THE LIVING CHURCH

St. Peter Claver celebrates 92nd anniversary

For 92 years, St. Peter Claver Catholic Church, 1546 Fremont Ave., has been a powerful influence on the religious and material life of the people of West Baltimore and throughout the city.

Members and friends of St. Peter Claver will celebrate the 92nd anniversary of their church Sept. 5. The celebration will be highlighted by a dinner-dance at Martin's West from 7 p.m. to midnight. Tickets for the dance are $20.00 per person and you may purchase a table of 10 with the name of your church or organization on it.

There will be no speeches, just continuous music by the Rockets of Rhythm and Riley's Disco plus all you can eat and drink. A special mass will be held at the church Sept. 7, 12:45 p.m. with the youth gospel choir and adult choir singing. The Rev. Wayne E. Wigglesworth is pastor.

The dance is part of an over all fund raising campaign to supplement and expand the activities of the parish. St. Peter parish school, which is now the lower third of the Charles Hall Cluster School, has been the fulcrum, the starting point which launched many black Baltimoreans on their way to productive and rewarding careers, even into the ministry.

The church plans to expand the school to include evening classes for adults, young and old, who need a second chance to help themselves out of the depths of poverty.

The out-reach program, senior citizen clubs, sessions with alcoholics anonymous and the staff of lay ministers, who visit the sick make a viable and continually expanding asset in the community.

St. Peter Claver Church has been staffed by the Josephite Fathers and Franciscan Sisters since the beginning. On Sept. 9, 1888, 1,500 people joined in a march to show their support to the infant parish.

The need for the parish was obvious. The work was missionary. The response was tremendous. By 1901, the parish boasted of 7,000 people and drew the attention and admiration of the hierarchy of the Archdiocese of strument of peace through worship, teaching and service in the community. St. Peter Claver is proud of its leadership in liturgical revival and the ecuteriglious movement of the fifties and sixties. This was the period when men and women, leaders in the faith and in the community, were becoming visible.

The "seventies brought much new hope to the parish. The ordination and first mass of its favorite son, Rev. Maurice Blackwell; the ordination to the deaconate of John Briscoe, ordination of Rev. Steve Brett, the formation of a dedicated annual Women's Day program, the organization of the youth and gospel choirs and the support of the new clustered school concept. St. Peter Claver looks to the past with gratitude and to the future with hope and determination.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS who are making plans for the 92nd anniversary celebration of St. Peter Claver Church shown in front of the Church (from L) are: Warren Nixon, Mrs. Catherine Woodland, Robert Dorsey and the Rev. Wayne Wigglesworth, pastor.

4. Votes will be tabulated and posted in the AFRO.

5. Participants agree to the use of their names and photos for publicity purposes.

6. The AFRO-AMERICAN reserves all rights covering the contest and interpretation of all rules as final.

7. AFRO employees, their immediate families, distributors and agents are not eligible to participate.

8. The 12 contestants with the highest number of votes will be finalists.

St. Katherine of Alexandria has Sunday School picnic

The church school of St. Katherine of Alexandria, Pressman and Division St., is planning a day of fun, food and fellowship for the members of the Sunday School at the home of the superintendent, Mrs. Dorothy Wright, on Aug. 30.

This will culminate a month of door to door recruiting from the church community which began at the Sunday School registration booth at the carnival sponsored by the church and community on Aug. 2.

This also marks the beginning of a new church school year for St. Katherine. The Sunday School staff plans an exciting year which includes registering at least 100 children by Sept. 7. To achieve this goal, block captains were chosen to register children from their immediate neighborhoods who did not have church homes.

The block captains are: Yolanda Holmes, Rodney Bryant, Lisa Hughes, Ellsworth Jackson, Lisa Thomas, Karen Jackson and Tionne Turner. The captains registered 75 children who are planning to attend the picnic.

Local businesses have donated food and funds for the picnic. They are City Food Markets, H and S Bakery, A and P Food Markets, Fenwick Bakery and McDonald's Restaurants.

Sept. 7, has been designated as Church School Sunday when the church school staff and members will host the parents of the Sunday School children at the 10 a.m. service.

Shirrell Evanx and Jacqueline Branch.

"As The Storm Passes Over In My Life," is the name of the new gospel album by Roland Joe Smith and Company.

Smith, known as the "Maestro" is no stranger to gospel music. The group says it is excited about its new album that is now on sale in local record stores.

Roland Joe Smith and Company represents a unique experience in contemporary gospel perfection. The group was formed in 1978 by its present director.

Smith began his musical career at Gillis Memorial Christian Community Church, 4016 Park Heights Ave., where the Rev. Dr. Theodore C. Jackson Jr., is pastor.

