We Need Prayer headquarters 1st aanual banquet

90 citizens honored for community service

FIRST AWARD BANQUET - The Rev. Dr. Eddie R. Wilson Jr., pastor of Leadenhall Baptist Church presided at the We Need Prayer awards banquet. Shown with Rev. Wilson are the Rev. Mrs. Mary Antoinette Phillips, associate minister of Gillis Memorial Christian Community Church and founder of We Need Prayer Headquarters and the Rev. C. C. Alexander.

"She is called a mother and a sister, but most important she is called a friend. She has had seven strokes and each time she bounced back because she believes in the Lord."

Those were the words of Dr. Uthman Ray. He was speaking of the Rev. Mrs. Mary Antoinette Phillips, founder of the We Need Prayer Headquarters at 912 North Gilmore Street. Rev. Phillips, who is also associate minister at Gillis Memorial Christian Community Church and acting assistant pastor at New Bethel Christian Community church sponsored an awards banquet on May 15.

The banquet was held at Blue Crest North with nearly 400 guests attending. Rev. Phillips said the purpose of the banquet was to say "thank you to the many people who have been so kind and donated their services to the We Need Prayer Headquarters." Each honoree received an engraved plague from Rev. Phillips.

"Why Worry When You Can Pray," is the theme of the six year old prayer headquarters that is available to the public 24 hours for prayer and aid to the needy.

The Rev. Dr. Eddie Wilson who presided at the banquet described Rev. Phillips as "The little one with the big job." For six years, Rev. Phillips has taken the We Need Prayer headquarters to the open air in Druid Hill Park for the annual altar call service. This year's service is scheduled for August 1, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Good music and mini sermons were heard by those who participated on the program. "Amen" and "Praise the Lord" could be heard when Del. Larry Young, Mrs. Minnie Washington and Mrs. Cecelia Williams Bryant spoke on We Need Prayer.

There was also hand clapping and foot patting when songs were sung by Deacon Tommie Roberts, Mrs. Katie Jackson, the Rev. Edna Isaac and the Dunbar Community Senior High School choir.

The home of Rev. Phillips has always been open for prayer. She said her mother, the late Mrs. Mary E. Hawkins always had prayer in her home for her neighbors and friends.

"This prayer headquarters is self supported and non profit. We don't take offerings. Donations are accepted. We are here to service the people. We are here to instruct those who wish to learn the word of God and to bring into any home by telephone a prayer headquarters with funds from her disability check.

The third annual prayer breakfast will be held July 26, 9 a.m. at St. Johns AME Church, 810 Carrollton Ave., where the Rev. Benjamin S. Foust is pastor. The Rev. Dr. Walter S. Thomas pastor of New Psalmist Baptist Church will be the speaker.

Other program participants were the Rev. Dr. Theodore C. Jackson Jr., Mrs. Erla McKinnon, co-chairperson of the banquet; the Revl Agnes Alston, founder of Interdenominational Women Ministers Alliance, Dr. Uthman Ray.

Honorees were the Rev. John R. Bryant, the Rev. Alfred C. D. Vaughn, Pam Widgeon, Del. Larry Young, Roscoe Herring, who represented the mayor and presented Rev. Phillips an award from Mayor Schaefer for her community service.

Also, Rev. Laura Stevenson, Rev. Dorothy Johnson, Evangelist Esther Melcher, Erla McKinnon, Rev. Theodore C. Jackson, Leslie B. Wood, Rev. Benjamin S. Foust, Dr. William Adams, Councilwoman Victorine Adams, Lloyal Randolph, Rep. Parren J. Mitchell.

Also, Rev. William Johnson, Operation Champ, Jim Everett, Charles N. Wells, Vernon Sheffey, Lillian Evans, Rev. Virginia Wise.

Other honorees were Rev. Helen Alexander, Raymond Wise, Community Ensemble, Mr. and Mrs. William C. March, Tommie Roberts, the Rev. Maurice Blackwell, Katie Jackson, Sylvia Person, Pauline Wells Lewis, Naomi Durant, Al Stewart, Mary Clayborne.

Also, Rev. Edward Miller, Rev. Leander Brown, Rev. Carl Washington, Rev. Olin P. Moyd, Rev. Harold A. Carter, Rev. Luther Carroll, Rev. Eddie R. Wilson Jr., Alexander Johnson, Rev. Agnes Alston.

Also, Pastor Ruth Cummings, Gwendolyn Bruce, Elon Edwards, Louis Britt, Clarence Johnson Sr., James Dandridge, Paul Morris, John Oliver, Juanita Holland, Roland Joe Smith, Bikl Young Phillip Smith, John Luke, Inspirational Choir of Gillis, Rose Hill, Clifford Johnson, Rev. Julia Harrison, Charlotte Henderson, Mother Gladys Mosley.

