The Rev. Lloyd V. George celebrated his tenth anniversary as pastor of Saint Mary The Virgin July 27, when more than 200 relatives, friends and members of the church spent an evening with him.

The affair was held in the great hall of the church at 3121 Walbrook Ave., followed by the 1 p.m. mass. Mrs. Jennie M. Jenkins, chairperson of the affair and a longtime member of the church stated, "I truly hope that a symbol of our love and gratitude has been relayed to Father George. The inspirations and impact that he has made in the past ten years will be lasting ones. Our lives ave been enriched by his dedication, guidance, patience and willingness to help us, our relative and our friends, in any way."

The theme for the affair was Ten Years of Commitment and Togetherness. Instead of a guest speaker, there were musical selections, a dramatic reading, a special salute to the honoree, an original poem by Miss Margaret Waters cited by Miss Leigh Golden and an acrostic read Mr s. Gertrude Steele, an active member of Wayland Baptist Church and a friend of Rev. George.

The occasion was given by Samuel Wilson and musical selections by Mrs. Elizabeth Davenport and Granville Wright. A recap of the minister's 10 years at Saint Mary The Virgin was read by Mrs. Ruth Braxton.

Mrs. Mary W. Miller gave a dramatic reading and the presentation of gifts from organizations in the church was by Mrs. Jenkins. Alvin Steele, also a member of Wayland Baptist and a friend of the minister gave a special salute to the honoree.

The invocation was by the Rev. Peter Bramble and benediction by the Rev. Linwood Garrington. Rev. George is the thirteenth priest to serve the parish of St. Mary the Virgin in over 100 years.

Born in Georgetown, Guyana, South America he served as a priest in England, Barbados, the Bahamas and Jamaica where he met and married the former Miss Emmeline Scott of Hanover.

Since he has served as pastor of the church, new organizations and committees have been established to enrich the life and work of the church. They include the Stewardship Committee, The Church Women of Saint Mary's, The Social Action Committee and The Visting Committee.

He also established Camp Friendship, a daily vacation Bible school for children 6 to 14 years - old that provided a successful camp experience for children where religious instruction, field trips, arts and crafts and singing and dancing were enjoyed.

Rev. George serves as president of the Board of Trustees for the Saint Stephens Court Apartments and participates on numerous civic and community activities.

Committee members were Mesdames William Waters, Ruth Braxton, Eva Brown, Jeanette Bruce, Dorothy Counts, Elizabeth Davenport, Rosamond Diggs, Valerie Gladden.

MRS JENNIE M. JENKINS, an activesmember of The Church of Saint Mary The Virgin was the chairman for the Tenth anniversaryscelebration of the Rev. Lloyd V. George, pastor of the church.

Gospel group sings at annual national quartet convention

The 34th annual session of the National Quartet Convention of the World Interdenominational Inc., will be held Aug. 10-17 at the Hilton Hotel downtown.

More than 100 gospel groups and quartets will be singing. The Rev. R. H. Harris of Chicago is the national president and Mrs. Catherine Green, a member of New Testament Baptist Church is the national supervisor and state president.

The National Quartet Convention was organized in 1946 in Chicago with 13 members. Today, there are more than 1,000 members. Among local groups singing at the convention will be the South Land Singers, Leach Family, Maryland Singers and the Greene Sisters.

Other groups scheduled to arrive in Baltimore Sunday are Mattie Johnson and the Stars of Faith, Washington, D. C.; Memphis Harmonizers, Memphis Tennessee; Echoes of Zion, Houston, Texas; Bossie and The Forever Bound Gospel Singers from Chicago.

The theme for the convention is "Contemporary Man Facing An Unchanging God." Sunday's program will include workshops and murionls. Mayor William Schaefer will welcome the guests to the city on 7:30 p.m.

"Please Be Patient With Me, God Is Not Through With Me Yet," is the theme for the youth of the National Quartet Convention. The Rev. Dexter Wise will be preaching Aug. 12, 7 p.m.

All visiting groups, soloists and quartets will be singing 7:30 p.m. Aug. 16 and Services will be held Aug. 17, 3:30 p.m. at New Testament Baptist Church, 1624 Baltimore St., where the Rev. Mrs. Edna Isaac is pastor.

Other officers are Marcel Wright, state vice president; Mrs. Virginia Brown, chairlady Women's Usher Board, Miss Paulette Roberts, state secretary; Mrs. Joyce Sanders, National secretary, the Rev. Mildred Bieard.

