COPE, new political group, girds for '

By James M. Abraham
AFRO Staff Writer

A blue-ribbon group of black Baltimoreans has banded together in an effort to mount a three-year program aimed at electing the city's first black city-wide officials in 1983.

The organization, which is known as the Council on Political Equality (COPE), will be holding a kick-off banquet Monday, Nov. 24 at the Blue Crest North. Featured speaker at the panel will Gary, Indiana Mayor Richard Hatcher.

The organization has kept its activities to this point under wraps. Although it has been meeting for approximately six months, the upcoming banquet is the first public event held by the group which has been meeting regularly at the Mondawmin offices of CEBO director Sam Daniels. Daniels was unavailable at AFRO press time.

Prominent Baltimoreans in the group include Mary Robinson, Herb Herb Brown, Raymond Boone, Bob Cheeks, Daniels, George Jude, Lenwood Ivey, and a host of others.

The dinner is being underwritten by a coalition of local sororities, fraternities and black benevolent organizations, which may be a hint of the unity that COPE leaders say is necessary to capture one of three available city-wide positions, mayor, president of the City Cunicl and comptroller).

The only elected official on the steering committee of COPE is John Douglass, who has run two unsuccessful campaigns for the comptroller's seat in the past eight years. Many political observers feel that Douglass may be shooting for yet another crack at the seat with the backing of COPE.

The 1980 mayoral race will be wide open, as Mayor Schaefer has hinted that he will not run. However, reliable sources says that the mayor may anoint Robert Embry, former head of the city Dept. of Housing and Community Development and current federal Dept. of Housing and Urban Development official.

Walter Orlinsky, the present president of the City Council, has run for the governorship in the past, and it is no secret that he harbors higher political desires.

Hyman Pressman has served as comptroller for the past 17 years, and, during his last campaign, he has failed to win the whole-hearted endorsements of any major news organs.

300 attend banquet of Baptist Pastor's Conf.

An enthusiastic gathering of nearly 300 persons attended an awards and recognition banquet of the Baptist Pastor's Conference at Martin's West on Nov. 3.

The occasion was to honor outstanding church musicians. Dr. John R. Robinson is president of the conference and Bishop Harold I. Williams was the toastmaster.

In keeping with the theme of the evening, solos were sung by Mrs. Mattie Denmark and Mrs. Ruby Smith of Freewill Baptist Church, "He Looked Beyond My Faults and Saw My Needs." and Mrs. Bernice Higgs of Southern Baptist, "In My Home."

The Rev. Dr. Walter Paige of Faith Baptist Church was the guest speaker and emphasized the need of leaders in the community and even more important in the family. He said, you must act like a leader, be honest and God - fearing. He ended his emotional remarks with one Biblical quote, "If God be for us who can be against us."

Special awards were given to Miss Edith House of Mt. Moriah Baptist for her contribution to community activities in communication through WBAL-TV.

In accepting her award, she credited the AFRO - AMERICAN Newspapers for giving her a start in journalism.

The other special award was presented to the Rev. Allen Jones, pastor of New St. Mark Baptist Church for being a preacher of distinction and a builder of church and community.

The honorees who received certificates as outstanding musicians are Mesdames Mary L. Benn, Earleen Thomas, Mary Bell, Elmer W. Pate, Martha M. Mock, Barbara Goodwin, Dorothy Battle, Cynthia McClary, Deloris Brown, Maxine Jones, Sarah Hunt, Mattie Denmark, Oveta Outlaw, Alice Taylor, Cornette Lee Lance, Sylvia Coffey, Elizabeth Parker, Katie Oliver and Catherine Odis.

Also, Misses Barbara Goodwin, Deloris Brown, Mary Carwile, J. D. Fowler, Paul A. Johnson, Ardie Shaw.

Program participants were Bishop Harold I. Williams, the Rev. William Brown, Maryland Baptist Convention; the Rev. John Wright, president of the Baptist Ministers Evening Conference; Del. Troy Brailey; the Rev. Matthew Silver, president of the United Missionary Baptist Convention, J. Woodard Kelly Sr., Nathaniel Higgs, William Rivers and Dr. John R. Robinson.

Officers of the Baptist Pastor's Conference of Baltimore and Vicinity are Dr. John W. Robinson, First Abyssinian Baptist, president; Dr. Hockery H. Thompson, Friendship Baptist; Arthur J. Benn, second vice-president, pastor of Mount Moriah. Also, the Reverends Shelton A. Fleming, recording secretary and pastor of Mount Olive Baptist Church in Dundalk, Md., T. E. Williams, assistant recording secretary, Wayside Baptist; James S. Williams, financial secretary, New Unity Baptist Church; John L. Leary, treasurer, New Mount Hebron Baptist Church; J. Woodard Kelly Sr., assistant treasurer, pastor Fellowship Baptist; Allen Jones, news commentator, pastor New St. Mark Baptist Church.