Mother Mary Warren, Janie Campbell, Connie Bennett, Rev. Lillian Cornish, Evelyne Lambson, Susie Peters, Nancy Burrie, Doris Taylor, Gertrude Thompson, Marie Walker Robinson, Rev. Monroe Saunders Jr., Rev. Mary Heary, Rev. William C. Calhoun, Edward Phillips Jr., Lemmel Mosley, Russell White, Leah White, Shelley Stokes, Karen Schley, Mr. and Mrs. Christmas, Rev. Wynora Cook, Dr. Elijah Saunders, Dr. Uthman Ray, Bernie Alston, Leander Brown, Baltimore Community Ensemble, Rev. Leander Brown, Bernard Oceanist Florist and Alston and Hodges Florist.

HEAD TABLE GUESTS at the first We Need Prayer banquet held May 15 at Blue Crest North, were Del. Larry Young and Mrs. Mary Carter Smith.

Can't keep it to themselves

Young people of inner city church to 'Walk for Jesus'

By Sue Williams
AFRO Staff Writer

What is it you do when you're young, a member of a large church, and filled with the spirit of God, so much so that you have to do something, say something, in order to get the feeling out? You evangelize.

The answer, it seems, has come quite as a matter of fact to the youth of Bethel AME Church, some of whom will be participating in the "Walk for Jesus" this Saturday.

The idea of the walk came to key organizers Maxine Wallace and Zena Carvens when they were approached by the chairperson of Women's Day on finding something for the youth to do in order to feel part of the annual celebration.

"They took the idea and ran," bubbled Ruth Travis, chairperson of Women's Day this year and also a physical education teacher at Lake Clifton High School.

"I really didn't tell them to do anything in particular, I just said 'do something.' And this is what they've come up with."

Travis said that at least 80 young people thus far have signed up for the walk, which will begin at 9 a.m. at the church and make its way down to the Inner Harbor and back.

Men, women and children, some very old and some very young, have signed up. The enthusiasm has apparently spread to some of the young adult men who have historically been reluctant to become "too involved" in church activities. The light of Christ, it seems, has become too bright for anyone to ignore.

The walkers will be passing out tracts, pamphlets which explain why it is is better to live with Christ than without Him, along the way. And they will be doing it with a new boldness that has infused the young people throughout the congregation.

"I'm just so happy," said Travis. "People have come up to me, worried about this and about that.

"But it's alright, It's alright whatever happens. When kids doing stuff like this, how could it be any other way but alright?"

Walkers will be raising money towards Women's Day at Bethel, which will culminate this Sunday after three months of activities. Pledges have been coming in, apparently in direct proportion with the enthusiasm with which the youth are crying out the name of Jesus.

"I'm rejoicing," said Young People's Department Director Anne Lightner, "that they're doing this. I'm praying that their walk will be a witness to the other young people they see along the way.

"It's exciting to see young people doing something positive for Christ," she said, "because I see so many other young people who are not doing anything positive at all — for Christ or for themselves.

I'm rejoicing...that they're doing a service for he Lord," she said.

If you ask me

95 years old

Happy birthday greetings to Mrs. Lorraine Dorsey, 5502 Waterloo Rd., Columbia, Md., 21045. She observed her 95th birthday on Monday, May 18.

A pioneer resident of Jonestown in Howard County, Md., she is a shining example that you do not have to become aged when you get older in years.

She attends her church regularly, (Mt. Pisgah AME in Columbia), reads, news and enjoys activities with senior citizens' groups. Isn't that wonderful!

Mrs. Dorsey lives with her daughter, and son-in-law, Lorraine and Edward Sanders. They just adore her, and she cherishes them.

She marked her birthday at their home with family members.

Others present were: son and daughter-in-law, James T. and Ruth Dorsey. Another daughter, Elaine Nash, resides in Philly.

Cuff notes: Mrs. Dorsey's husband, John H. Dorsey, died in 1946. For years, he was chauffeur for late police commissioner, Gaither.

Jonestown, an historic area, assumed the Columbia mailing location and identification with the arrival of the new town of Columbia.

In Nassau

More cuff: Son, James Dorsey mentioned above, is the deputy grand-master of Md.'s Prince Hall Masons. He and other Masonic leaders were in Nassau last week for the annual Grand Masters' Conference.

Others there from Baltimore — Grand Master and Mrs. Samuel T. Daniels, Grand Treasurer David Scott and Mrs. Scott; and from Nanticoke, Md., Grand Senior Warden Benny Waters.

Graduations

This is a happy time for high school and college grads.

If you attend a graduation, you'll come away inspired and heartened. You hear so much about young people in trouble and not nearly enough about those who are working hard and making it, often overcoming great odds.