Speaking of the convention, Rev. Harris stated, "Freedom is one of the most priceless gifts that God has placed in the reach of man. With it man can climb to the highest heights. Without it man will be only a little higher than the animals.

"It is so priceless that it should be cherished and held sacred. At the present, the world is facing the worst crisis in its history. There is such an air of uncertainty, fear and doubt pervading the atmosphere that the very foundation of the basic principles of society is shaken. We are facing a changing trend that is giving us the greatest challenge of the time. The church, I believe, is hardest hit. The atheists and the unbelievers are posing questions that are shaking the very tents of the church and trying hard to undermind the bulwark of the Christian faith."

NATIONAL PRESIDENT — The Rev. Reba Harris will be speaking this week at the national quartet convention at the Hilton Hotel.

Rev. Jerome Moody is first black redemptorist pastor in U.S.

By Linda Taggart

The Rev. Jerome Moody, CSSR, associate pastor of St. James and St. John Parish, was appointed pastor and rector of the religious community at the East Baltimore parish at 1225 Eager St., making him the first black Redemptorist pastor in this country and only the second black in the Baltimore archdiocese.

The Rev. Moody, who came to the parish six years ago as his first assignment, replaces former pastor the Rev. Carl W. Hoegrel, CSSR, who has been called to Rome by the Redemptorist Superior General to develop and implement formation programs for Redemptorist formation directors.

Rev. Moody's appointment is for three years and was approved by Archbishop Borders. Born in St. Thomas, Virgin Islands on Dec. 17, 1946, he attended St. Peter and Paul Elementary School there and the Redemptorist minor seminary in Northeast, Pa.

He received a degree in philosophy from St. Alphonsus College in Suffield, Conn. and studied theology at the Redemptorist theologate, Mount St. Alphonsus, in Esopus, N.Y. He has master's degrees in religious education and divinity.

He was ordained on June 25, 1973 and a year later appointed associate at the St. James and St. John.

As pastor of the oldest Redemptorist parish in continuous use in the country, the young redemptorist will not only be responsible for the spiritual and social needs of some 300 families, but is responsible for the parish buildings and properties that include the church, hall, rectory, St. John hall on Valley and Eager Streets and Holy Redeemer Cemetery, Moravia Blvd. and Belair Road.

A member of the archdiocesan Urban Commission, Rev. Moody is the former president of the Johnston Square Community Association, fiscal affairs officer for the Queen of Peace Cluster School and a member of the State Council of Clergy, an advisory-liaison group of religious community leaders and officals of the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, trying to expand religious and state services to state mental hospitals.

MRS. CATHERINE GREENE is the national supervisor and state president of the National Quartelle Convention. She is also an active member of New Testament Baptist Church, where the Rev. Mrs. Edna Isaac is pastor.

Under professional studies, Preaching Practicum will be offered. In pastoral studies the school of theology will present courses entitled Principles of Pastoral Care, Foundations and Approaches in Religious Education, Canon Law of Marriage, Contemporary Parish, Transactional Analysis, an approach to Group Dynamics, Marriage Counseling, Elements of Christian Worship and Liturgical and Sacramental Celebration.

Registration deadline for the courses will be Sept. 2. For additional information call 323-3200.

A REVIEW:

Blacks in the Bible

By Jerry Turner

Dr. F.S. Rhoades, a Virginia scholar, has written a book entitled "Black Characters and References of the Holy Bible" to prove the statement that black people should be proud of their heritage because God was, God is, and God will be God of black people."

The book published by Vantage Press ($6.95) seeks to change the attitude of many blacks who "look upon Christianity as a white man's religion, according to its author who is the pastor of Grove Baptist Church in Portsmouth and part-time professor of philosophy at Old Dominion University.

While attending Virginia Union University's School of Theology, Dr. Rhoades took a special interest in the historical relationship of God to black people.

He mastered Greek and studied Hebrew in order to understand biblical references to blacks made in those languages. His study of Greek and Hebrew continued through his studies in the Doctor of Ministry program at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond.

It was then that Dr. Rhoades discovered that man, and not God, had been responsible for the second - class - citizen status forced upon so many generations of black people, according to Dr. Rhoades. And he set about to inform the public of the "truth," he said.

Dr. F. S. Rhodes

Dr. Rhoades said he wrote the book as a Biblical reference "designed to increase the knowledge of blacks and whites, Christian and Jews—of the prophets and apostles who spoke of black persons and black nations."

The book presents the prophets and citations in chronological order, beginning with the Old Testament, and continuing on into the New Testament and the apostles.

