Columbia Links observe 5th anniversary

By Pinnie L. Ross

The Columbia chapter of Links Incorporated celebrated its fifth annual anniversary last week. The swanky affair was held at Turf Valley Country Club.

The well dressed members and their guests started to arrive long before five p.m. to enjoy the cocktails served during the hour from five until six p.m., along with a variety of cheeses, wine, and fruits that were served from an old - fashioned barrel.

At 6:45 a line started to form for the hot, delicious hors d'oeuvres served buffet style. They had a choice of roast beef, meat balls, chicken or many others. Most of them took the combination followed by coffee and cake.

The Links' newly elected president is charming Mrs. Lula Wade, a Baltimore City school teacher, who came forward and made the guests aware of the contributions and services the chapter had rendered over the past five years.

The organization is committed to educational, cultural, and civic activities. The club members kept their commitment. They have made contributions to the Negro College 2 Fund, NAACP special Mississippi fund, Howard County Meals on Wheels, Christmas Clearing House, Howard Community General Hospital, Neighborhood Action Council, Commission on Aging, victims of household fires, Miss Talented Teen Maryland, Summer Camp for Needy, Kidney Foundation, Black Family Life, Community Forum on South Africa and Life Membership in the NAACP.

These many contributions gave testimony to the attentively listening guests that the Columbia chapter is a group of ladies geared for action, a group of educated ladies who have fulfilled the goals in each of the organization's four program facets, international trends and services, national trends and services, service to youth, and the arts.

Mrs. Wade called the Columbia founders of the chapter and past presidents to step forward. She presented each with a silver bowl.

The past presidents are, Celonia Waden, founder and first president of the chapter; Charlene Jarvis, Dr. Zola Boone and Roberta Briscoe. They were asked to remain standing while the incoming officers joined them.

Incoming officers are: Dr. Sandra Noel Smith, first vice president; Dr. Ozella Webb, financial secretary; Maxzine Pierce, recording secretary; Lus Maria Webster, corresponding secretary; Suzanne Price, treasurer.

Each member was presented a long stemmed white rose, a symbol of the Links.

It was a fantastic affair. The members and their guests danced thoughout the evening to the fabulous sounds of Baltimore's own Purnell Williams on his Hammond Organ along with his 3 piece trio.

The Columbia chapter of the Links Inc. was installed in the National Chapter on June 2, 1975. It was chartered with 23 members.

The Links' newly elected president is the wife of Columbia post office supervisor, William Wade Sr. and proud mother of two sons —William Jr. who is a navigator stationed in Virginia; and young Michael Wade a 1980 gradute of Wilde Lake High School, who is a recipient of a full basketball scholarship at American University, Washington, D.C.

The club congratulates young Wade on his accomplishment.

Twins celebrate 88th birthday

OCTOGENARIAN TWINS Sarah and Mary Henson smile pleasantly during their 88th birthday celebration held recently at the home of Miss Mary Henson, 900 block Whatcoat St.

Recently Mary and Sarah Henson of Baltimore, celebrated their 88th birthday at a party hosted for them by Mrs. Myrtle Jackson of Whatcoat St. and Mrs. Consela Keene at Miss Mary Henson's home.

Party fare consisted of cake, punch, and ice cream. The sisters received many lovely gifts and cards and money from the family.

Born April 8, 1892 in Smithville, Maryland in Dorchester County on the Eastern Shore, the twins migrated to Baltimore during their teenage years. They have remained here ever since.

They are members of St. John A.M.E. Church, 810 Carrollton Ave.

In attendance at their octogenarian celebration were Ronald Jackson, cousin; Sophie Henson, sister, age 80; Elizabeth Henson, niece; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Henson, nephew and niece-in-law, Mrs. Arretta Dunnock, cousin; Mrs. Patricia Cox and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Keene. The twins are themselves great-nieces of Harriett Tubman.

DR. SHARON HUDSON

Dr. Sharon C. Hudson of this city received her degree in veterinary medicine from Tuskegee Institute in Tuskegee, Ala. in May, 1980

Dr. Hudson also received her bachelor of science degree in animal and poultry science from Tuskegee.

She has the added distinction of having had her biography published in the National Dean's List.

Dr. Hudson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hudson, also of Baltimore.

She is affiliated with the American Veterinary Medical Association and the American Animal Hospital Association.

Her plans are to pursue a career in small animal medicine.

BRENDA M. VALENTINE

Brenda M. Valentine, daughter of Lawrence and Martha Valentine of Baltimore, graduated from Brandeis University in May, 1980 with high honors in African-Afro American Studies and Politics.

Her address was one of the highlights of the commencement exercises at Brandeis.

As Dr. Maurice Stein stated, "Everyone here at the university should have heard - her address.

Miss Valentine received many awards while attending Brandeis, among them being "The Sidney Farber Award for Excellence."

She now resides in Baltimore.

GLORIA RICHARDSON MARROW

Mrs. Gloria Richardson-Marrow has recently been elected the vice-chairwoman of the St. Charles of Borromeo Education Council. St. Charles is a Roman Catholic Parish located in Pikesville, Maryland. The council's emphasis is on Catholic education, from a religious posture.

Mrs. Marrow, the daughter of the late Mrs. Hattie W. Richardson, is also the chairwoman of the Social Studies Curriculum Advisory Council, vice president of the Brokside Manor Community Association and secretary of the Phi Alpha Theta International Historical Honor Society.

Assitionally, she is the department head of social studies at Greenspring Jr. High School. She recently received an award for outstanding service to the Office of Social, during the Malcolm Johnson Scholarship Benefit Dinner-Dance held at Blue Crest North.

A nineteen year Golden Life Member of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., she has served as the Baltimore Alumnae Chapter's second vice-president, '73-'74; and recently chaired the Youths' Exhibit subcommittee of the Public Events Committee, headed by Dr. Beryl Williams, in which a splendid Youths' Exhibit was displayed during the Delta's 1980 Eastern Regional.

She is also a member of the Baltimore City Branch of the NAACP; the Kappa Silhouettes, Calvert Hall College Parents' Club; and a host of other organizations.

Her husband, James H. Marrow, is a financial aide officer at C.C.B.

In the fall, she, along with her husband, will work on her Ph.D. degree out of Nova University.
