University Women to meet

The American Association of University Women, (AAUW), Baltimore Branch, will meet Tuesday, Sept. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in Fournier Hall, College of Notre Dame of Maryland, Charles Street at Homeland Avenue.

Barbara K. Spath, director of program for the national organization of AAUW headquartered in Washington, D.C., will speak on "AAUW Today."

Before coming to AAUW in March 1978, Ms. Spath was administrator of the bachelor of individualized study program at George Mason University in Virginia.

Her earlier experience includes serving as acting director of admissions, as director of career services and counselor, and as on campus opportunity coordinator — all at the University of Maine at Fort Kent. She also worked for the Department of Labor in Portland, Maine, on the Maine New Careers Program, and was director of counseling at St. Francis College in Biddeford, Maine.

Ms. Spath received her bachelor's degree in sociology from Notre Dame College, Cleveland, Ohio, her master's degree in counseling psychology from John Carroll University, and is currently a doctoral candidate in adult and continuing education at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

The American Association of University Women is a national organization of women with bachelor or graduate degrees from certified colleges and universities. Interested guests are invited to attend this meeting.

Anyonewho may be interested in membership may obtain information by calling 539-3574.

St. Agnes Hospital offers parenting classes

"Parenting: The First Three Years," a seminar on the art of parenting will be offered by the department of hospital education of St. Agnes Hospital on Tuesday, Sept. 16 from 7 to 9:30 p.m., and again on Thursday, Sept. 18 from 7 to 9:30 p.m., in the St. Agnes Hospital Residence Building Auditorium.

Both one-evening seminars will include discussion on the child's character development and emotional growth through age three; the parent's role during these years; how to structure a household environment to stimulate growth and enrich natural development; family dynamics between parents, brothers and sisters, and grandparents; and the issue of discipline.

To register for the one-night sessions, call St. Agnes Hospital department of hospital education at 383-6466 or 383-6467. There is a $5 per single parent and $8 per couple registration fee. St. Agnes Hospital is located at the corner of Wilkens and Caton Aves.

Diet Workshop offers 'Take-it-off-quick' seminars

The Diet Workshop is offering "Take-it-Off Quick," an eight-week seminar which offers the experienced dieter a new approach to losing weight quickly.

This quick Weight loss course utilizes five structured diet plans and emphasizes behavior modification techniques.

"Take-It-Off Quick" Seminars, which meet weekly, also give the dieter the extra moral support of a small group and sustains each person to become very aware of his "Eating Self."

"Take-It-Off Quick" is a structured eight-week seminar emphasizing diet, discipline and self awareness. A personal journal is kept by the participants and the group size is limited.

For information or to request a registration form, contact the "Take-It-Off Quick" counselor at 235-3200 or write T.I.O., Box 279, Registration, Md., 21136.

SHOWING OFF THE SHOP — Ms. Linda Quick, director of volunteer services at Provident Hospital, recently was taken on a tour of the gift shop by manager, Ms. Rochelle Butler.

Provident Hospital appoints director of volunteer services

Ms. Linda D. Quick has been appointed director of volunteer services, Provident Hospital Inc. The announcement was made recently by Vernon B. Washington, director of personnel.

Ms. Quick joined the Provident staff officially on Feb. 4. Prior to coming to Provident she was employed by the Hecht Company Inc., Baltimore, where she served as a training coordinator instructing new selling and non-selling employees on sale techniques, customer employee relations, security and safety shortage control procedures.

Ms. Quick has also worked for Sonder's Department Store where she served as assistant to the divisional merchandise manager, September 1977-February 1978; staff assistant, sales manager cosmetic division, February 1976-August 1978 and trainer-personnel assistant, August 1976-August 1979.

In her new position, Ms. Quick will be responsible for coordinating the hospital volunteer programs in accordance with standards set up by the hospital.

She will work with volunteer groups such as the Explorers, Summer Youth, fraternal and social organizations.

Ms. Quick, a native of Washington, D.C. received a bachelor of science degree in elementary education from the D.C. Teachers College in 1973. She has also done graduate studies in special education at Trinity College and D.C. Teachers College, both in Washington.

African crafts fair to be held

The University of Maryland, College Park Black Student Union will sponsor its first African crafts fair, Sept. 10. This event will be held in the campus' Grand Ballroom from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Jewelry, art works, plants and other items will be on sale. Also African drummers, dancers, and an African fashion show will highlight the day's activities.

There are more than 40 million blind persons in the world today, and their numbers are expected to double by the year 2020, reports Helen Keller International.

Long Reach Fair

On Saturday, Sept. 6 from 11 a.m. until 7 p.m., the Long Reach Village Center will be the site of the third annual Long Reach Country Fair. Last year more than 8,000 visitors attended this community festival sponsored by the Long Reach Community Association and the Merchant's Association.

One of the privary purposes of the Fair is providing non-profit groups with the opportunity to raise funds for their projects. Participants are charged no entry fees and all proceeds to the individual organizations.

Among the non-profit-service groups participating in this year's fair are Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, the Community Associations of Oakland Mills, Owen Brown, Wilde Lake and Town Center, the Maryland Toastmistresses Club, the Long Reach Fire Company;

Also, the Parent Teacher Associations of Howard High and Phelps Luck Waterloo and Jeffers Hill Elementary Schools, Scout troups No. No. 610, 611, 614, and 679 the Oakland Mills Band Boosters and the Howard High Lions Pride, the Woman's Health Group, the Long Reach and Oakland Mills Co-op Nursery Schools, the American Lung Association, NOW, the Optimist Club of Ellicott City and many area churches.

—Cowboys

Although it's not widely known, and you never saw it on "Gunsmoke" there were many black cow punchers riding the range when the West was wild.

At the Cowtown Rodeo in Woodstown, N.J., black cowboys, notably Buck Howard, 23, and Jimmy-Lee Walker, 30, compete in such wild and wooly events as bareback riding, saddle bronching and bull riding.

Walker has a dual function he's a contestant and he is also a clown. In the latter role, he distracts snorting, pawing, charging bulls after a cowboys falls off his mount, allowing the cowpoke to scramble to safety.

Most East Coast rodeos are only held on weekends, usually between Memorial Day and Labor Day, because the rings are outside. Riders hold down mundane jobs during the week and when Friday comes, they head for the corrall and rodeo excitement.

Rodeo events are not noted for being sedate Howard injured his foot during a bull riding competition the day AFRO photographer Mark Gail took these pictures), and despite the threat of injury, the cowboys enthusiastically pursue their pastime, sometimes driving hundreds of miles to catch a rodeo on Friday, then repeating the drive the next day for another contest.

When the weekend is over, Buck and Jimmy Lee and their gentle men cohorts ride off — where else? — into the sunset, and Monday morning, it's back to nine-to-five until Friday.
