Dr. Hayman to keynote Men's Day

Dr. Warren C. Hayman Men's Day Keynoter

By Pinnie L. Ross

The 50th wedding anniversary of the Rev. and Mrs. William (Marguerite) Jackson entitled "Until Death Do Us Part" was celebrated recently at the Wilde Lake Interfaith Center.

It was a beautiful setting with flowers adorning the alter. Dr. Harley Flack and Harold E. Clay were the instrumentalists.

Over 350 friends and special guests of the dedicated couple joined in singing the congregational hymn "For God Be Thy Glory."

The Rev. Eugene O. Grove, pastor of the New Frontiers of Faith Baptist Church presided and officiated the special occasion. The Rev. Herbert H. Eaton read the scripture.

All heads were turned to see the fifty-years-married couple march down- the aisle. Mrs. Jackson wore a two-piece beige ensemble.

Four generations participated in the unusual wedding ceremony. Bridesmaids and ushers were the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson's grandchildren and great grandchild.

They were Maris Clay, a senior at Howard University, the oldest granddaughter; Jesse Clay, Jr. a graduate of Howard University, the oldest grandson; Valeria Clay West, a freshman at the University of Maryland; William A. Clay, III, a graduate of Howard University; Denise, Angelia and Leonard Clay, students in the Howard County Public Schools; Kim Brown, an adopted child of the Jackson's from Philadelphia and cute little Lekisha West, great grandchild of the honorees.

Honorary bridesmaids and ushers were close friends of the Jacksons. They were: Mr. and Mrs. George (Jean) Goggins, Mr. and Mrs. Harlis (Almae) McElrath, Mr. and Mrs. Harold (Esther) Vines and Mr. and Mrs. Edward (Mildred) Young.

The matron of honor was Beryl Yvonne Clay, daughter of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and mother of six children. Mrs. Clay is a student at Peabody Institute of Music.

Best Man was her husband Dr. Jesse Paul Clay, an adjunct professor of mathematics and the Academic Budget and Research Officer in the Office of the vice-president of academic affairs at Howard University.

The reaffirmation of marriage took place after the dedication music, "Is Your All At The Altar," after which Edward Hudson sang "How Great Thou Art." The benediction was given by The Rev. Robert Davis.

The highlights came in the next segment, which was a fifty-year recap. It was one of the most unusual wedding rededication scene in attendance felt they had ever witnessed.

An interview with the Rev. and Mr. and Mrs. Jackson done by their son-in-law Dr. Clay was the unusual part of the fifty years recap. Just before the interview there was a second procession with all wedding participants in it. Mrs. Helen Cornick was director of the procession.

After the procession, the honorees took their seats in the center of the platform surrounded on both sides with the four generations and the honorary bridesmaids and ushers.

The interview with the Jacksons included, The Early Years, The Family Life, Their Spiritual Life, The Dynamic Duo, and finally in the interview Words of Wisdom.

Both bride and bridegroom felt that people who are getting married should accept the Lord Jesus Christ, put Christ in the center of

Section Supervisor retires

By Marjorie R. Green

"Thirty-four years and nine months is a long time to be on a job," according to Mrs. Beatrice "Bernice" Johnson, Section Supervisor in the Office of Disability Operations, SSA.

A graduate of Douglass High School in Baltimore, Mrs. Johnson started as a Key Punch Operator shortly after graduating from the Coyle Peters Business School.

She key-punched wage reports eighteen years prior to becoming a supervisor in the same area of work.

Mrs. Johnson states that she has never applied for any job that did not involve key punching because key-punch work is her first love.

She is currently supervising six unit supervisors and approximately 90 Data Transcribers, as they are called in the Office of Disability Operations.

Her last official working day will be Friday, October 31. Mrs. Johnson plans to just take it easy and stay at home with her 81 year old mother for a while unless she gets bored. Her remedy for boredom is to secure a part-time key-punch job.

Mrs. Johnson's coworkers are planning a retirement party at the Holiday Inn Belmont for her on Friday, October 24.

Committee members are Sue Ferguson, Margie Talley and Wilma Myles.

Mrs. Johnson attends Wayland Baptist Church where the Reverend Darneal Johnson is pastor.

Another longtime employee who is planning to turn in her building pass and join the large group of recent SSA retirees is Mrs. Lucille Gibson.

Mrs. Jackie Carter and Mrs. Joyce Blue are heading up a committee making plans to give her a gala send-off at a luncheon in the Metro-west Multipurpose Center on Thursday, October 30.

Send get well cards to Mrs. Avis Fagan, SSA patient at Sinai Hospital.

Send birthday cards you cards to Mrs. Terry. She has returned to home from her doctors care since September.

The NAACP Maryland State Conference will hold its 40th Annual Convention, Friday, October 24 and Saturday, October 25, at the Sheraton Inn in Frederick, Maryland. The convention theme is "NAACP, Come What May, We're Here to Stay" — "The Decade of the Eighties: Wheel in it for Black Marylanders!" The Frederick County Branch is the host chapter.

The Reverend Charles Smith, National NAACP Deputy Director will be the speaker at the Friday evening Awards Banquet. Nathaniel K. Smith is NAACP state president.

their marriage, and be sure you Know the Lord.

