman Ford, pastor of Fountain Baptist Church, 1512 Monument St., He was speaking of a reception he gave on Jan. 28 at the church in honor of his deacons, trustees and associate ministers of the church.

It was a very unique affair and Rev. Ford served as host when he entertained board members of the church. "The fellowship was heart warming and inspiring and the theme was "Leaders Working Together For Christ," said Rev. Ford.

Expressions of gratitude were extended by the pastor and flowers were presented by Rev. Ford to Deaconess Susie Hill, Deaconess Olawease Foy anMrs. Janice Ford, wife of Rev. Ford.

The menu consisted of beef, chicken, ham, corn pudding, greens, salads, jello, ice cream, cakes and punches. All the food was prepared by members of the minister's family.

Members of the Deacon Board are Charles Caldwell, chairman; Alexander Foy, vice chairman; James Chavis, James Alston, Bruster Hill, Joseph Smith, Benjamin Taylor, David Gillard, Rufus Hipp, Lushes Lewis, David Davis and Tossie Tabron.

Associate ministers of the church are the Reverends Moses Lewis, Stanley Johnson, Isiah Parker, William Miller, David Shivers and Phillip Borum.

Governor salutes Grace

Three outstanding citations were presented to Grace United Presbyterian Church last week during its Centennial celebration. The citations were: The governor's citation issued by Gov. Harry Hughes and a resolution from the Senate of Maryland. Both were given in recognition of the church's 100th anniversary of spiritual leadership and guidance in the community. The resolution was co-sponsored by Sen. Verda F. Welcome and Sen. Clarence W. Blount. Black History Museum at HU

The Howard University Black History Museum has on display more than 150 artifacts, rare documents and illustrations from the United States, the Caribbean and Africa.

The museum, proposed in 1912 by the late Dean Kelly Miller of the College of Arts and Sciences, is housed in the Dorothy B. Porter Room of Founders Library.

When the university's Moorland - Spingarn Collection was reorganized as the Moorland - Spingarn Research Center in 1973, the concept of a museum was revived.

Tours of the museum will be provided to public schools and community groups. Tour information can be obtained from Scott Baker at 636-7266.

100th anniversary of Mount Zion

Members and friends of Mount Zion United Methodist Church, Liberty Heights and Wabash Avenue, are celebrating the 100th anniversary of their church.

As part of its anniversary commemoration, Mount Zion is compiling its 100 year history. The Mount Zion history committee needs old church prorgams, bulletins, photographs or other artifacts which depict the history of Mount Zion United Methodist Church.

If you have any artifacts or information about the history of Mount Zion, contact Curtis Marshall 448-0191 or the Rev. Zacarias Cardoso, pastor at 664-7490.

A special Bible study call will be held on Sunday, Feb. 10 to recapture the spirit and faith of the founder of Mount Zion. Rev. Cardoso stated activities will be held at the church this year as part of the celebration and plans are now being made for an anniversary dinner in November. Rev. Cardoso has served as pastor of Mount Zion since 1977.
