"I must make my black child proud of his blackness," she said.

She also pointed up the heavy burden which has been placed on the black middle class, a group she described as living in two worlds — "not yet free but expected to prepare their children for a new world."

On her second issue, The White House Conference on Families, she said the concerns should be to develop a process of listening to and involving black families and strenthening families.

Mayor Willian Donald Schaefer proclaimed Feb. 2 Dr. Anne O. Emery Day in recognition of her work with community organizations in Walbrook Junction. Dr. Emery has consistently participated in and for her dedication as principal of Walbrook High School.

The proclamation was issued at the request of the Greater Walbrook Coalition, which includes representatives of Mount Holly, Woodhaven, Fairmount, Windsor Hills, Walbrook High School and Walbrook Junction businessmen.

Delegates from these organizations present at the awards ceremony included John Ferron, Mrs. Georgienne Egerton, Georgia Payne, John Robinson, Tanya Hollander and James Griffin.

Elected officals participating in the ceremony included Delegates Troy Brailey and Walter Dean, City Council members Norman Reeves, Victorine Adams and Thomas Waxter.

More than 100 other residents attended the Greater Walbrook Coalition Housing Workshop where Dr. Emery received the proclamation, read by Mark Sissan, deputy commissioner, Baltimore City Department of Housing and Community Development.

Presiding over the housing workshop was William Smith, assistant director, Baltimore City Department of Planning who praised Dr. Emery for her ongoing community work and for making the school's facilities available to people interested in learning about the city's housing programs.

The workshop was coordinated by Gloria Griffin, 4th District planner; Frederick I. Douglass, 5th District planner and his assistant, Ms. Cynthia Graves.

Ms. Mereida Goodman of the Housing Department coordinated the activities and scheduling of workshop speakers along with Ms. Delores Prout of the Baltimore City Community Relations Commission.

The workshop was opened by Smith who gave an overview of the "Greater Walbrook Stabilization Plan," prepared by the Baltimore City Planning Department to improve housing conditions in an area bounded by Leakin Park, Garrison Boulevard, Forest Park Avenue and Clifton Avenue.

Next there was a presentation on how to purchase city-owned residential property through tax sales, how to apply for low interest loans to purchase and rehabilitate residential properties and information about laws relating to home maintenance and what can be done about neighbors who do not keep up their properties.

Individuals interested in receiving more information about Baltimore's housing programs should contack Ms. Gloria Griffin at 396-5934 or Ms. Mereida Goodman at 396-1153.
