Baltimore's first 'Ms. Career Woman' crowned

AFRO Photos by Mark Gail

The first annual 'Ms. Pageant for Career Women' to be held in Baltimore took place at the Convention Center, Pratt and Sharp Sts., Sunday, August 2.

Over 500 people gathered there to see who Baltimore's first 'Ms. Career Woman - 1980' would be.

The theme of the pageant, sponsored by Continental Productions, was "The Career Woman Facing the Challenge of a New Decade."

The 21 contestants vying for the title had careers in business, the fashion world, nursing and law, or were college students preparing for careers.

They were Stephanie R. Anderson, Robin S. Brown, Rhonda Y. Briscoe, Augustine DeGrace, Arnetta Frierson, Lolita Gee, Jacqueline H. Greene, Sharon Gross;

Also Gwendolyn A. Hicks, Cynthia S. Howard, Augustine Lemon, Judith A. Mason, Pauline E. McKay, Sheritha McKenzie, Marva N. Rigsby;

Also Adrienne E. Shade, Cynthia D. Shelton, Verna Jones-Shipman, Andrea D. Teague, Shirley Rene Tyson, Georgiana P. Wilson and Linda Wilson.

Gordon Baker, director of the Webster M. Kendricks Recreation Center, 4130 Callaway Ave., gave the invocation.

The opening act of the pageant was a stirring modern - interpretive dance to "Going Up Yonder", done by Ava Fields, directress and choreographer of the Inner City Dancers and the Ms. Pageant, who also had choreographed all dances done by the 'Miss Inner City Teen' pageant participants.

The purpose and theme of the pageant were given by Melodye Hardy. The purpose of the Ms. Pageant was to present to the Baltimore metropolitan area a select group of young ladies, aged 21 and above, who are actively engaged in the work world or in scholastic society a chance to highlight their accomplishments, ambitions and motivational inspirations.

Contestants were introduced and, clad in swirly dresses of green, red or beige, did a lively opening dance.

Ms. Delores G. Brown, pageant coordinator, introduced the main emcee for the evening, Artartus Jenkins, pageant production director and Jean H. Ross, of WCAO and V103 Radio.

They presented the pageant judges Attorney Georgia Goslee, Normand A. Pelissier, pharmacist; L. Kim Bunch, Statistical assistant for the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) and Betty Delores King, principal of the Faulkner Ridge Elementary School, Columbia, Md.

Following the swimsuit competition, which was included to show poise and grace of the contestants, Brenda Alford, local Baltimore songstress, sang "These Are a Few of My Favorite Things."

Lambda Kappa Mu Conclave

Iota Chapter wins awards

By Pattie Hodges
AFRO Staff Writer

Lambda Kappa Mu Sororoity, Inc. recently held its annual conclave in Culver City, Calif. Theme of the conclave was "Unifying to Cope with Realities of Society Through Invovement in Community Service."

Baltimore's Iota Chapter was well represented at the conclave and garnered many awards while there. Among them were 'Group of the Year Award', 'Group Presentation Award' (their theme was Teenage Pregnancy and Abortion) and the 'Miss Kopelle 80-81' Award, which went to Vanessa Williams, a Western High graduate. Kopelles are young ladies, comprising the youth group of the sorority.

Highlights of the conclave included a welcome party hosted by the Alpha Beta Chapter Kopelles; business meetings, and workshops. Workshops dealt with the topics of 'Responsible Teen Sexuality', 'Women and the Draft' and 'Abortion and Teenage Pregnancy.'

Social activites included a "Meet Your Date Dance,' a semi-formal dance, the crowning of Miss Kopelle and a youth luncheon, the theme of which was 'Checking Your Personality.'

Those attending the conclave were alo able to take tours of Hollywood, Beverly Hills, the Hollywood Bowl, Groman's Chinese Theater and NBC Studio's 'Wheel of Fortune' set.

Family Reunion

The first Nunnally-Scott, Nunnally-Shadrack, Roberts-Carter, Woodson-Giles Family Reunion was held July 5 at the Southside Community Pavilion, Hooper's Park, in Crewe, Va.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Arthur Shields of Baltimore.

The family enjoyed a picnic from 1 until 6 p.m., during which there was much fun getting reacquainted, meeting new additions to the four branches of the family, eating and playing games.

Following the picnic there was a social hour held at the Burkeville Community Center, during which there was more delicious food, drinks and lots of disco dancing.

The patriarch and matriarch of Nunnally-Scott, Nunnally-Shadack branches of the family were the late Edward and Victoria Scott Nunnally, of Prince Edward County, Va.

Patriarch and matriarch of the Roberts-Carter branch were the late Spencer and Lydia Carter Roberts, of the same Virginia county.

Patriarch and matriarch of the Woodson-Giles branch, also of Virginia, were the late James and Jenny Giles Woodson.

The 200 relatives, respresenting 6 generations of each family branch, traveled from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, Washington, D.C. and the Carolinas.

Organizer of the reunion was Mrs. Margaret Woodson Love of Silver Spring, Md. She stated that the reunion was "Trully a dream come true."

The 1981 family reunion is being planned.
