Postal employees host Miss Alliance Dinner-Dance

By Pattie Hodges, AFRO Staff Writer

Recently the Postal Alliance held its annual Miss Alliance Sweetheart Ball - Dinner Dance at La Fontaine Bleu, Erdman Ave.

Over 400 guests came out to enjoy themselves from 10 p.m. until 2 a.m.

For their enjoyment there was continuous open bar and scrumptuous open buffet. There was also lots of dancing to the latest pop tunes provided by the music of the Lawrence McNeil Band.

The lovely semi - formal affair was the culmination to the Postal Alliance contest for Miss Alliance, 1980.

Winners of the contest were: Miss Laura Wilson, Miss Postal Alliance, 1980; Mrs. Delmus Terry, first runner - up and the 1979 Miss Postal Alliance; Ms. Evelyn Braxton, second runner - up and Mrs. Margaret McCarter, third runner - up.

For further enjoyment there were several drawings held much to the delight of the gleeful guests who won a television set, a radio and a polaroid camera.

Special guests attending the affair were: Warren Bloomberg, postmaster; Elmer A. Mack, postal supervisor; Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Wilson, (Mr. Wilson is the president of Local 209, Washington, D.C.) and Eugene Brockington.

Other officials of the Postal Alliance included John W. White, National Alliance of Postal Employees and former Director of Legislation; Clifton Harris, president of Local 202, Baltimore, Md., and James Forbes, social committee chairman.
