Parade Sunday

On Sunday, May 10, 1981, the streets and sidewalks of Baltimore will be dazzling with the sights and sounds of the largest parade ever to hit Charm City. The Preakness Parade of Champions will kick off Preakness Festival Week, 1:30 p.m. from Mt. Vernon Place to the News American Building.

More than 4,000 people will join Mayor William Donald Schaefer and Governor Harry Hughes in the Preakness Parade of Champions. The parade will begin at Mt. Vernon Place, proceed south on Charles Street, continue east on Pratt Street and terminate at the News American Building.

Spanning the 1¼ mile route will be champions ranging from athletes, and beauty queens to aerodynamic wonders. There will be first-rate high school bands from Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and North Carolina competing for several awards and a special trophy given by Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburgers.

Pom pom groups, clowns, floats, balloons, horses and a unique marching kazoo band are but a few of the special units adding to the color and excitement of this Mother's Day Preakness Festival Week celebration.

Miss Preakness, Miss Baltimore's Best, Miss Maryland finalists and the Senior Citizen's Preakness Queen will bring glitter to an already brillant event.

Mothers, mothers, everywhere, a salute to Mother's Day and an exploration of motherhood in art will be the focus of a tour and workshop at the Walters Art Gallery on May 9 at 11:30 a.m. This event will be presented to children as well as an opportunity to make Mother's Day cards for that special holiday.

Children will want to hear the story of Solomon's Judgement in which a mother chose to give her child rather than have it killed, or the story of Demeter, the mother who braved the Gates of Hades for the sake of her daughter, Persephone. These and other stories will come to life as Joan Feldman from the Education Department leads children on a quest through the Gallery.

Moms and dads may take their own tour of favorite Gallery areas while the children are at the workshop. The Event is free and begins at the Centre St. entrance. Registration may be made by calling 547-9000, ext. 45.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC and appreciative audience attended the opening night performance of the National Dance Company of Sengal at the downtown D.C. Warner Theater, March 5. Ritual dances, like the one above, were among the outstanding acts. The company will give performances through May 10.

Reception for sculptors

Four sculptors exhibiting at Gallery 409 are from (L) Herbert C. Lee, Randall Craig, Clark Mester and Harold McWhinnie.

Works by Herbert C. Lee, Randall Craig, Clark Mester, and Harold McWhinnie are on exhibit in the Main Gallery, while in the downstairs Gallery there will be an exhibition entitled "Brass on Black" by Glenn S. Tarter.

Herbert Lee was born in Baltimore. He received his B.S. degree from Morgan State University and is presently completing his M.A. at Morgan State. Mr. Lee has exhibited locally as well as the Pennsylvania State University. Mr. Lee has also exhibited at the United States Treasury Department. In 1978, he served as Artist in Residence at Bowie State College where he completed the Oliver Multi-Purpose Center Art Commission.

Clark Mester is a native Marylander, and was educated at Dematha Catholic High School. He received his B.S. degree from the Villanova University outside Philadelphia, and his M.A. degree from Morgan State University. His M.S.A. degree he received from Maryland Institute College of Art.

Glenn Tarter exhibits Brass on Black Velvet at Gallery 409.

Randall Craig a Baltimorean is presently teaching art at the University of Maryland College Park. Randall Craig has exhibited his sculpture in the most prestigious galleries in the country which includes the Tyler School of Art and Woodmere Galleries, both in Philadelphia, as well as the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

Harold McWhinnie hails from Chicago, where he studied at the Art Institute of Chicago and later received his M.F.A. degree from the University of Chicago. Mr. McWhinnie teaches Art Education at the University of Maryland College Park. Exhibitions include the Maryland Bi-Annual Exhibition at the Baltimore Museum of Art, at the Academy of Arts in Eastern Maryland, and the Art League in Alexandria, Virginia.

Glenn S. Tarter works with Brass which he transposes onto black velvet. He has exhibited in the Baltimore area and has collectors as far a-field as Virginia and the New Jersey areas. On two occasions, Mr. Tarter has had two one month long exhibitions at the Fidelity Federal Bank, and recently at the St. James Church in celebration of the church's 155th Anniversary.

A reception will be held from 3:30-5:00 p.m. at Gallery 409.

Night Scene Seen

By Bob Matthews

Don't know whether or not you have noticed, but two avenues in Baltimore have become the great white way on the night scene in a minor way.