So claims Dr. Rhoades. "We are given proof here that a good number of prophets, rulers, and leaders of the ancient lands and peoples mentioned in the Bible were black."

Some people really don't care who was black in biblical text; others say Christianity has no color. Regardless, some changes have been appearing on the religious scene recently.

The New Testament, written from a western cultural perspective, indeed limited black participation in Christianity. And it was reflected visibly in their interpretation of what Jesus Christ looked like—a white man with straight hair and blue eyes.

Changes in black people's perception of Christianity are being made because people like Dr. Rhoades are raising questions and also coming up with answers. A reason, perhaps, that recent pictures of Jesus depict a man of curly hair and darker eyes.

Dr. Rhoades' book is good when used with the Bible, but it is worthless to the layman when used alone. The book is not written in a manner in which a reader can be enlightened on black participation in biblical history without consulting with a minister.

Another problem with the book is its patchiness—it does not develop any major idea but instead plunges a reader into a situation, gives him a taste of what's going on and then drops him. The only way the reader can recover some sense of relevancy in a case of this sort is to seek counsel from a minister.

As a testbook on black religious life in the beginning, this book can be tremendously useful. However, as it is now written, the book has little mass appeal. This, of course, should not be taken as a reflection of Dr. Rhoades expertise as a theologian.

Dr. Rhoades uses some 87 characters in the book "Black Characters..." and he gives the locations in the Old and New Testaments where they may be found. He also briefly defines the role each character played in biblical history. Relationship between black charcters however, is never explored in the book. And because of this a feeling of emptiness remains after reading it.

Church ushers hold convention

By Paulette Hammond (Special to the Afro)

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — The National United Church Ushers Association of America, Inc. (NUCUAA) concluded a successful week of activities at the 61st annual convention held recently in Memphis, Tenn.

Some 1,500 church ushers who attended the installation banquet at the Rivermont Holiday Inn on Friday, July 25, honored the outgoing national president, Robert Allen, whose term expired at the end of the convention.

James E. Anderson of Denver, Colo., succeeds Allen as the new national president.

Earlier, at the Thursday night scholarship program, the ushers association honored Mrs. Mabel Grey who retired after 32 years as chairman of the national scholarship and education department.

The convention activities began on Sunday, July 20, with a fashion show and luncheon hosted by the United Church Ushers Federation of Tennessee. Later in the evening, the Tennessee ushers hosted a boat ride along the Mississippi River on the Memphis Queen and a catfish dinner was served during the cruise.

The official opening of the convention began on Monday with the traditional early morning candlelight ceremony, where ushers "rededicate and consecrate themselves to God."

During the opening ceremonies held later in the morning, Congressman Harold Ford, of the 8th District in Memphis, welcomed the ushers and received an astounding applause when he proclaimed July 21 as "Ushers Day in Memphis, Tenn." After delivering his welcoming address, Ford took a moment to shake hands with some of the ministers, officers and ushers before dashing off to catch a flight back to Washington.

The delegates also received welcoming remarks from the Rev. P. L. Rowe, pastor, First Baptist Church, Chelsea, and administrative assistant to Wyatt Chandler, mayor of Memphis.

Later in the day, the public relations committee under the chairmanship of Alma Hawkins of Wash., D.C., hosted its 5th annual program and luncheon in honor of the "Golden Age Ushers," ushers who are 60 years of age and older.

Special recognition was given to 88 - year - old Henry Walton of Pine Bluff, Ark., as the oldest usher attending the convention.

Approximately 800 interdenominational churches in about 23 states are members of NUCUAA. Alaska and Atlanta, were welcomed to the national organization at the convention.

The George T. Grier School of Ushering held its program on Wednesday featuring state competition on ushering techniques performed by drill teams. First place winners were: Illinois for the Junior Depart.; California for the Young Adult Dept., and Ohio for the Senior Dept.

The education and scholarship department, which held its annual awards program on Thursday evening, named Toni Jones of Detroit, Mich., as the first place winner of a $2,000 scholarship award. Jones, 15, is an 11th grader at Dominican High School.

Stewart Marshall of Baltimore, Md. won the second place scholarship award of $1,600. Marshall, 18, is a graduate of Marshall High School and will attend Morgan State University this fall.

The third place contestant is Linda Taylor of Memphis, Tenn. Ms. Taylor is a graduate of Carver High School and will attend the University of Wisconsin in the fall. She received an award of $1,000.

This year, the education department featured an oratorical contest, and the chosen title used by all three contestants was "Are Christian Churches Losing Their Grip?"

