THE LIVING CHURCH

Ordination services held for Rev. Hugh Page

ORDINATION SERVICES for the Right Rev. Hugh Rowland Page Jr. were held recently at St. James Episcopal Church, where he has been assigned to work with the Rev. Donald O. Wilson.

"It was time for a change and I felt I would be more comfortable in the Episcopalian faith. It is important that you pick a denomination you feel comfortable in. The Episcopalian church offered me the opportunity to be creative and growth that I felt I needed.

The above statement was made by the Rev. Hugh Rowland Page Jr., assistant rector to the Rev. Donald O. Wilson, pastor of St. James Church, Lafayette and Arlington Avenue.

More than 400 relatives and friends of Rev. Page attended the ordination services Dec. 30 at St. James Church, Lafayette and Arlington Avenue.

Rev. Page, 24, was assigned to the staff of St. James after graduating from the General Theological Seminary in New York in May 1980. He attended elementary school 107 and graduated from Douglas High School in 1973 cum laude and from Hampton Institute magna cum laude in 1977. Rev. Page will work with young people at St. James.

Speaking of St. James, he said, "We are trying to gather young people who drifted away from the church and try to attract as many of the young people who do not attend a church and live in the area."

A former member of Sharon Baptist Church, where his parents Mr. and Mrs. Hugh (Elaine) Rowland Page Sr., are members, Rev. Page stated, "The Episcopalian church was the greatest opportunity to develop as a Christian and a black person."

He said he plans to start a Christian education program at St. James. The Right Rev. David K. Leighton Sr., Bishop of Maryland, ordained Rev. Page to the sacred order of Priests in ceremonies, solemn and resplendent.

Many priests from the Diocese and from other areas were in attendance and assisted in the laying on of hands.

Participants in the liturgy were the Rev. Canon Junius F. Carter, rector, The Church of the Holy Cross Pittsburgh, Pa., who was the guest speaker.

St. Mary's Seminary offers health care ministry course

During the spring semester at St. Mary's Seminary and University, the School of Theology's Education for Christian Ministries program will present "Theology for Health Care Ministry," a 14 week course offered annually in conjunction with the Division of Health Affairs of the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

The health care course, directed to those interested in parish or institutional-based health care ministry, offers the theological component necessary for certification by the United States Catholic Conference.

Open to pastoral care personnel, church workers, and lay religious persons wishing to pursue theological foundations in health care ministry, the philosophy behind the course maintains that caring for ill persons involves more than treating their physical illnesses.

According to Dr. Eleanor Lewis, "Christian caring involves mediating the healing and saving power of Jesus Christ so that whole persons may be restored to health or creatively resigned to limitations."

Topics which will be examined in the course include suffering, the problem of evil, theology of lament, sacraments and their ministry and prayer and spirituality.

Classes in the "Theology for Health Care Ministry" course will be held on Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. Jan. 27 to May 12 at St. Mary's Seminary and University in Roland Park.

For completion of the course, attendance, active participation in sessions, and completion of a project are required. Fulfillment of the requirements qualifies the participant for three undergraduate credits. The registration deadline is Jan. 16.

'First' priest ordained in Orthodox-Greek church

The first American of African ancestry to be ordained a priest in the Eastern Orthodox Greek Catholic Church for ministry within the United States, the Rev. Fr. Deacon Charles Homer Riley, was ordained Dec. 28, by his Eminence Archbishop Metropolitan Trevor, Primate of the Holy Eastern Orthodox Church of the United States.

The ordination rite took place during the Pontifical Divine Liturgy at the Cathedral Parish of the Holy Resurrection, 1611 Wallace St., in Philadelphia.

While African men have trained for the Orthodox priesthood at American seminaries and have been ordained in the United States, their ministries were assigned to them to serve on the continent of Africa.

Father Riley will be the first black man to serve within the United States, and has been appointed by the archbishop as his vicar of the canonically erected African American Apostolate of the Holy Eastern Orthodox Church of the United States of which the Orthodox Catholic Archdiocese of Philadelphia is the metropolitan see.

Well known in religious and civic circles in Philadelphia for many years, and for his active role in activism for civil rights and social economic justice, Father Riley came to the Orthodox Church as an ordained Baptist minister after his studies for an M.B.A. degree, and at present he is pursuing graduate studies in Holy Scripture at St. Charles Seminary.

Father Riley was received into the Orthodox Church in 1979, tonsured a monk and ordained to the diaconate in 1980.

Presenting priest, concelebrant at the ordination liturgy, and preacher at the Sunday ceremonies was the Rev. Prof. Edward F. James, Ph.D., professor of linguistics at the University of MMaryland and pastor of Theophany of Our Lord Eastern Orthodox Parish, Washington, D. C.

Father James lead a delegation from Theophany parish in Washington to attend the ordination.

The church which Father Riley serves as associate pastor at its cathedral parish, and whose African American Apostolate he will direct, was canonically erected in 1972 by the Synod of Bishops of the Russian Orthodox Greek Catholic Church of North America, following a mandate of the late Holiness Tikhon.

The church was established to serve English speaking Orthodox Greek Catholics and as a missionary jurisdiction to serve all Americans, regardless of ethnic origin or national heritage. Its lines of Apostolic succession proceed from Macarius, Metropolitan of Moscow; Archbishop Aftimios, Ofiesh, of Brooklyn, first primate of the American Church and Archbishop Sophronios of Los Angeles, as well as from other bishops of the Ukrainian, Albanian Greek, Byelorussian and Russian lines.

Since 1933, the church has had no ties with any foreign body. Since the election and consecration nearly 10 years ago of Metropolitan Trevor as Primate, a large part of its missionary thrust and social activism has been directed toward ethnic and economic minorities.

Dr. Huel D. Perkins speaks at Enon's MLK luncheon

Dr. Huel D. Perkins will be the speaker at a freedom luncheon on Jan. 10, 1 p.m. at Enon Baptist Church, Edmondson Avenue and Schroeder Street for the fourth Martin Luther King birthday gala at Enon.

Dr. Perkins has served on numerous local, state and national boards and committees and presently serves as vice-chairman of the Louisiana Committee for the Humanities.

He has been the recipient of a Danforth Teacher Grant, a National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowship and was selected as one of 12 scholars to participate in the American-Caribbean Scholars program in 1974.

The purpose of the luncheon is to explore the spiritual, social and political dimensions of Martin Luther King's dream and to keep his dream alive by making it a dream for the Eighties.

Music will be by Dunbar High School choir directed by Hugh Carey and lunch will be served by Mrs. Lillie Wiggins and the Willing Workers of Enon.

Dr. Perkins has served as director of the Division of Music at Southern University, as well as dean of the college of arts and humanities at the same institution.

He is now assistant vice chancellor for Academic Affairs at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge, Louisiana where he also holds the rank of professor of humanities in the division of honors and interdisciplinary studies.