After those words of wisdom, Dr. Jesse Clay continued his interview with the extended family. They were: The children and grandchildren, after which he interviewed the honorary bridesmaids and ushers and friends.

Out-of-town friends who expressed their love for the couple were: Daniel Deithis, president of Afro American Missionary Crusade, Inc.; Mrs. Annabel Warfield, recording secretary, women's auxiliary to the AANC Inc.; Mrs. Bena Trapp, president Baptist Ministers Wives of Philadelphia and Rev. Eugene Grove who officiated the Golden Wedding Anniversary.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson were married Sept. 18, 1930 in Philadelphia, Pa., Mrs. Jackson's native home. The Rev. Jackson is an accomplished pianist. Mrs. Jackson a dramatic soprano. The Rev. Jackson is the former interim pastor of the First African Baptist Church in Philadelphia.

Early in the Jackson's marriage, they acquired a mutual affection for the Lord's work. They founded the Happy Hour Fellowship for the evangelization of youth in 1943. The movement led children to Christ, taught them God's word, and built them up in faith, finally the Jackson's had Happy Hour Clubs each week, reaching over 300 children a week.

The Rev. Jackson served for 10 years as the president of the board of directors of the AFRO American Missionary Crusade. Mrs. Jackson [illegible] the Women's Auxiliary for 25 years, AAMC.

Mrs. Jackson, before relocating in Columbia was cited by the AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers as one of the ten outstanding people of the city of Philadelphia, and as the "Woman of the Year" for Outstanding Christian Service, by National Association of Ministers Wives.

The Rev. Jackson served as associate pastor of St. John Baptist Church during the pastorate of Dr. Walter L. Parrish. He was elected as interim pastor from January, 1979 to July, 1979 until he was stricken with a heart attack.

Mrs. Esther Vines stated, "The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson have made a difference in our lives," speaking in reference to herself and her husband Harold. "They are honest, thoughtful and very concerned for other people, never too busy to discuss the Bible. We feel blessed that they have shared their lives with us."

Edward Young, chairman of the trustee board presented a plaque to the Jacksons, inscribed with their favorite six words.

The Jacksons are deeply thankful to God for their most blessed 50th anniversary.

(Curt Note!) God bless you Rev. and Mrs. Jackson. We hope that you will have fifty more happy years together.

Bits and Pieces

Dr. Warren C. Hayman, former Dean of Education, Coppin State College, presently serving as Assistant Policy Fellow Officer of the General Counsel, U. S. Washington, D. C. will be guest speaker at the St. John Baptist Church Celebration Sunday, Oct. 26 at 5 p.m., Interfaith Center.

He received his BS degree from Coppin State College, master's degree from Stanford University and doctorate from Howard University.

A former college instructor, elementary school teacher, school principal, and school superintendent, he has received many honors including being listed in Who's Who Among Black Americans; the Circulus Scholarum Award, Coppin State College and Coppin State College Alumnus of the Year Award.

He is affiliated with several organizations. He is the Eastern Regional Director of Education, a member of Phi Beta Sigma, National Alliance of Black School Educators and the Mid-Peninsula Urban Coalition Board of Directors.

Harlis McElrath is chairperson and Charles Gordon, program chairperson for Men's Day.

Volunteers are always needed to provide assistance to other individuals who, with some support, can continue to remain in their own homes.

If you are able to telephone a person daily, visit someone weekly, help with minor home repairs, or have skills you would enjoy teaching or sharing, we need you.

For further information, call Miriam Carney, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday at 752-7071.

Mrs. Linda Bagley of Philadelphia was the matron of honor.

Best Man was Stephen Allen of Philadelphia.

The Holiday Inn, Harbor City, was the scene for the reception given by the bride's parents following the wedding.

Heading the receiving line was Mrs. Thelma Smith, of Philadelphia grandmother of the bride.

A sit-down dinner was served to the nearly 100 guests who attended, with background music by Levin Custis III.

Out - of - town guests came from Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey, North Carolina and Virginia.

After a wedding trip to Atlantic City, the new Mr. and Mrs. Monson will be at home in the Society Hill Section of Philadelphia, Pa.

Hayward Alfords mark 35th year

35TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION — Mr. and Mrs. Hayward Alford (Dorothy) beam happily during their 35th wedding anniversary celebration hosted at La Fonaine Bleu, Erdman Avenue, on Sept. 28.

On September 28 Mr. and Mrs. Hayward Alford (Dorothy) of E. Chase St. celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary.

They repeated their nuptials, with the Rev. Baxter L. Matthews officiating, and along with many relatives and friends, who gifted them generously, were feted at an elaborate and elegant reception at La Fontaine Bleu, Erdman Ave. with Mrs. Dorothy Hutchins presiding.

There were words of dedication by Mrs. Yvonne C. Smith, remarks of praise and appreciation by their friends and church members.

Roscoe Herring presented them with gold cuff links (for him) and a gold bracelet (for her) from the mayor's office. Herring read a "This is Your Life" segment during which the Alfords were lauded and applauded, each in turn, for excellence in their jobs and in community service.

Mrs. Alford received a Certificate of Honor for 40 years of service at AAANCO, among many other awards.

Mrs. Alford was recognized for her work with Social Services (Day Care Provider), an interim teacher (School For Parents) work with the post office and more recently, with senior citizens.

Nearly 200 guests attended their celebration.