Happiest moments at graduation came when the preliminary fan fare is over and the grads are awarded diplomas.

U. of Md.

At College Park on Friday morning, U. of Md. graduated 3,600. Exercises were in Cole Field House, packed to capacity, 15,000 plus.

It was exciting and fascinating to watch the students, to glow with relatives as they spied a grad and waved or yelled, and later to watch them as they embraced after the exercises.

Sarbanes

Applause for students and speakers was defeaning. Md's U.S. Senator Paul S. Sarbanes gave the address and received an honorary degree.

We liked his advice to grads:

"As educated citizens you have a special responsibility to attend to the proper functioning of the society in which you live and which nourishes and supports you.

"Education carries with it responsibility . . . my own deep conviction is that over the course of a lifetime, you will find it difficult to dissociate your own personal happiness from the well-being of the society in which you live.

"You cannot live your own life in isolation. You need to have a sense of community, a sense of institution . . ."

What appeared to be about 10 percent of the grads were black. Spied in the group receiving doctorate in special education, June Lautrice Harris.

Adult grads

Next day, Saturday, University College at University of Md., held commencement. Most of these grads were adults who are working, who have reared families and returned to the classroom.

This graduation, in the Adult Education Center, did not have the enthusiasm displayed at the larger ceremony on Friday but observers were impressed by the seriousness of the participants.

Here again, a significant number of grads were black.

Among those receiving master's was Patricia L. Richardson.

Bachelor degree winners included: Samuel Atkins, Norman Bergem, Rimothy P. Besse, Betty L. Bradford, Angela J. Brown, Cassandra W. Brown, Pamela A. Burdi, Roy A. Burke, Juanita C. Burgess, Wayne A. Chasen, Sianne L. Cheek;

Also, Patricia Dade, Jacqueline A. Savia, Lewis J. Deluco, Velma M. DeShields, Christopher H. Figgs, Dorothy C. Fardner, Luris D. Greene, Patrice G. Hammond, Edward B. Hightower, Thomas R. Hilson, Inell Hughes, Michael J. Jones, Lucy H. Kelly;

Coppin

Coppin State College's 81st exercises Sunday afternoon at Civic Center had many heartwarming moments.

President Calvin Burnett unable to get Gov. Hughes and other state officials to speak, opted to give the message himself. It was first rate.

And very timely too. It marked the end of his first decade as president and provided him an opportunity to speak before a captive audience.

He told them: "Coppin may not have the most spacious buildings, equipment, but Coppin does have some of the best professors who have been your friends."

Observing that Coppin had prepared them to fight intellectually, especially when others say a college education is not worth anything, he expressed the hope that grads would . . . fight for equal rights.

He observed that black colleges were designed to make life better for its people and still are one of America's most notable developments.

He termed institutional racism, "one of the most malignant sicknesses in our society," and implored his listeners to work, used a Biblical quote from Isaish — urging to eliminate it . . .

Highlights

Music by the college choir, directed by Henry N. Freeman, was excellent. Charles Alston accompanied. Their special arrangement of the black national anthem, "Lift Every Voice And Sing," was well received. Maurice Murphy is associate choir director.

Moving: Members of the Coppin Class of 1981, were present to cheer David Hill, who dropped out of the class and went to work as a railroad postal clerk.

After his retirement, he returned to college. He received his degree on Sunday with 226 members of the class of 1981.

Present and a member of the class — State Senator Verda F. Welcome.

Fifty-one-year error was corrected during the Coppin exercises.

Mrs. Frances F. Parsley Johnson, was given a replica of her diploma. Because of a fluke back in 1930, she never received her diploma. Yvonne Addison, president of the alumni association, walked to the row where Mrs. John was seated in a wheel chair and presented it to her, amid cheers of the audience.

MOBILE BANKS AT ADVANCE — The National Organization of Black Law Enforcement Executives, (NOBLE), recently opened a checking account at Advance Federal Savings and Loan Association. Advance president, Dr. W. O. Bryson Jr., accepts deposit from Bishop L. Robinson, Baltimore city deputy police commissioner, who is national president. The group holds its 5th annual conference and expo in Baltimore's Convention Center July 14. During the convention students interested in criminal justice will be awarded the Major McNeal Brockington Criminal Justice Foundation Scholarships.

Tributes

Coppin's president emeritus, Dr. Parlett L. Moore, was seated on the platform. He called the correction of this error, "a tribute to the administration of Dr. Burnett."

More reunion: — Members of Coppin's 1967 class were present. They were first to finish at Coppin's present North Ave. campus and the first to complete a four-year course.