He soon became the director, composer and musical arranger of five choirs. His ability to effectively demonstrate his God given talent has afforded him the opportunity to travel extensively, accompanying such gospel greats as the Rev. James Cleveland, the Rev. Isaac Douglas, the late Mahalia Jackson, Clara Ward and more recently Baltimore's own Gospel Leaders and The Tommy Roberts Singers.

He has achieved the reputation of being a polished performer and truly a man of God.

As a result of his Christian journey he has inspired a family of young people to share his gospel train with him.

Roland Joe Smith and Company is a multi-talented gospel family whose sounds are created by the soprano voices of Denise Wade Campbell, Joyce Matthews Hall and Anita Waugh. Altos are Jacqueline Tarrant Branch, Sherrill "Sheila" Evans and Donna M. Wade, " singer is Zazette Wade Dawkins. Tenor musical arranger is Jon G. Graham and Tony Smith.

The musicians are Douglas Cornish, Roland Smith, pianist, organist, composer, lead singer, musical arranger, director and organizer of the group.

Ms. Barbara J. Wattles is the group's manager and published author, poet and writer for the group, who has written two books of inspirational poems.

The group recently participated in the Gospel Music Workshop of America in Philadelphia. The majority of the group represents one of the leading churches in the city, Gillis Memorial Christian Community Church.

2,000 to attend Hariston Family Reunion in Washington

A gathering of approximately 2,000 Hairston family members from most of the United States will converge on the city of Washington, to participate in the seventh annual national Hairston Family meeting August 29, 30 and 31.

Affectionately known as The Hairston Clan, the surnamed family members will be hosted at the three-day meeting by the Washington-Metropolitan chapter.

The gathering will be headquartered at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, with religious service conducted at the Andrew Rankin Memorial Chapel on the campus of Howard University.

Highlighting the schedule of events will be the grand awards banquet, on Aug. 30 5:00 p.m., and will feature the benevolent scholarship awards.

These awards will be bestowed upon those deserving individuals pursuing higher educational goals. Also, there will be the distinguished service, religious service and special service award to be presented to concerned, devoted and courageous citizens.

The Honorable Marion S. Barry, Mayor of Washington, D.C., has been invited to give the welcoming remarks and proclamation: Proclaiming August 30, 1980, as The Hairston Clan Day!

Serving as the master of ceremonies will be Charles R. Pierce, manager of Personnel Development of the J. R. Reynolds Tobacco Coopany, Winston-Salem, N.C. The keynote address will be delivered by Walter Staples Hairston of the law firm of Henry, Hairston and Price, of Easton, Maryland.

On the afternoon of August 30, at 2:00 p.m. there will be a musical concert, featuring the famed international conductor, composer, arranger and lecturer, Jester J. Hairston, as guest conductor, with the renowned United States Air Force Singing Sergeants and Conductor Colonel Arnold D. Gabriel. Admission is free.

On the 29th and 30th of Aug. from 9:30 a.m. to mid-afternoon, continuous sightseeing tours of the city of Tourmobile will be provided.

For the young at heart two nights of disco dancing is offered: Friday from 10:00 p.m. 2:00 a.m. and Saturday from 11:00 p.m. to 2 a.m.

The Memorial Service will be held on Aug. 31, from 1:00 to 2:30 p.m., in the main sanctuary of the Andrew Rankin Memorial Chapel, Howard University, 6th Street and Howard Place, N.W., Washington, D.C.

The coming together of the Hairston Clan is more than a mere reunion. It is a family institution extraordinaire. There is a national board of directors with officers comprised of family regional representatives, a family emblem, a constitution and by-laws, family dues and a unique sense of family pride.

The origin of the Hairston family is rooted inextricably in the slave belt of Virginia and North Carolina, where eight of the nine plantations owned by the Hairstons thrived; the ninth was located in Lowndes County, Mississippi.

Long after the great Civil War, the period of Reconstruction, the Agrarian Revolt and the infamous laws of segregation, the Hairston reunion was organized officially on the second Sunday of August, 1931, at the Rock Hill Baptist Church, in Stokes County, North Carolina. The first organized reunion developed primarily through an attempt to bring about a greater feeling of family solidarity and fellowship.

Progressing slowly through the social and legal barriers of humble, segregated beginnings, Hairstons of both races finally joined together in kinship unity and expanded their historical, sociological and humanitarian horizons, for self, for country and for God.

Lott Carey Baptists to meet in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Five thousand delegates are scheduled to meet here Sept. 1-5 at the 83rd annual session of the Lott Carey Baptist Foreign Mission Convention. Convention headquarters will be at Sheraton Hotel, 50 N. Third St., with the Metropolitan Baptist Church, 955 Oak St., the Rev. Robert A. Myers, serving as hosts.

This year's meeting will be addressed by the Rev. Ben Chavis, North Carolina activist of Wilmington Ten fame.

