STEPHANIE TAYLOR CREATION — Andrea Higgins, model who aired fashions during the 'Monte Carlo Night' cancer benefit held July 19 at Martin's Champagne Room, shows off one of Ms. Taylor's designs suitable for afternoon or after 5. Ms. Taylor designed all of the fashions for that segment of the affair.

A LUCKY TOSS? — Edward Simmons tosses the dice for a win during the 'Monte Carlo Night' sponsored by the Park Heights - Forest Park Unit to benefit The American Cancer Society.

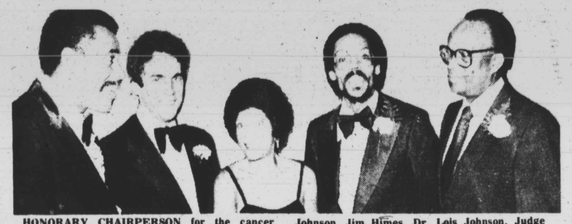
On Saturday, July 19, the Park Heights - Forest Park Unit of the American Cancer Sciety held its major fund raising event of the year 'Monte Carlo Night'. This gala affair was held at Martin's Champagne Room, 2701 Patapsco Avenue.

There was gambling for those who enjoyed taking chances, dancing to the music of Bill Cummings, a fashion extravaganza by Stephanie Taylor Designs and the highlight of the vening — an auction of prizes donated by various businesses and citizens in the community.

Among the prizes sold to the highest bidders were two original paintings that were purchased from the Watergate Art Gallery in Washington, D.C. and donated by Irving Settleman, Esquire, of the Law Firm of Rochlin and Settleman, P.A.

Ron Carolina, Regional Manager for Seagrams Distributors, contributed several prizes, one of which was a beautiful wicker picnic basket filled with various liquors.

A black mink hat by Kent Fisher Furs, a weekend for two at the Hilton Hotel, other art works, sculptures, dinners for two at exclusive area restaurants, services by doctors, dentists, and attorneys were some of the other prizes.



HONORARY CHAIRPERSON for the cancer benfeit fundraiser are (L to R): Dr. Eugene H. Johnson, Jim Himes, Dr. Lois Johnson, Judge Robert M. Bell and Leon Bridges.

Adding to the success of the event was the presence of the honorary chairpersons who worked diligently to insure a successful evening.

They included the Honorable Robert M. Bell, who in his usual style gave 100 percent participation; Dr. Archie Robinson, chief of surgery at Provident Hospital and an active supporter in the fight against cancer; Jim Himes, Esquire, a dashing young attorney for the Rouse Company; Mrs. Christine Sarbanes, a crusader for good causes and the wife of Senator Paul Sarbanes; Drs. Several representatives were present on behalf of the Maryland Division of the American Cancer Society.

All officers and members of the Park Heights - Forest Park Unit are volunteers that work continuously in the areas of patient services, educational programs, and special events such as Monte Carlo Night.

Regional Action Committee holds Awards Fundraiser

By Pattie Hodges, AFRO Staff Writer

The first Regional Action Committee (RAC) fundraiser held at the Gatsby, July 20, was elegant and fun, but it was also serious — with much food for thought for the many guests on hand.

At the door ladies who attended were presented with long-stemmed pink or red carnations.

Inside there was much action as guests did their latest disco steps, sipped cocktails, chatted, and feasted on the second level at a delicious cheese and fruit bar.

The RAC theme, "Moving together in unity in the Black Community," is what RAC is all about.

It is a political and community group which was formed in 1978 for the purpose of trying to articulate the concerns and needs of black people in Baltimore in political issues such as economic development, education, housing, health, and the criminal justice system, and to try to bring blacks in a city which is 50 percent black into positions of decision making.

The group's officers are Leonard T. Jackson, chairperson; Harry C.R. Williams III, secretary and Linwood Powell, treasurer.

Other members are Michael Valentine, Gerald Manning, Ernie Hammond, Clarence Davis and John Clark.

Bob Cheeks, director of the Welfare Rights Organization, and one of the leaders of the rent control issue was given RAC's first annual Black Leadership Award, for his efforts on behalf of Baltimore's black population.

In addition RAC donated $200 to further the work of Bob Cheeks.

Others receiving plaques of appreciation were City Council Vice President Clarence "Du" Burns, for his concern about black advancement and Rep. Parren J. Mitchell, for his untiring efforts in the interests of black people. These plaques were RAC's 'Unity of Purpose' awards.

Burns stated, in accepting his award, "I hope this dispenses the myth that P.J. and "Du" and East Baltimore and West Baltimore can't get together. "Politics is no good unless it benefits everybody."

Mitchell, in accepting his award, said of coming together: "We have no choice. The new game plan to keep blacks poor and unemployed is not only political and economical, it is psychological and social." "We have to look at the whole mosaic, not just a piece of it."

Among those attending were: Betty Dowdy, Dr. Beryl Williams and Barbara Cooper, of the NAACP; politicians Kwiesi Mfume, Walter Dean, John Douglass, Nathaniel McFadden; Also, Tony Robinson, attorney; John Carr, Clarence Davis, Mike Valentine and Gerald Manning.

Stevens Family Reunion reunites five generations

By Pattie Hodges, AFRO Staff Writer

The Stevens Family Reunion, held at the Ramada Inn, Security Boulevard on July 19 and 20, was a memorable and gala affair.

Nearly 200 family members spanning five generations attended. Among them were Mrs. Mary Norris, of Asheville, North Carolina, (the oldest) and Mrs. Viola Witherspoon of Baltimore (the youngest) of the eight living sisters and brothers of the nucleus family of the late patriarch and matriarch, Johnson and Lucy Bell (Young) Stevens of Whitmyers, S.C.

From these roots many families sprang up into a tree which now bears the fruit of 70 grandchildren, 186 great grandchildren, 27 great - great grandchildren and one great - great - great grandchild.

The festivities began Saturday at a breakfast with Mrs. Ethel Robinson (family daughter) of the 2600 block of Harlem Ave., and a tour of the city which included visits to Harbor Place, the World Trade Center and the Convention Center.

This was followed by an elaborate bull roast given by Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Witherspoon of the 2600 block of Allendale Road.

Later at a hospitality party given at the Ramada Inn, family members and their guests enjoyed hot and cold hors d'oeuvres and cocktails and other beverages, with music provided by Louis Jeter, a family grandson and professional disc jockey.

On Sunday, the day began with religious services, during which the Rev. Henry Stevens, a family son, presided. This was followed by a coffee and tea time with Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Potillo of the 1000 block of Cooks Lane at 1 p.m.

Later the family had their sit down dinner in the Banquet Room at Ramada Inn.

The welcome was given by Mrs. Masalina Robinson (granddaughter - in - law), followed by the invocation by the Rev. Stevens, who also gave the benediction.

Blessing of the table was by Annie Roseborough, and as the family enjoyed a sumptuous dinner, they were favored with selections by Judith Mears, family friend and the introduction of the Baltimore Committee for the reunion by Margaret Robinson (granddaughter - in - law.)