The audience responded warmly to greetings from Leonard Valentine and Charles Gibbs, presidents of the Student Government Association, day and night divisions, and from Pamela Carter, representing the senior class.

There were amens during invocation by Rev. Marie Phillips Braxton, associate minister Allen AME Church. She had entire audience hold hands as she offered special prayers for families in Atlanta "whose slain children will never know a college graduation."

Morgan U.

Big event this coming Sunday, May 24, is Morgan State University graduation. It is 6 p.m., at Civic Center.

President Andrew Billingsley will give degrees to 1,085 grads. Undergrad degrees total 919.

In graduate area, 1 gets a master's in architecture; 3 in city and regional planning; 70 in business administration and 92 get masters of science or arts.

Lerone Bennett, the historian and Ebony editor, is speaker, will get honorary degree.

So will a husband and wife. Abram and Lillian Adler of Yale U. For 25 years, they have supported Morgan's art gallery.

Brig. General Hazal Winifred Johnson, Army Nurses Corps, first black woman to achieve that rank, also gets degree.

Cuff note: Morgan regents had hoped to bestow honorary degrees on another husband and wife team, Ossie Davis and Ruby Dee, the actors.

Their new commitments to public broadcasting prevented them from accepting at this time.

People

People doing nice things for others. Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity brothers in Annapolis honor two deserving neighbors on Saturday evening at Bay Ridge Inn.

Mrs. Eloise Richardson, the library-therapist at Crownsville State Hospital, and the Rev. Floyd Snowden, associate minister of Asbury Methodist Church are the honorees.

Odd Couples, a group of professional and business couples who meet regularly to enjoy each other's company, will entertain friends on Saturday afternoon. Their party is at Blue Crest.

Top drawer social event in our town this weekend is the 51st meeting of Northesteners.

Some 200 members and mates are headquartered here at the downtown Hilton for a weekend of festivities.

Theme

The host chapter, headed by Mae Wright Peck, has used as convention theme, Hi - Ho Baltimore - Northesteners - Baltimore's Best.

Already here for the three-day convention are members and mates from along the Eastern Seaboard and mid - West.

Nice gesture: The group invited local presidents of national clubs to join them at their Saturday afternoon Day at the races at Pimlico.

Invited are the presidents of the Carats, Continentals, Epicureans, Girlfriends, JUGS, Links, Moles, Pierieans and Smart Set.

Escorts of members, called Lords, have special activities for those interested in golf. Col Richard Lee is chair of the Lords' activities.

Dr. Clarence Monroe, Ralph Smith and Dr. Julius Taylor are offering prizes for the golf tournament.

Highlight of the convention weekend is the Saturday evening dinner dance when the group presents a cash gift to a Baltimore charity.

Cuff note: Northesteners, were formerly known as Gay Northesteners, have been one of the most prestigious clubs in black social world, mainly because they have not stopped at enjoying themselves but have used their monies to support community projects.

This is the first time the group has met in Baltimore since 1967.

confab

Another Saturday event, open to the public, free of charge, is the Economic Development Seminar sponsored by Baltimore chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

Del. John Douglass will be the keynote speaker at the session to be held at the Lower Park Heights Community Center, 3939 Reisterstown Rd., from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Interesting workshop session will be the one on finance and investment planning led by Dr. W. O. Bryson Jr., president of the Advance Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Dr. Eliza Pearl Shippen, co-founder in 1913 of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority was buried Thursday from Andrew Rankin Chapel at Howard University. She was the last survivor of eight brothers and sisters of the late Rev. John M. Shippen Jr. and Mrs. Eliza F. Spottswood.

Other workshops will deal with consumer, business and social issues.

Church note: Heritage United Church of Christ is continuing its 16th anniversary celebration.

Last Sunday, Ms. Essie Hughes, retired city school exec., was fellowship breakfast speaker.

This Sunday (May 24) at 5 p.m., the church will have a calendar tea sponsored by the church's Watch Flocks.

Celebration culminates May 31, when the speaker will be the Rev. Porter W. Phillips of Pittsburgh, father of the pastor, the Rev. Wendell Phillips.

More people

Prayers please for Dr. Lonnie Greene who underwent surgery at Hopkins Tuesday for blood clots in the legs. He is in stable condition and in Intensive Care at this writing.

Glad - you're better cards to Dr. Harvey Webb, director of Constant Care Community Health Center.

He was hospitalized last week, is now recuperating at home.

The Sewell family held its annual reunion on Sunday at St. Mark United Methodist Church on Dorsey Rd., in Hanover, Md.

Children of the late John and Mary Martha Watts Sewell and their offsprings, participated in a day - long service of worship, thanksgiving and fellowship.

Particularly moving, the written history of Mary and John and their early struggles as tenant farmers, first in Charles County in the 1890's, and