Mrs. Gertrude W. Benefield, was crowned queen of the A.W. Briggs Health Unit. Mrs. Briggs has been an usher for 42 years and has been attending the conventions for the past seven years. A. W. Briggs is the nursing unit of the association.

A member of the Tenth Street Baptist Church, Mrs. Briggs is also president of the nurses unit for her church and has been in this capacity for 25 years.

She is second vice president of the senior usher board, correspondence secretary of the A.W. Briggs Health Unit and second vice president of the president's council of the Interdenominational Church Ushers Association, Inc. of Washington, D.C.

During the week, the delegates made pilgrimage to the Lorraine Motel, to place a wreath at the slaying site of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. They also visited the graveside of Brother R. E. Harshaw, who served as the national president of NUCUAA from 1959 - 1964.

Metropolitan Spiritual elects new president

The Rev. Dr. Logan Kearse, founder and pastor of Cornerstone Church of Christ, 4230 Park Heights Ave., is president of the 200,000 member Metropolitan Spiritual Churches of Christ, Inc., which was led for 37 years by the late Rev. Clarence H. Cobbs of Chicago.

Installation ceremonies for Dr. Kearse were held in his church with the Rev. L. L. Smith, former acting president and the Rev. A. Leonard Fossy, chairman of the board of directors, officiating.

Dr. Kearse began his public ministry at the age of 7 and for many years he traveled and was known as "The boy preacher." Before he was 21, he had preached in Cuba, Jamaica, Canada, Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Puerto Rico, Barbados, Europe, Scandanavia, India and the Middle and Far East.

As chairman of the Foreign Missions Board of the convention, the local pastor has visited Africa many times and is credited with bringing into the Metropolitan organization both Ghanaian and Liberian churches.

For nine years, Dr. Kearse has been a trustee of Stillman College and has appeared on the songs of Faith television show. He says, "It is not going to be easy to follow my brother Clarence Cobbs, but with incredible help from him and so many others and with God as my leader, I will do the best within me to bring the kingdom of God into the hearts of mankind."

SUNDAY SCHOOL BOOTH — Lisa Hughes and Clifton Bryant are shown selling cupcakes at the annual bazaar Aug. 2 sponsored by members of St. Katherine of Alexandria Church. The Rev. Peter Bramble is pastor.

Catholic diocese to get second black priest

The Rev. Lloyd F. Stephenson, a native Virginian, will become the second black priest in the Catholic diocese of Richmond when he is ordained Saturday, Aug. 16, at the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart in Richmond.

Stephenson, 26, of Hampton will be one of four men to be ordained by Bishop Walter F. Sullivan during a special 11 a.m. mass.

Others to be ordained are the Rev. Joseph P. Lehman 3rd, the Rev. Russell E. Smith and the Rev. Charles Faul.

Stephenson said that he realizes that because he is only the second black priest in the Catholic diocese of Richmond he will be subject to a lot of attention and responsibility, but is looking forward to it.

"I see my role as a liberating force for the black and Catholic communities," said Stephenson.

Father Walter Barrett, pastor of St. Gerard's Parish in Roanoke, was the first black priest to join the diocese.

Stephenson attended Peninsula Catholic High School for two years before entering St. John Vianney Preparatory Seminary in Richmond, where he graduated from in 1972.

Stephenson attended the University of Maryland, the Baltimore School of Ballet and St. Mary's Seminary College in Baltimore, earning a

He then went to the University of St. Thomas Aquinas, North American College, Rome, where he received a bachelor's degree in Sacramental Theology.

He spent two summers working with the predominantly black Holy Rosary Parish in Richmond, and another year at St. Ambrose in Baltimore, where he taught school. Stephenson also worked in the Pediatrics and Child Abuse Clinic and the Drug Abuse Clinic while in Baltimore. He was active in lobbying for welfare legislation in Baltimore.

Stephenson also worked with St. Gerard's Parish, a predominantly black parish in Roanoke, and St. Mary's Church in Norfolk.

Stephenson, who speaks Italian fluently was ordained a deacon while in

MINISTER OF COMMUNICATION — The Rev. Mrs. Debyll Sababu minister of Bethel AME Church, Druid Hill Avenue and Lanvale Street, was the 11 a.m. speaker at Bethel Aug. 3. Her theme was "Spiritual Broadcast." For two years, she has been the radio gospel commentator for WEAA. Her husband is the Rev. Michael Thomas, who is now studying theology. Rev. Thomas will be attending Harvard University in the fall.