According to Dr. W. C. Somerville of Washington, D.C., the organization's executive secretary, more than 250 black churches have contributed over $1,000 each to credit Lott Carey with over $700,000, the largest amount in its history. More than 80 percent of funds collected have been spent for foreign missions. Somerville will give a report on the convention's work in Liberia where there was an insurrection when President Talbert, a Baptist preacher, was murdered. Dr. Bernard Benson, who directs the mission work there, will also be heard. Liberia is Lott Carey's chief foreign mission station.

The convention will also decide on plans for a national shrine to Lott Carey in Chase City, Va. Chase City is the home of Lott Carey, a black slave, who bought his freedom from the sale of tobacco and went to Liberia to set up a colony of free men.

The Rev. George L. Bowick, pastor of Rodman Street Baptist Church, Pittsburgh, newly elected president of Lott Carey, will deliver his first address to the organization on Wednesday evening at Sheraton.

Meeting jointly with the parent body will be the Women's Auxiliary headed by Miss Helen Benton of Baltimore, the Laymen's League presided over by John W. McQueen of Fayetteville, N.C.; and the Youth Division led by Miss Carolyn Pope, supervised by Miss Mary B. Hendrick of Washington and Mrs. Doris Robinson Griffin of Norfolk, mother of Max Robinson, anchorman for ABC-TV.

Mission education studies, led by Mrs. J. B. McLester of Durham, N.C. will begin on Tuesday. Instructors include Dr. James A. scott of Newark, N.J.; the Rev. E. A. Parham of Columbus; Mrs. Doris Griffin, Dr. Priscilla Brodie of Raleigh, N.C.; Dr. Beverly Bruce of Washington, and Mrs. Nettie Gaither of McKeesport, Pa.

The convention will open Tuesday evening at 7:15 with the Laymen's League when President John McQueen will deliver his annual address.

This year's family of the year is the William M. Parham Jr. unit of Columbus who will receive the annual award presented on Friday afternoon. The Rev. Isaac James of Richmond, is to lead an inspirational service on Monday morning at 9:30 when local pastors are to participate.

Listed among others programmed for the week are the Rev. William Beverly of Washington, the Rev. H. W. Washington of Richmond; Dr. E. C. Kent of Richmond, the Rev. Leroy Fitts, editor of the Herald, Baltimore, Md.; the Rev. James L. Cherry of Philadelphia; the Rev. Mack Walton of Clarksville, Pa.; Dr. Samuel Austin of Brooklyn, N.Y.; City Councilman Clyde Johnson of Petersburg, Va.; Dr. F. Benjamin Davis of Indianapolis, Ind., who is to preach the annual sermon.

Also, Mrs. M. L. Boone of Suffolk, Va.; Mrs. Louise Slater, executive secretary of the Women's Auxiliary, Washington; Dr. M. A. Horne of Winston-Salem, N.C.; chairman of the Women's Department Executive Board; Mrs. Y. H. Williams of Richmond; Mrs. Joyce Gray of Washington; Mrs. Odella Welch of the mayor's office in Columbus; Dr. David Shannon, president, Virginia Union University, Richmond; the Rev. Henry C. Gregory 3d, of Washington; the Rev. M. T. Fleming of Richmond; the Rev. James A. Scott of Newark.

Washington artists join workshop

Gospel and concert artists from the Washington metropolitan area will join artists from several other states scheduled to participate in a National Gospel Symposium being held in the District August 28 to 30. States participating include Tennessee, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina.

Representatives from each state will perform and compete in the 23rd annual national gospel symposium competition which will be held at the Zion Baptist Church, 4630 Baldwin Avenue, N.W., on Sunday Aug. 31, 1980.

Winners in their respective division will be presented with the annual Mahalia Jackson and Mary Hamilton Kindrix memorial awards for best gospel group, gospel and concert soloist, etc.

Special guest of honor will be Dr. W. Herbert Brewster of Memphis, Tenn. He is said to be one of the most brilliant gospel songwriters in America. He has written over 200 gospel songs including "Move Up a Little Higher," "Surely God Is Able," "Just Over The Hill," "Now I Got Over,".

Dr. Brewster is also a noted civil rights leader. He has written and composed pageant plays reflecting historical experiences of the black struggle, including his play, "From Auction Block to Glory".

The Symposium of gospel music will present the Mahalia Jackson best gospel songwriter award to Dr. Brewster for his contribution to gospel music. A special tribute will be paid to him in music by Cosmopolitan Male Choir of Washington and a 50 - voice mass Symposium Chorus comprised of singers from seven states.

Dr. Brewster will direct the 20th Annual National Gospel Symposium on August 29 which will be held at the Potomy United Methodist Church and he will deliver the keynote address Sunday at the Zion Baptist Church during the 11:00 a.m. service. The Rev. Carleton Veazy is minister.