Take Frederick Ave. There is Dutch's Tavern in the 2000 block. They call themselves South Baltimore's meeting place, and feature a D. J. on weekends.

Next comes the Club Al Ha at 2105, which once was the headquarters for the Left Bank Jazz Society, and is still doing business 7 days a week.

In the 2300 block is The Lighthouse Inn which features what is called "Soul of the South diners" and have live entertainment on Thursday nights.

Moving right along, we come to Strawberry Hill at 3214 which is under new ownership and claim service of exotic drinks in a uniquely pleasant atmosphere.

The other thoroughfare replete with a plethora of night scene places is Harford Rd. starting with Henri's in the 2300 block. They have live entertainment on weekends, with a jazz set Sunday afternoons.

At 2014 is the Personality Club which is usually a B.Y.O.B. operation, but features live entertainment most of the time. This weekend for example the Williams Brothers are the featured artists.

Although not on Harford Rd. proper, the Castaway Bar is directly off the 2100 block—1242 Darley Ave.—and their feature is oldies and goodies by Ready Freddie on Thursdays and Sundays.

In the 2300 block is Finnegan's Bar which once again features live entertainment on weekends.

And the New Outer Limits is at 2546 and it features what they call Disco Days on weekends.

This Sunday is Mother's Day, and naturally a lot of the clubs are having special affairs to mark the occasion.

For example, the Aquarius Blue lounge at 2632 Ashland Ave. is holding their first Mother's Day Extravaganza from 5 to 10 p.m. with prizes for the best dressed mother. Ticket prices include free food and drink.

Duck's Black Satin in the 4500 block Reisterstown Rd. is holding a Mother's Day Party beginning at 5 p.m., and knowing Duck and his cohorts it will be a memorable occasion—their special affairs always are.

Out in the 2100 block E. North Ave., The Bird Cage is holding what they are calling a Mother's day extravaganza beginning at 8 p.m., and featuring all male dancers.

The celebration at Sonny's New Twin Pines at 20 S. Caton Ave. will have the George Connors Organization with Jessie the Ventriloquist.

At the Mall Lounge at 439 Old Town Mall, the celebration will take place on Monday beginning at 9 a.m. with free gifts, a raffle and assorted other goodies available.

Naturally there are myriad other Mother's Day occurrences on the scene, but this is just a sampling.

This Sunday was the ideal time to present a romantic singer, and the Left Bank Jazz Society has done just that. The featured attraction for this Sunday is singer Arthur Prysock and the Red Prysock trio.

There is no doubt about Arthur's appeal to the feminine listeners, so a goodly crowd is expected. It would do well to get their early for choice seats.

Actually, this is a time for the many people who have been saying they intend to visit a LBJS session to be indoctrinated. After all there are some people who like Red Prysock's jokes.

Gallery 409 concert

Rebecca Sydnor, soprano will give a recital at Gallery 409, Sunday, May 10 at 5 p.m.

Rebecca Sydnor, a native of Baltimore, is a graduate of Towson State University. She has been a prize winner in the Marian Anderson Vocal Competitions, a finalist in the Metropolitan Opera Regional Auditions, a recipient of the Mu Phi Epsilon Music Sorority's Outstanding Senior Award, first place winner in the National Assocation of Teachers of Singing, a Hermitage Foundation Scholarship for the Arts and was nominated for Who's who Among American Colleges and Universities.

Miss Sydnor has appeared in various concerts, recitals and operatic performances. She has performed the operatic roles as Laetitia in "The Old Maid and the Thief", Lucy in "The Telephone" both by Menotti; she sang the role of Susannah in "Susannah" by Floyd and the role of Rosalinda in "Die Fledermaus" by Strauss; she has also sung the role of Puccini's "Tosca" in the opera of the same name. The critics commented, "She moved about the stage easily. She had a real dramatic flair for the part and sang confidently. Of particular note was the celebrated "Vissi d'arte" aria in the second art".

Miss Sydnor was recently accepted to study at the American Institute of American Studies in Austria this summer. While there, she will refine her art and audition for apprenticeship in various opera houses in Europe. She is presently pursuing a Master of Music Degree in Performance at the University of Maryland where she has been awarded a Fellowship and a scholarship from the Chevy Chase Women's Club. She is also soprano soloist at Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church. Currently, she is studying with Leon Fleming.
